Basketball Star Bows His Head

Sherman White, high-scoring Long Island University basketball player named on many All-America lineups last season, stands with head bowed in a New York police station, Feb. 20, as he was booked with two L.I.U. teammates on charges of accepting bribes to "lose or try to lose" basketball games. They were charged with accepting $3,000 to lose the L.I.U-Kansas State game last Dec. 2. L.I.U. won, 60-59, after holding a wide early lead. White was named basketball's "player of the year" in a sporting news poll and is regarded by many experts as one of the greatest players in the country.

Johnston Renews Efforts To Repair Wage Control

Long Island U. Quits All Sports

Also Cancels Four Final Basketball Games This Season

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Long Island University, a casualty of basketball's biggest gambling scandal, has quit all intercollegiate sports.

The Brooklyn school, which for many years had one of the nation's leading basketball teams, said last night that its action also includes the cancellation of this season's four remaining games, including two scheduled for Madison Square Garden.

L.I.U. President T. W. Metcalfe acted a few hours after three LIU star players and a former team captain were charged with taking $18,500 to throw seven big games, including a National Invitation Tournament contest last year.

These four, plus three top performers of the national champion CCNY team and a player from New York University, admitted obtaining a total of $25,000 in bribes, authorities said.

Arrested Athletes

The arrested athletes are:

Sherman White, 6-foot 7-inch LIU forward who was leading the country in scoring and rated by many the best collegiate player today.

LeRoy Smith, LIU playmaker and set shot artist.

Adolph Bigos, LIU's ace rebounder.

Ed Warner, star of CCNY's national champions.

Ed Roman, leading CCNY point scorer.

Al Roth, CCNY playmaker.

Harvey (Connie) Shaff, a leading New York University scorer.

Ed Gard, LIU team captain last season.

The district attorney's office said all eight received their bribes from Salvatore T. Sollazzo, a Manhattan jewelry manufacturer and ex-convict.

Staples Elected Bank President

Brick Manufacturer Is to Succeed the Late W. H. Van Etten

Alva S. Staples, brick manufacturer, was elected president of the Kingston Trust Company at a meeting of the board of directors held Monday. Mr. Staples became vice president of the bank in 1941 succeeding the late William H. Van Etten who was elevated from the vice presidency to president at the death of Philip Eltinge.

Ernest Le Fevre, who has held the position of an assistant treasurer, was elected vice president to fill the vacancy created by the election of Mr. Staples to the presidency.

Arthur A. Davis, secretary and treasurer, was elected a director to fill out the unexpired term of the late William H. Van Etten.

DiSalle Tries to Give Backing to Price Control Because of Boosts

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston today renewed his efforts to repair the wage control program by luring labor leaders back into it.

At the same time, Price Director Michael V. DiSalle was busy defending the price control program against the criticism of labor leaders and others who are disappointed because prices haven't stopped rising.

Concerning wages:

Johnston scheduled new talks with union leaders and members of the Wage Stabilization Board. The future form of the board was at stake. So was the future of a proposed wage formula, now on Johnston's desk awaiting his action.

Would Allow Raises

The formula would allow employers to grant raises up to 10 per cent above the level of Jan. 15, 1950. It got the votes of the public and industry members of the board last week but the three labor members voted "no" and resigned. Yesterday they issued their dissenting opinion. They said the formula has the effect of continuing the Jan. 25 wage freeze. The board majority says the formula would unfreeze the wages of the vast majority of workers, enabling them to "catch up" with the leaders.

Last night, after a day of meetings, Johnston told reporters "we are trying to find the basis for complete labor support" of a wage policy. He said that in a democracy, the tripartite (labor-industry-public) system is the best. He spoke of the board in this manner:

"We have a tripod with one leg gone. We have got to repair that."

Johnston didn't say whether, to make these repairs, he would change the wage formula in labor's favor before approving it. He left that question wide open.

Experiment Fails

Philadelphia, Feb. 21 (AP)—A woman whose blood stream was channeled into a kidney taken from the body of a traffic accident victim died today eight hours after an unprecedented experiment to purify her blood and save her life. The ill-fated experiment failed shortly after noon. The kidney was removed from the body of Wayne H. Deveney, 30, of York, Pa., a truck driver killed before 4 a. m., today in an accident. Less than an hour later the blood of the woman patient—identified by Frankford Hospital doctors as Mrs. Richard Irvine, 32, Philadelphia—was flowing through the borrowed kidney.

Executions Postponed

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—The executions of two convicted killers, which had been scheduled for tomorrow night, have been postponed, pending re-argument of their case before the Court of Appeals. Governor Dewey has granted John J. King of Queens and Richard Power of Huntington, L. I., a respite until the week of March 5.

Offices to Close

Offices and departments in the city hall will be closed tomorrow in observance of Washington's Birthday. The police department will operate as usual.

Council Is Stalled by Democrats

Disregard Freeze

Republicans Would Get Vital Material Now Before Shortage

The Common Council last night extended a recessed meeting into a stalemated recess for nearly three hours when minority members balked on money asked for public works materials and finally favored only the $75,000 "street work" part of the $145,000 B.P.W. bond proposal.

The "silent session" wound up with action only on two committee reports favoring the $75,000 for street work, after a series of committee conferences and caucuses with all action and argument behind the committee room door. A two-thirds vote is still required on the bond issue itself before it is finally adopted.

Councilmen filed in and out of the committee room from the time the session opened until the last five minutes before adjournment when reports of the finance and laws and rules committees were adopted on the money for street repair.

Hold Long Caucus

The longest recess was the caucus of minority members who discussed phases of the $70,000 requested for B.P.W. materials, with Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent, for more than an hour.

Eighth Ward Alderman Joseph N. Bruck, (R.) chairman of the finance committee, who revealed that the minority sought to cut more than $30,000 from the money asked for materials, said the Democratic aldermen also asked deferment on the $20,000 requested at the Feb. 6 meeting for two new fire trucks.

Alderman Bruck said later of the minority effort to cut the amount requested for materials:

"I think it is unwise at this time to cut the money requested for machinery and equipment because in a short time we will be unable to obtain materials due to a federal government freeze on such equipment. This will be especially true of fire trucks."

The new fire trucks requested by the Board of Fire Commissioners would replace those at Cordts and Rapid Hose companies.

Proposed Cuts

The Democratic members of the council sought to cut from the $70,438.10 requested for B.P.W. materials, by asking the reduction of the $29,256 for two road graders, to $14,628; cutting the $17,970 asked for a sanding and scraping vehicle to $11,970, and eliminating the $1,875 for a three-quarter-ton truck, and $2,188 for a utility vehicle. This would cut the original amount by $30,661.

A two-thirds vote of the council is required because bond issues are involved, and the consent of Democratic members of the body is

Firemen's Home Contracts Given

Hudson, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Contracts totaling $216,495 have been awarded for construction of an addition to the State Firemen's Home here.

The Firemen's Association of the State of New York operates the home for elderly volunteer firemen. It has 115 residents.

The addition will increase the capacity of the home's hospital from 30 to 78 beds.

Levi L. Rogers, home superintendent, said yesterday that a $149,345 general contract for the addition was awarded to Hercell Miller of Claverack.

Other contracts: Heating and plumbing, Joseph L. Fimble of Poughkeepsie, $48,772; electrical, George J. Martin & Sons of Albany, $18,378.

New Wage Order Signed for Fun Industry in State

Ruling Includes Caddies and Pinboys, Covers Total of 75,000 Persons

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—State Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi today signed a new minimum wage order putting more than 75,000 employes of the amusement and recreation industry—including caddies and pinboys—under the state's minimum wage law.

In general, the order—effective April 22—sets up an industry hourly pay minimum of 75 cents with specified exceptions for certain occupations.

The action thus adds the amusement field to seven other categories already under minimum wage coverage in the state. It raises the total number of persons covered to more than 1,100,000. The state previously set wage bases for hotel, restaurant, laundry, confectionery, beauty service, cleaning-dyeing and retail trades.

The new order was recommended by a minimum wage board. It called generally for a differential scale setting lower minima outside the metropolitan area. Nassau and Westchester counties were bracketed with New York city.

Some of Provisions

These are some of the provisions:

Caddies are to be paid $1 per bag for nine holes and $2 a bag for from 10 to 18 holes in the New York city, Nassau and Westchester areas, elsewhere they must receive a minimum of $1 a bag for nine holes and $1.50 a bag for from 10 to 18 holes.

Bowling pinboys are to receive 12 cents per line (per player per game) in the metropolitan area and nine cents elsewhere. Beach and pool attendants must be paid a minimum of 55 cents hourly throughout the state. Ushers at professional sports events are to receive $3 per event in cities of more than 150,000 population and $2 elsewhere.

Some Exceptions

Wicks, Mailler Sponser Anti-Bribery Measure

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Governor Dewey's administration today introduced bills in the Legislature to double the maximum sentence, from five to 10 years, for anyone trying to bribe athletes.

The measures were filed as an aftermath of the basketball scandals in New York city, where eight players from three colleges have been arrested on charges of "dumping" games.

The GOP majority leaders, Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman Lee B. Mailler, sponsored the companion bills.

The proposal to double the maximum sentence would apply only to those offering or giving bribes. Athletes accepting them still would be subject to the present penalty ranging from one to five years.

The Wicks-Mailler bill would continue the maximum $10,000 fine for those attempting to bribe athletes.

Dewey Gives Support

Governor Dewey, in a statement supporting the legislation, said:

"The young men involved suffered greatly from the exposure, from the injury to their future and from the suffering of their families. The penal provisions against their acceptance of bribes range from one to five years and are more than adequate.

"But the man who offers or gives a bribe to an athlete is an evil and corrupting criminal. He is subject only to the same sentence, one to five years. . . .

"This increase in the penal sanctions should have a deterrent effect. It does not determine the responsibility for the exploitation of these young men in heavily commercialized games in public arenas. That is a question which must be determined by the governing boards of the colleges involved."

Have Put Stain on Game

Dewey said that repeated exposure of college basketball "fixes" have "put a stain upon the game, upon the colleges that sponsor it and upon the good name of the community."

"They place an ugly shadow of suspicion over all basketball games played in public arenas," the governor added.

"They strike at the very heart of our American standards of fair play," Dewey insisted.

New Cars Can't Be Sold at Inflated Prices, Tops Established on Seconds

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—The government today banned the sale of new cars at inflated prices in the used car market and set dollars-and-cents ceiling prices on all used cars.

The action was announced by the Office of Price Stabilization. The new regulations are effective March 2.

Bruce Morris, chief of the agency's automobile pricing division, said the move was designed to halt a "widespread" flow of new cars into the used car market and to prevent used cars from selling above new car prices.

Both practices occurred during the last war.

To Use Guidebooks

The price schedule of used cars, under the ceiling, will be based on prices listed in guide books employed by used car dealers as a yardstick of values.

O.P.S. listed the five standard books used in this connection and said that they will be recognized as the official source of dollars-and-cents prices for used automobiles.

Morris explained that since automobile prices at the manufacturer's level were frozen on Dec. 18, some dealers across the nation have been selling new cars in the used car market at prices above the retail list price.

Today's action states that not only must dealers use guide book prices at ceilings on used cars but that, in any cases where guide book quotations on a used car are higher than the list price of the automobile when new, they

LeMay Lauds Long-Range Craft

Says Atom-Bomb Planes Will Deter Soviets More Than Troops

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, who commands the U. S. fleet of long-range atom-bomb planes, said today their threat rather than any ground forces in Europe probably will deter Russia from starting a general war in the next two or three years.

But Le May said he favors the U. S. army troops to serve in a combined European defense force.

Specifically, he opposed at Senate hearings a resolution by Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) which would declare the Senate opposed to sending any troops without prior Congressional approval.

Le May explained he did not think the hands of the military should be tied by Congress.

Under such restrictions, he said, "I would be handicapped very much in where I could place my wings and groups after war started."

Le May, head of the strategic air command, testified at Senator Wherry's request at Senate hearings on the troops-to-Europe issue. The hearings are being held by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees.

Only 'Effective Weapon'

Claim for $387,000 Is Filed by County Against New York

November Flood Loss Basis for Action by Ulster Attorney

Ulster county has filed a claim for $387,500 against the City of New York in a trespass action, alleging that on or about November 25 and 26, 1950, the City of New York through artificial rainmaking operations over the Esopus Creek watershed caused the stream to reach flood proportions and damage bridges and highways.

Notice of the claim for damages has been served on the Comptroller of the City of New York and the Corporation Counsel of the City of New York by Frederick H. Stang, county attorney.

The town of Shandaken has already filed a claim for $167,500 for damages to washed out town roads and bridges. Reginald Every supervisor of the town, recently announced that the town board of the Town of Shandaken had authorized a claim in that sum and action has been commenced by Vincent G. Connelly, town attorney. That claim too, is based upon the rainmaking operations of Dr. Wallace Howell, who was engaged by the City of New York last year to "seed" clouds in an effort to artificially replenish water in the Ashokan and Gilboa systems.

The claim filed by the county is based upon damages to bridges and roads owned by the county which were seriously damaged or destroyed last fall in the flood which inundated portions of the Esopus valley above the Ashokan reservoir.

Statement of Claim

The claim stated that on information and belief the injuries and damages were sustained "as a result of the agents, servants, employes and contractors of the City of New York, interfering with the atmospheric conditions in the County of Ulster, by employing so-called artificial rain making projects" on or about November 25 or 26, "so as to cause a violent precipitation of rain in the County of Ulster, resulting in a severe flood in the Esopus creek, spanning which are bridges, bridge approaches and abutments of the county, and adjacent to are roads and highways owned and maintained by the County of Ulster."

It is alleged that these acts were "so negligently performed as to cause a violent precipitation" resulting in the said damage. The claim recites the fact that the city was authorized to add to the normal flow of the Esopus creek "a maximum flow of 1063 c.f.s., from the Shandaken tunnel at Allaben connecting the Gilboa reservoir with the Esopus creek." It is alleged that the right to inject this additional water into the Esopus creek was limited to times when the creek was "in usual and normal flow, and no rights were acquired to add to the stream of

Federal Income Taxes Yield $17,936,535,662, Is Report

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Federal income taxes on individuals yielded $17,936,535,662 in 1950—hardly more than 60 per cent of the $29,625,000,000 a year level the Truman administration is now shooting for.

And taxes on corporate profits last year yielded only $9,936,726,082, far from the $23,080,000,000 a year level now sought by the administration from the revenue source.

The calendar 1950 figures were announced today in an internal revenue bureau report showing overall federal tax collections last year dropped more than $639,000,000 below 1949. The 1950 total was $39,862,735,877.

The cause of the overall decine was a slump in tax payments by corporations, which last year were paying taxes on the slimmer profits of 1949. In 1949 they had been paying taxes on the profits of booming 1948.

Income taxes on corporations dropped more than $2,069,764,000, but more than two-thirds of that decline was made up by increased receipts from individual income taxes and other levies.

Individual income tax payments—made out of current income—showed a gain of more than $184,000,000 over 1949 as a consequence of higher employment and higher pay rates plus a boost in tax rates which hiked the withholding tax take after Oct. 1.

The calendar year tax take was considerably less than the yield that the Truman administration expects to get in fiscal 1952, beginning next July 1, under tax hikes already in effect and further increases it has proposed to congress.

Individual income taxes are expected to yield $26,025,000,000 at current rates and another $3,600,000,000 increase has been asked; corporate income taxes are expected to yield $20,000,000,000, and a further $3,080,000,000 increase has been asked.

Hard Rain Increases War Misery

Red Mortar Fire Drives Back Armored Unit —Stragglers Are Mopped Up

Planes, Ships Help

Air Sorties, Naval Fire Added to Power of Ground Troops

Tokyo, Feb. 21 (AP)—Allied forces flattened out the Reds' Wonju bulge in Central Korea today but in the west the Communists blocked two new allied attempts to cross the Han river.

A driving, relentless rain turned the whole Korean battlefront into a mud puddle.

Field dispatches said the rain soaked GIs, bogged down tanks, filled foxholes and deepend the miseries of the front.

A few troops took advantage of the rain for their first showers in a month; those who could took turns ducking into Korean shelters.

But for most, the rain meant a constant soaking.

Red motar fire—"the heaviest and most accurate I've ever seen," said one commander—drove back an armored patrol to the south bank of the Han seven miles east of Seoul.

Five miles downstream from Seoul, heavy resistance checked a South Korean patrol trying to cross the Han.

American and British troops mopped up Red stragglers south of the river.

Little Opposition in East

On the east central front, United Nations troops thrust forward against light opposition.

On the west central front, advance patrols were moving ahead north of Chipyong where a French-American force last week smashed a massive Red counter-attack.

Scattered in an arc north of the Wonju salient were 40,000 Communist troops who had pulled back from the attack to lick their wounds.

U. S. Fifth Air Force planes roared out again Wednesday in support of ground troops.

Big naval guns rocked both coasts of Korea.

The battleship Missouri bombarded the Tanchon area in far northeastern Korea all day Tuesday. Other allied naval forces bucked strong shore batteries around Wonsan on the Sea of Japan coast for the seventh straight day.

The U. S. cruiser St. Paul stood off Inchon port on the Yellow Sea and poured heavy fire into Red concentrations north of the thawing Han river around Red-held Seoul.

Allies Sweep North

In their first big lunge since General MacArthur ordered his troops to resume the initiative, allied troops swept northward 10 miles and captured Chunchon town.

The U. S. Eighth Army communique Wednesday said the allied troops had encountered no enemy troops in the northward thrust.

Field dispatches said the Reds were pulling back so fast that they were leaving equipment and their dead in the snow.

A U. S. 10th Corps spokesman said there was evidence of a hasty enemy retreat on the central fronts.

The last heavy Communist resistance ended late Tuesday northeast of Chechon, a road hub 20 miles southeast of Wonju.

American patrols ranged as much as 10 miles northwest and four miles north of Wonju.

Red forces hold Hoengsong, another key town 10 miles north of Wonju.

On the west central front, British troops pushed eight miles north of Kyongan in an area 10 miles east of Seoul.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—The position of the Treasury Feb. 19: Net budget receipts $262,318,875.73; budget expenditures $131,123,700.91; cash balance $8,292,804,751.90; customs receipts for month $32,732,328.98; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $25,724,905,401.51; budget expenditures fiscal year $24,744,250,275.18; budget surplus $980,655,126.33; total debt $255,988,329,020.53; decrease under previous day $38,029,591.13; gold assets $22,207,885,011.54.

New Wage Order Signed for Fun Industry in State

Ruling Includes Caddies and Pinboys, Covers Total of 75,000 Persons

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—State Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi today signed a new minimum wage order putting more than 75,000 employes of the amusement and recreation industry—including caddies and pinboys—under the state's minimum wage law.

In general, the order—effective April 22—sets up an industry hourly pay minimum of 75 cents with specified exceptions for certain occupations.

The action thus adds the amusement field to seven other categories already under minimum wage coverage in the state. It raises the total number of persons covered to more than 1,100,000. The state previously set wage bases for hotel, restaurant, laundry, confectionery, beauty service, cleaning-dyeing and retail trades.

The new order was recommended by a minimum wage board. It called generally for a differential scale setting lower minima outside the metropolitan area. Nassau and Westchester counties were bracketed with New York city.

Some of Provisions

These are some of the provisions:

Caddies are to be paid $1 per bag for nine holes and $2 a bag for from 10 to 18 holes in the New York city, Nassau and Westchester areas, elsewhere they must receive a minimum of $1 a bag for nine holes and $1.50 a bag for from 10 to 18 holes.

Bowling pinboys are to receive 12 cents per line (per player per game) in the metropolitan area and nine cents elsewhere. Beach and pool attendants must be paid a minimum of 55 cents hourly throughout the state. Ushers at professional sports events are to receive $3 per event in cities of more than 150,000 population and $2 elsewhere.

Wicks, Mailler Sponser Anti-Bribery Measure

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Governor Dewey's administration today introduced bills in the Legislature to double the maximum sentence, from five to 10 years, for anyone trying to bribe athletes.

The measures were filed as an aftermath of the basketball scandals in New York city, where eight players from three colleges have been arrested on charges of "dumping" games.

The GOP majority leaders, Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman Lee B. Mailler, sponsored the companion bills.

The proposal to double the maximum sentence would apply only to those offering or giving bribes. Athletes accepting them still would be subject to the present penalty ranging from one to five years.

The Wicks-Mailler bill would continue the maximum $10,000 fine for those attempting to bribe athletes.

Dewey Gives Support

Governor Dewey, in a statement supporting the legislation, said:

"The young men involved suffered greatly from the exposure, from the injury to their future and from the suffering of their families. The penal provisions against their acceptance of bribes range from one to five years and are more than adequate.

"But the man who offers or gives a bribe to an athlete is an evil and corrupting criminal. He is subject only to the same sentence, one to five years. . . .

"This increase in the penal sanctions should have a deterrent effect. It does not determine the responsibility for the exploitation of these young men in heavily commercialized games in public arenas. That is a question which must be determined by the governing boards of the colleges involved."

Have Put Stain on Game

Dewey said that repeated exposure of college basketball "fixes" have "put a stain upon the game, upon the colleges that sponsor it and upon the good name of the community."

"They place an ugly shadow of suspicion over all basketball games played in public arenas," the governor added.

"They strike at the very heart of our American standards of fair play," Dewey insisted.

Hard Rain Increases War Misery

Air Sorties, Naval Fire Added to Power of Ground Troops

Tokyo, Feb. 21 (AP)—Allied forces flattened out the Reds' Wonju bulge in Central Korea today but in the west the Communists blocked two new allied attempts to cross the Han river.

A driving, relentless rain turned the whole Korean battlefront into a mud puddle.

Field dispatches said the rain soaked GIs, bogged down tanks, filled foxholes and deepend the miseries of the front.

A few troops took advantage of the rain for their first showers in a month; those who could took turns ducking into Korean shelters.

But for most, the rain meant a constant soaking.

Red motar fire—"the heaviest and most accurate I've ever seen," said one commander—drove back an armored patrol to the south bank of the Han seven miles east of Seoul.

Five miles downstream from Seoul, heavy resistance checked a South Korean patrol trying to cross the Han.

American and British troops mopped up Red stragglers south of the river.

Little Opposition in East

On the east central front, United Nations troops thrust forward against light opposition.

On the west central front, advance patrols were moving ahead north of Chipyong where a French-American force last week smashed a massive Red counter-attack.

Scattered in an arc north of the Wonju salient were 40,000 Communist troops who had pulled back from the attack to lick their wounds.

U. S. Fifth Air Force planes roared out again Wednesday in support of ground troops.

Big naval guns rocked both coasts of Korea.

The battleship Missouri bombarded the Tanchon area in far northeastern Korea all day Tuesday. Other allied naval forces bucked strong shore batteries around Wonsan on the Sea of Japan coast for the seventh straight day.

The U. S. cruiser St. Paul stood off Inchon port on the Yellow Sea and poured heavy fire into Red concentrations north of the thawing Han river around Red-held Seoul.

Allies Sweep North

In their first big lunge since General MacArthur ordered his troops to resume the initiative, allied troops swept northward 10 miles and captured Chunchon town.

The U. S. Eighth Army communique Wednesday said the allied troops had encountered no enemy troops in the northward thrust.

Field dispatches said the Reds were pulling back so fast that they were leaving equipment and their dead in the snow.

A U. S. 10th Corps spokesman said there was evidence of a hasty enemy retreat on the central fronts.

The last heavy Communist resistance ended late Tuesday northeast of Chechon, a road hub 20 miles southeast of Wonju.

American patrols ranged as much as 10 miles northwest and four miles north of Wonju.

Red forces hold Hoengsong, another key town 10 miles north of Wonju.

On the west central front, British troops pushed eight miles north of Kyongan in an area 10 miles east of Seoul.

New Cars Can't Be Sold at Inflated Prices, Tops Established on Seconds

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—The government today banned the sale of new cars at inflated prices in the used car market and set dollars-and-cents ceiling prices on all used cars.

The action was announced by the Office of Price Stabilization. The new regulations are effective March 2.

Bruce Morris, chief of the agency's automobile pricing division, said the move was designed to halt a "widespread" flow of new cars into the used car market and to prevent used cars from selling above new car prices.

Both practices occurred during the last war.

To Use Guidebooks

The price schedule of used cars, under the ceiling, will be based on prices listed in guide books employed by used car dealers as a yardstick of values.

O.P.S. listed the five standard books used in this connection and said that they will be recognized as the official source of dollars-and-cents prices for used automobiles.

Morris explained that since automobile prices at the manufacturer's level were frozen on Dec. 18, some dealers across the nation have been selling new cars in the used car market at prices above the retail list price.

Today's action states that not only must dealers use guide book prices at ceilings on used cars but that, in any cases where guide book quotations on a used car are higher than the list price of the automobile when new, they

Claim for $387,000 Is Filed by County Against New York

November Flood Loss Basis for Action by Ulster Attorney

Ulster county has filed a claim for $387,500 against the City of New York in a trespass action, alleging that on or about November 25 and 26, 1950, the City of New York through artificial rainmaking operations over the Esopus Creek watershed caused the stream to reach flood proportions and damage bridges and highways.

Notice of the claim for damages has been served on the Comptroller of the City of New York and the Corporation Counsel of the City of New York by Frederick H. Stang, county attorney.

The town of Shandaken has already filed a claim for $167,500 for damages to washed out town roads and bridges. Reginald Every supervisor of the town, recently announced that the town board of the Town of Shandaken had authorized a claim in that sum and action has been commenced by Vincent G. Connelly, town attorney. That claim too, is based upon the rainmaking operations of Dr. Wallace Howell, who was engaged by the City of New York last year to "seed" clouds in an effort to artificially replenish water in the Ashokan and Gilboa systems.

The claim filed by the county is based upon damages to bridges and roads owned by the county which were seriously damaged or destroyed last fall in the flood which inundated portions of the Esopus valley above the Ashokan reservoir.

Statement of Claim

The claim stated that on information and belief the injuries and damages were sustained "as a result of the agents, servants, employes and contractors of the City of New York, interfering with the atmospheric conditions in the County of Ulster, by employing so-called artificial rain making projects" on or about November 25 or 26, "so as to cause a violent precipitation of rain in the County of Ulster, resulting in a severe flood in the Esopus creek, spanning which are bridges, bridge approaches and abutments of the county, and adjacent to are roads and highways owned and maintained by the County of Ulster."

It is alleged that these acts were "so negligently performed as to cause a violent precipitation" resulting in the said damage. The claim recites the fact that the city was authorized to add to the normal flow of the Esopus creek "a maximum flow of 1063 c.f.s., from the Shandaken tunnel at Allaben connecting the Gilboa reservoir with the Esopus creek." It is alleged that the right to inject this additional water into the Esopus creek was limited to times when the creek was "in usual and normal flow, and no rights were acquired to add to the stream of

Says Atom-Bomb Planes Will Deter Soviets More Than Troops

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, who commands the U. S. fleet of long-range atom-bomb planes, said today their threat rather than any ground forces in Europe probably will deter Russia from starting a general war in the next two or three years.

But Le May said he favors the U. S. army troops to serve in a combined European defense force.

Specifically, he opposed at Senate hearings a resolution by Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) which would declare the Senate opposed to sending any troops without prior Congressional approval.

Le May explained he did not think the hands of the military should be tied by Congress.

Under such restrictions, he said, "I would be handicapped very much in where I could place my wings and groups after war started."

Le May, head of the strategic air command, testified at Senator Wherry's request at Senate hearings on the troops-to-Europe issue. The hearings are being held by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees.

Only 'Effective Weapon'

Federal Income Taxes Yield $17,936,535,662, Is Report

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Federal income taxes on individuals yielded $17,936,535,662 in 1950—hardly more than 60 per cent of the $29,625,000,000 a year level the Truman administration is now shooting for.

And taxes on corporate profits last year yielded only $9,936,726,082, far from the $23,080,000,000 a year level now sought by the adminitration from the revenue source.

The calendar 1950 figures were announced today in an internal revenue bureau report showing overall federal tax collections last year dropped more than $639,000,000 below 1949. The 1950 total was $39,862,735,877.

The cause of the overall decine was a slump in tax payments by corporations, which last year were paying taxes on the slimmer profits of 1949. In 1949 they had been paying taxes on the profits of booming 1948.

Income taxes on corporations dropped more than $2,069,764,000, but more than two-thirds of that decline was made up by increased receipts from individual income taxes and other levies.

Individual income tax payments—made out of current income—showed a gain of more than $184,000,000 over 1949 as a consequence of higher employment and higher pay rates plus a boost in tax rates which hiked the withholding tax take after Oct. 1.

The calendar year tax take was considerably less than the yield that the Truman administration expects to get in fiscal 1952, beginning next July 1, under tax hikes already in effect and further increases it has proposed to congress.

Individual income taxes are expected to yield $26,025,000,000 at current rates and another $3,600,000,000 increase has been asked; corporate income taxes are expected to yield $20,000,000,000, and a further $3,080,000,000 increase has been asked.

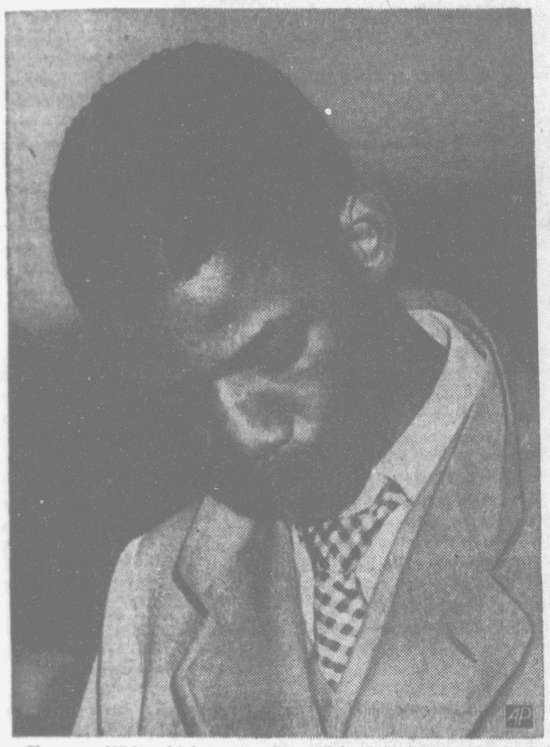
Basketball Star Bows His Head



Sherman White, high-scoring Long Island University basketball player named on many All-America lineups last season, stands with head bowed in a New York police station, Feb. 20, as he was booked with two L.I.U. teammates on charges of accepting bribes to "lose or try to lose" basketball games. They were charged with accepting $3,000 to lose the L.I.U-Kansas State game last Dec. 2. L.I.U. won, 60-59, after holding a wide early lead. White was named basketball's "player of the year" in a sporting news poll and is regarded by many experts as one of the greatest players in the country.

Johnston Renews Efforts To Repair Wage Control

Long Island U. Quits All Sports

Also Cancels Four Final Basketball Games This Season

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Long Island University, a casualty of basketball's biggest gambling scandal, has quit all intercollegiate sports.

The Brooklyn school, which for many years had one of the nation's leading basketball teams, said last night that its action also includes the cancellation of this season's four remaining games, including two scheduled for Madison Square Garden.

L.I.U. President T. W. Metcalfe acted a few hours after three LIU star players and a former team captain were charged with taking $18,500 to throw seven big games, including a National Invitation Tournament contest last year.

These four, plus three top performers of the national champion CCNY team and a player from New York University, admitted obtaining a total of $25,000 in bribes, authorities said.

Arrested Athletes

The arrested athletes are:

Sherman White, 6-foot 7-inch LIU forward who was leading the country in scoring and rated by many the best collegiate player today.

LeRoy Smith, LIU playmaker and set shot artist.

Adolph Bigos, LIU's ace rebounder.

Ed Warner, star of CCNY's national champions.

Ed Roman, leading CCNY point scorer.

Al Roth, CCNY playmaker.

Harvey (Connie) Shaff, a leading New York University scorer.

Ed Gard, LIU team captain last season.

The district attorney's office said all eight received their bribes from Salvatore T. Sollazzo, a Manhattan jewelry manufacturer and ex-convict.

Staples Elected Bank President

Brick Manufacturer Is to Succeed the Late W. H. Van Etten

Alva S. Staples, brick manufacturer, was elected president of the Kingston Trust Company at a meeting of the board of directors held Monday. Mr. Staples became vice president of the bank in 1941 succeeding the late William H. Van Etten who was elevated from the vice presidency to president at the death of Philip Eltinge.

Ernest Le Fevre, who has held the position of an assistant treasurer, was elected vice president to fill the vacancy created by the election of Mr. Staples to the presidency.

Arthur A. Davis, secretary and treasurer, was elected a director to fill out the unexpired term of the late William H. Van Etten.

DiSalle Tries to Give Backing to Price Control Because of Boosts

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston today renewed his efforts to repair the wage control program by luring labor leaders back into it.

At the same time, Price Director Michael V. DiSalle was busy defending the price control program against the criticism of labor leaders and others who are disappointed because prices haven't stopped rising.

Concerning wages:

Johnston scheduled new talks with union leaders and members of the Wage Stabilization Board. The future form of the board was at stake. So was the future of a proposed wage formula, now on Johnston's desk awaiting his action.

Would Allow Raises

The formula would allow employers to grant raises up to 10 per cent above the level of Jan. 15, 1950. It got the votes of the public and industry members of the board last week but the three labor members voted "no" and resigned. Yesterday they issued their dissenting opinion. They said the formula has the effect of continuing the Jan. 25 wage freeze. The board majority says the formula would unfreeze the wages of the vast majority of workers, enabling them to "catch up" with the leaders.

Last night, after a day of meetings, Johnston told reporters "we are trying to find the basis for complete labor support" of a wage policy. He said that in a democracy, the tripartite (labor-industry-public) system is the best. He spoke of the board in this manner:

"We have a tripod with one leg gone. We have got to repair that."

Johnston didn't say whether, to make these repairs, he would change the wage formula in labor's favor before approving it. He left that question wide open.

Experiment Fails

Philadelphia, Feb. 21 (AP)—A woman whose blood stream was channeled into a kidney taken from the body of a traffic accident victim died today eight hours after an unprecedented experiment to purify her blood and save her life. The ill-fated experiment failed shortly after noon. The kidney was removed from the body of Wayne H. Deveney, 30, of York, Pa., a truck driver killed before 4 a. m., today in an accident. Less than an hour later the blood of the woman patient—identified by Frankford Hospital doctors as Mrs. Richard Irvine, 32, Philadelphia—was flowing through the borrowed kidney.

Executions Postponed

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—The executions of two convicted killers, which had been scheduled for tomorrow night, have been postponed, pending re-argument of their case before the Court of Appeals. Governor Dewey has granted John J. King of Queens and Richard Power of Huntington, L. I., a respite until the week of March 5.

Offices to Close

Offices and departments in the city hall will be closed tomorrow in observance of Washington's Birthday. The police department will operate as usual.

Council Is Stalled by Democrats

Disregard Freeze

Republicans Would Get Vital Material Now Before Shortage

The Common Council last night extended a recessed meeting into a stalemated recess for nearly three hours when minority members balked on money asked for public works materials and finally favored only the $75,000 "street work" part of the $145,000 B.P.W. bond proposal.

The "silent session" wound up with action only on two committee reports favoring the $75,000 for street work, after a series of committee conferences and caucuses with all action and argument behind the committee room door. A two-thirds vote is still required on the bohd issue itself before it is finally adopted.

Councilmen filed in and out of the committee room from the time the session opened until the last five minutes before adjournment when reports of the finance and laws and rules committees were adopted on the money for street repair.

Hold Long Caucus

The longest recess was the caucus of minority members who discussed phases of the $70,000 requested for B.P.W. materials, with Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent, for more than an hour.

Eighth Ward Alderman Joseph N. Bruck, (R.) chairman of the finance committee, who revealed that the minority sought to cut more than $30,000 from the money asked for materials, said the Democratic aldermen also asked deferment on the $20,000 requested at the Feb. 6 meeting for two new fire trucks.

Alderman Bruck said later of the minority effort to cut the amount requested for materials:

"I think it is unwise at this time to cut the money requested for machinery and equipment because in a short time we will be unable to obtain materials due to a federal government freeze on such equipment. This will be especially true of fire trucks."

The new fire trucks requested by the Board of Fire Commissioners would replace those at Cordts and Rapid Hose companies.

Proposed Cuts

The Democratic members of the council sought to cut from the $70,438.10 requested for B.P.W. materials, by asking the reduction of the $29,256 for two road graders, to $14,628; cutting the $17,970 asked for a sanding and scraping vehicle to $11,970, and eliminating the $1,875 for a three-quarter-ton truck, and $2,188 for a utility vehicle. This would cut the original amount by $30,661.

A two-thirds vote of the council is required because bond issues are involved, and the consent of Democratic members of the body is

O.P.S. listed the five standard books used in this connection and said that they will be recognized as the official source of dollars-and-cents prices for used automobiles.

Morris explained that since automobile prices at the manufacturer's level were frozen on Dec. 18, some dealers across the nation have been selling new cars in the used car market at prices above the retail list price.

Today's action states that not only must dealers use guide book prices at ceilings on used cars but that, in any cases where guide book quotations on a used car are higher than the list price of the automobile when new, they

LeMay Lauds Long-Range Craft

Says Atom-Bomb Planes Will Deter Soviets More Than Troops

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, who commands the U. S. fleet of long-range atom-bomb planes, said today their threat rather than any ground forces in Europe probably will deter Russia from starting a general war in the next two or three years.

But Le May said he favors the U. S. army troops to serve in a combined European defense force.

Specifically, he opposed at Senate hearings a resolution by Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) which would declare the Senate opposed to sending any troops without prior Congressional approval.

Le May explained he did not think the hands of the military should be tied by Congress.

Under such restrictions, he said, "I would be handicapped very much in where I could place my wings and groups after war started."

Le May, head of the strategic air command, testified at Senator Wherry's request at Senate hearings on the troops-to-Europe issue. The hearings are being held by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees.

Only 'Effective Weapon'

Le May called his big bombers the "only effective weapon" this country now has for dealing with

November Flood Loss Basis for Action by Ulster Attorney

Ulster county has filed a claim for $387,500 against the City of New York in a trespass action, alleging that on or about November 25 and 26, 1950, the City of New York through artificial rainmaking operations over the Esopus Creek watershed caused the stream to reach flood proportions and damage bridges and highways.

Notice of the claim for damages has been served on the Comptroller of the City of New York and the Corporation Counsel of the City of New York by Frederick H. Stang, county attorney.

The town of Shandaken has already filed a claim for $167,500 for damages to washed out town roads and bridges. Reginald Every supervisor of the town, recently announced that the town board of the Town of Shandaken had authorized a claim in that sum and action has been commenced by Vincent G. Connelly, town attorney. That claim too, is based upon the rainmaking operations of Dr. Wallace Howell, who was engaged by the City of New York last year to "seed" clouds in an effort to artificially replenish water in the Ashokan and Gilboa systems.

The claim filed by the county is based upon damages to bridges and roads owned by the county which were seriously damaged or destroyed last fall in the flood which inundated portions of the Esopus valley above the Ashokan reservoir.

Statement of Claim

The claim stated that on information and belief the injuries and damages were sustained "as a result of the agents, servants, employes and contractors of the City of New York, interfering with the atmospheric conditions in the County of Ulster, by employing so-called artificial rain making projects" on or about November 25 or 26, "so as to cause a violent precipitation of rain in the County of Ulster, resulting in a severe flood in the Esopus creek, spanning which are bridges, bridge approaches and abutments of the county, and adjacent to are roads and highways owned and maintained by the County of Ulster."

It is alleged that these acts were "so negligently performed as to cause a violent precipitation" resulting in the said damage. The claim recites the fact that the city was authorized to add to the normal flow of the Esopus creek "a maximum flow of 1063 c.f.s., from the Shandaken tunnel at Allaben connecting the Gilboa reservoir with the Esopus creek." It is alleged that the right to inject this additional water into the Esopus creek was limited to times when the creek was "in usual and normal flow, and no rights were acquired to add to the stream of

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Federal income taxes on individuals yielded $17,936,535,662 in 1950—hardly more than 60 per cent of the $29,625,000,000 a year level the Truman administration is now shooting for.

And taxes on corporate profits last year yielded only $9,936,726,082, far from the $23,080,000,000 a year level now sought by the adminitration from the revenue source.

The calendar 1950 figures were announced today in an internal revenue bureau report showing overall federal tax collections last year dropped more than $639,000,000 below 1949. The 1950 total was $39,862,735,877.

The cause of the overall decine was a slump in tax payments by corporations, which last year were paying taxes on the slimmer profits of 1949. In 1949 they had been paying taxes on the profits of booming 1948.

Income taxes on corporations dropped more than $2,069,764,000, but more than two-thirds of that decline was made up by increased receipts from individual income taxes and other levies.

Individual income tax payments —made out of current income— showed a gain of more than $184,000,000 over 1949 as a consequence of higher employment and higher pay rates plus a boost in tax rates which hiked the withholding tax take after Oct. 1.

The calendar year tax take was considerably less than the yield that the Truman administration expects to get in fiscal 1952, beginning next July 1, under tax hikes already in effect and further increases it has proposed to congress.

Individual income taxes are expected to yield $26,025,000,000 at current rates and another $3,600,000,000 increase has been asked; corporate income taxes are expected to yield $20,000,000,000, and a further $3,080,000,000 increase has been asked.

Plan to Make Marine Center in Jersey City

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 21 (AP)—A $150,000,000 project to make Jersey City "one of the largest industrial marine centers in the the world" has the approval of the city commission.

As proposed by the Foundation Company of New York and Local Businessmen, it includes construction of a giant ship, rail and truck terminal on city-owned property facing upper New York bay.

Following approval of the waterfront development plan yesterday, Revenue and Finance Commissioner Donald Spence said it would take about three years to complete and create immediate employment for nearly 1,600 workers.

Property chosen for the terminal, mostly underwater, is between docks of the Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads. It is opposite and adjacent to Bedloe's Island in upper New York bay.

Spence, who predicted a world-ranking for the city as a marine center, said the terminal area when finished would house piers, docks, warehouses and street approaches over presently inaccessible land.

For 30 years I have been keeping a daily dairy—ever since I went into the financial world in 1919. Frequently I have recorded economic incongruities: events in my experiences that have so arrested my attention that I have written them down. A few of them are presented in detail here.

I

A leading professional man has bought 14 Cadillacs in 25 years. He trades them in every year or two. Up to 1950 he has lost $50,000 in second, third and fourth rate securities. And, until a few weeks ago, he had never owned a share of General Motors.

II

A hardware merchant in a medium-sized city has been selling electrical supplies of leading corporations for 25 years. Yet, most of his savings have been going into oil, zinc, lead, iron ore promotions. He has been an easy mark for 10, 20, 30, and 40 cents a share stocks. And all these years he has never owned a share of General Electrical or Westinghouse.

III

A Texas herdsman goes to great pains to get his prize bull insured for $75,000 when the herdsman himself carries only $10,000. And who knocks the silliness out of this situation? Why, a clever young insurance salesman whose climatic statement to the herdsman was: "Is the bull worth seven times as much as you?"

IV

A leading New York City surgeon, who for years carried demand deposits in his favorite bank of from $50,000 to $100,000. Suspicious of stocks, he got to believe during this cheap money era that anything that paid more than 2 or 2½% a year carried risk he couldn't afford. Then one day he pointedly asked: "What would you do with $50,000 in a checking account?"

"Where is yonr money?" he was asked.

A leading institution was named.

"Buy 100 shares of that bank for $28,000," he was advised.

And now, for several years since this purchase (it pays him 5%), the doctor has wondered why somebody didn't suggest this years and years ago. Acres of diamonds often lay at one's feet.

V

A top-notch businessman has been driving in at Esso signs for years. Successful in business, he has been very unsuccessful at investing. He lost $30,000 in real estate mortgage bonds in the thirties. Strange, strange, it has never occurred to him until recently to buy some Standard Oil of New Jersey.

VI

A dairy farmer in the East has been selling milk for three decades to Borden. When he died recently, in his safety deposit box was found $10,000 in worthless stock in a whip company that had failed years ago, $20,000 of debentures of a corporation that was always a third-rate enterprise and a miscellaneous collection of junk securities that had cost another $20,000. Fifty thousand dollars had gone down the drain. How about some Borden stock for him?

VII

A camera enthusiast. He has taken pictures in America, Europe and Asia. He owns a battery of machines. His yearly film bill is sizeable.

Monetary sense? He has none. He is a photographic artist. Yet, over the years, he has helped to finance a lot of fake promotions. Lost all his capital in them, of course.

Why, why hasn't somebody suggested Eastman Kodak to him?

There are a million economic incongruities in America. And as the world gets steadily more economically complicated, more millions are coming into being. They exist in every community in this great land.

The wealth of America is not broadly enough distributed. As these stories indicate, there are millions of potential stockholders who should be part owners in the very businesses they have helped to make prosperous. And until these incongruities are eliminated, stock ownership will be restricted.

Red Cross Flood Aid to Shandaken Amounted to $5,000

Victims of the flood in the town of Shandaken last November 25 received $5,000 in assistance from American Red Cross disaster relief, Mrs. Dorothy Fasanella, Red Cross general field representative, revealed at a meeting of the Kingston Lions Club Tuesday at noon.

In Schoharie county, the Red Cross spent $12,000 for relief and rehabilitation after the same storm, she said. In the entire area, more than 3,000 cases of need were investigated.

Mrs. Fasanella explained the general plan for Red Cross assistance in disasters as consisting of two parts. The first in emergency provision of food, shelter, clothing and medical care. This is done as quickly as possible and few questions are asked.

The second phase is rehabilitation. This is done on an individual family case work basis, and the amount of assistance is based upon need rather than loss. She explained that some families, even though suffering heavy losses, have reserves, such as insurance, and are not in dire need. To determine the need information is gathered about the family's liabilities, health problems, the age of its members and number of members. Such information is always kept confidential, she said.

Type of Aid Given

In the Shandaken area, for instance, the Red Cross repaired a home that had been swept from a foundation. This home was owned by a middle aged woman who could not have helped herself in the situation, Mrs. Fasanella said.

The type of work included in the rehabilitation phase of disaster relief was best illustrated by an individual, anonymous example taken from Mrs. Fasanella's files of the recent fire in Hudson which destroyed five buildings, leaving 26 families totaling 48 persons homeless.

One woman, 57 years old, had just lost her husband. The fire not only destroyed all her clothing and furnishings, but also most of the insurance money she had received and was keeping in the apartment to pay immediate bills. The woman, who hadn't worked in 18 years of married life, was at an age where it is not easy to find employment. The Red Cross has been giving assistance by re-establishing her wardrobe, finding her a place to live and paying the first month's rent, and assisting her to find employment that she wants.

Such assistance, Mrs. Fasanella stressed, is never put on a loan basis, "but is a gift from the American people, channeled through the Red Cross."

Other Assistance

Mrs. Fasanella also explained the other phases of Red Cross work, including the blood bank and its bearing on the Civil Defense effort. She is a former school teacher who volunteered for professional Red Cross work in 1944 after her husband was killed in action in Burma during World War 2. She spent 14 months in France, later returning to become general field representative here. Her home is in Middletown and she covers a 14-county territory. She was introduced by Harry Gumaer, Lions Club program chairman, who pointed out that Mrs. Fasanella once did practice teaching in Kingston and that her husband was once a first vice president in the Freeport, L. I. Lions Club.

The area of the Pacific Ocean is about the same as the combined extent of the Atlantic, Indian and Arctic Oceans.

Plan to Make Marine Center in Jersey City

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 21 (AP)—A $150,000,000 project to make Jersey City "one of the largest industrial marine centers in the the world" has the approval of the city commission.

As proposed by the Foundation Company of New York and Local Businessmen, it includes construction of a giant ship, rail and truck terminal on city-owned property facing upper New York bay.

Following approval of the waterfront development plan yesterday, Revenue and Finance Commissioner Donald Spence said it would take about three years to complete and create immediate employment for nearly 1,600 workers.

Property chosen for the terminal, mostly underwater, is between docks of the Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads. It is opposite and adjacent to Bedloe's Island in upper New York bay.

Spence, who predicted a world-ranking for the city as a marine center, said the terminal area when finished would house piers, docks, warehouses and street approaches over presently inaccessible land.

Investor Forum

Harry C. France

For 30 years I have been keeping a daily dairy—ever since I went into the financial world in 1919. Frequently I have recorded economic incongruities: events in my experiences that have so arrested my attention that I have written them down. A few of them are presented in detail here.

I

A leading professional man has bought 14 Cadillacs in 25 years. He trades them in every year or two. Up to 1950 he has lost $50,000 in second, third and fourth rate securities. And, until a few weeks ago, he had never owned a share of General Motors.

II

A hardware merchant in a medium-sized city has been selling electrical supplies of leading corporations for 25 years. Yet, most of his savings have been going into oil, zinc, lead, iron ore promotions. He has been an easy mark for 10, 20, 30, and 40 cents a share stocks. And all these years he has never owned a share of General Electrical or Westinghouse.

III

A Texas herdsman goes to great pains to get his prize bull insured for $75,000 when the herdsman himself carries only $10,000. And who knocks the silliness out of this situation? Why, a clever young insurance salesman whose climatic statement to the herdsman was: "Is the bull worth seven times as much as you?"

IV

A leading New York City surgeon, who for years carried demand deposits in his favorite bank of from $50,000 to $100,000. Suspicious of stocks, he got to believe during this cheap money era that anything that paid more than 2 or 2½% a year carried risk he couldn't afford. Then one day he pointedly asked: "What would you do with $50,000 in a checking account?"

"Where is yonr money?" he was asked.

A leading institution was named.

"Buy 100 shares of that bank for $28,000,'" he was advised.

And now, for several years since this purchase (it pays him 5%), the doctor has wondered why somebody didn't suggest this years and years ago. Acres of diamonds often lay at one's feet.

V

A top-notch businessman has been driving in at Esso signs for years. Successful in business, he has been very unsuccessful at investing. He lost $30,000 in real estate mortgage bonds in the thirties. Strange, strange, it has never occurred to him until recently to buy some Standard Oil of New Jersey.

VI

A dairy farmer in the East has been selling milk for three decades to Borden. When he died recently, in his safety deposit box was found $10,000 in worthless stock in a whip company that had failed years ago, $20,000 of debentures of a corporation that was always a third-rate enterprise and a miscellaneous collection of junk securities that had cost another $20,000. Fifty thousand dollars had gone down the drain. How about some Borden stock for him?

VII

A camera enthusiast. He has taken pictures in America, Europe and Asia. He owns a battery of machines. His yearly film bill is sizeable.

Monetary sense? He has none. He is a photographic artist. Yet, over the years, he has helped to finance a lot of fake promotions. Lost all his capital in them, of course.

Why, why hasn't somebody suggested Eastman Kodak to him?

There are a million economic incongruities in America. And as the world gets steadily more economically complicated, more millions are coming into being. They exist in every community in this great land.

The wealth of America is not broadly enough distributed. As these stories indicate, there are millions of potential stockholders who should be part owners in the very businesses they have helped to make prosperous. And until these incongruities are eliminated, stock ownership will be restricted.

Far-Reaching Campaign

Preston, Ont. (AP)—High school students here set to and typed 2,000 envelopes and folded letterheads for mailing to all former Prestonians living on this continent in the campaign for the new arena fund. They they typed another 2,000 for a future mailing.

The rocks composing the earth's crust are grouped into three great classes: igneous, sedimentary and metamorphic.

Red Cross Flood Aid to Shandaken Amounted to $5,000

Victims of the flood in the town of Shandaken last November 25 received $5,000 in assistance from American Red Cross disaster relief, Mrs. Dorothy Fasanella, Red Cross general field representative, revealed at a meeting of the Kingston Lions Club Tuesday at noon.

In Schoharie county, the Red Cross spent $12,000 for relief and rehabilitation after the same storm, she said. In the entire area, more than 3,000 cases of need were investigated.

Mrs. Fasanella explained the general plan for Red Cross assistance in disasters as consisting of two parts. The first in emergency provision of food, shelter, clothing and medical care. This is done as quickly as possible and few questions are asked.

The second phase is rehabilitation. This is done on an individual family case work basis, and the amount of assistance is based upon need rather than loss. She explained that some families, even though suffering heavy losses, have reserves, such as insurance, and are not in dire need. To determine the need information is gathered about the family's liabilities, health problems, the age of its members and number of members. Such information is always kept confidential, she said.

Type of Aid Given

In the Shandaken area, for instance, the Red Cross repaired a home that had been swept from a foundation. This home was owned by a middle aged woman who could not have helped herself in the situation, Mrs. Fasanella said.

The type of work included in the rehabilitation phase of disaster relief was best illustrated by an individual, anonymous example taken from Mrs. Fasanella's files of the recent fire in Hudson which destroyed five buildings, leaving 26 families totaling 48 persons homeless.

One woman, 57 years old, had just lost her husband. The fire not only destroyed all her clothing and furnishings, but also most of the insurance money she had received and was keeping in the apartment to pay immediate bills. The woman, who hadn't worked in 18 years of married life, was at an age where it is not easy to find employment. The Red Cross has been giving assistance by re-establishing her wardrobe, finding her a place to live and paying the first month's rent, and assisting her to find employment that she wants.

Such assistance, Mrs. Fasanella stressed, is never put on a loan basis, "but is a gift from the American people, channeled through the Red Cross."

Other Assistance

Mrs. Fasanella also explained the other phases of Red Cross work, including the blood bank and its bearing on the Civil Defense effort. She is a former school teacher who volunteered for professional Red Cross work in 1944 after her husband was killed in action in Burma during World War 2. She spent 14 months in France, later returning to become general field representative here. Her home is in Middletown and she covers a 14-county territory. She was introduced by Harry Gumaer, Lions Club program chairman, who pointed out that Mrs. Fasanella once did practice teaching in Kingston and that her husband was once a first vice president in the Freeport, L. I. Lions Club.

The area of the Pacific Ocean is about the same as the combined extent of the Atlantic, Indian and Arctic Oceans.

Eisenhowers Live In Hotel He Used As War Commander

Versailles, France, Feb. 21 (AP) —General Dwight Eisenhower is going to fight for peace in the same rooms he used while fighting a war.

The first home for the general and his wife, Mamie, is a six-room suite on the first floor of the luxurious Trianon Palace Hotel. From that same suite in 1944, General Eisenhower directed the Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force (SHAEF) as it completed liberation of France and sped on toward the heart of Hitler's Germany.

His new job is commander of Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE), the international army being organized by the Atlantic Pact countries to defend the western world against Communist aggression.

Offered a Villa

From the windows of his luxury suite, the general can look across the hotel's broad, green garden to the 12-room villa he has been offered for a permanent residence.

This is the Villa Le Noviciat, owned by the fabulously rich Commandant Paul-Louis Weiller, an aircraft engine maker and personal friend of "Ike's." The luxuriously appointed villa is adjacent to the Hotel Trianon Palace gardens. Hotel Manager Jacques Rey said he told General Eisenhower last month that if he moved into the villa, the hotel would cut an opening into the towering hedge fence to connect the villa directly to the hotel.

Eisenhower lived briefly in the Villa Le Noviciat when he was SHAEF chief. Conspicuous on a front room table is a copy of "Crusade in Europe," a book by Eisenhower.

Beside the book, carefully framed under glass, is a recent letter from General Eisenhower, thanking old friend Weiller for a magnum of cognac sent to the Eisenhowers in New York in late January.

Well Protected

Since security is a priority worry of the officers on Eisenhower's staff, the villa should be welcomed as a residence. It is protected by eight-foot concrete and steel walls. The only entrance, leading down a winding, shaded lane, is about 200 yards from the villa itself. And—there's an air-raid shelter, with signs in German since it was Nazi-built, in the yard.

The villa has three self-contained apartments on the second floor, and five large rooms downstairs. All furniture in the main salon is covered in zebra skin, matching a zebra-skin rug on the winding oak stairs.

In the hotel next door, Manager Jacques Rey, who was born in the Trianon Palace and whose mother still owns it, has turned over one whole floor to Eisenhower and his officers—at something like $15 a day per room.

Lt. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther and his wife will occupy a suite at the other end from the Eisenhowers'. Six other officers and their families will be in smaller suites in between.

Fought in Korea at 14

Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 21 (AP) —A 14-year-old veteran of the Korean fighting says the frost-bitten big toe on his left foot is taking too long to heal. The doctors, however, are going to give the toe more time. Private Byrd quit the sixth grade to enlist in the army last year. The army didn't find out he was only 14 until he was brought to the hospital here as a casualty.

Local Child Health Clinic Set Next Week

A child health conference will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department February 27 at 97 Broadway from 10 to 12 noon. Dr. Sidney Pauker will be the physician in charge assisted by Miss Janet Hasbrouck, R.N., public health nurse.

These well-child clinics are limited to infant and pre-school children, not for the care of the sick child, for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted to this child health conference unless their physician desires this service to be taken over by the child health conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided.

Would Divorce Dailey

Los Angels, Feb. 21 (AP)—Song and dance man Dan Dailey's wife, the former Elizabeth Jane Hofert, wants a divorce. Mrs. Dailey, 26, former model and actress, filed her complaint yesterday, alleging cruelty and asking $1,000 monthly alimony. The Daileys were married while he was in the army and have a three-year-old son. They have separated twice before. He filed a divorce suit in 1947 but dropped it.

Want Primaries Aug. 21

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—A bill to set Aug. 21 as the date of this year's primary election has been introduced in the Legislature. The date is considered a concession by upstate Republicans to the party's New York city delegation. Upstate GOP leaders originally had proposed that the primary be held in July. Metropolitan legislators protested it would cut short their vacations. Last year's primary was held Aug. 22. Election Day this year falls on Nov. 6.

Well Protected

Since security is a priority worry of the officers on Eisenhower's staff, the villa should be welcomed as a residence. It is protected by eight-foot concrete and steel walls. The only entrance, leading down a winding, shaded lane, is about 200 yards from the villa itself. And—there's an air-raid shelter, with signs in German since it was Nazi-built, in the yard.

The villa has three self-contained apartments on the second floor, and five large rooms downstairs. All furniture in the main salon is covered in zebra skin, matching a zebra-skin rug on the winding oak stairs.

In the hotel next door, Manager Jacques Rey, who was born in the Trianon Palace and whose mother still owns it, has turned over one whole floor to Eisenhower and his officers—at something like $15 a day per room.

Lt. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther and his wife will occupy a suite at the other end from the Eisenhowers'. Six other officers and their families will be in smaller suites in between.

Local Child Health Clinic Set Next Week

A child health conference will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department February 27 at 97 Broadway from 10 to 12 noon. Dr. Sidney Pauker will be the physician in charge assisted by Miss Janet Hasbrouck, R.N., public health nurse.

These well-child clinics are limited to infant and pre-school children, not for the care of the sick child, for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted to this child health conference unless their physician desires this service to be taken over by the child health conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided.

Eisenhowers Live In Hotel He Used As War Commander

Versailles, France, Feb. 21 (AP)—General Dwight Eisenhower is going to fight for peace in the same rooms he used while fighting a war.

The first home for the general and his wife, Mamie, is a six-room suite on the first floor of the luxurious Trianon Palace Hotel. From that same suite in 1944, General Eisenhower directed the Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force (SHAEF) as it completed liberation of France and sped on toward the heart of Hitler's Germany.

His new job is commander of Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE), the international army being organized by the Atlantic Pact countries to defend the western world against Communist aggression.

Offered a Villa

From the windows of his luxury suite, the general can look across the hotel's broad, green garden to the 12-room villa he has been offered for a permanent residence.

This is the Villa Le Noviciat, owned by the fabulously rich Commandant Paul-Louis Weiller, an aircraft engine maker and personal friend of "Ike's." The luxuriously appointed villa is adjacent to the Hotel Trianon Palace gardens. Hotel Manager Jacques Rey said he told General Eisenhower last month that if he moved into the villa, the hotel would cut an opening into the towering hedge fence to connect the villa directly to the hotel.

Eisenhower lived briefly in the Villa Le Noviciat when he was SHAEF chief. Conspicuous on a front room table is a copy of "Crusade in Europe," a book by Eisenhower.

Beside the book, carefully framed under glass, is a recent letter from General Eisenhower, thanking old friend Weiller for a magnum of cognac sent to the Eisenhowers in New York in late January.

Well Protected

Since security is a priority worry of the officers on Eisenhower's staff, the villa should be welcomed as a residence. It is protected by eight-foot concrete and steel walls. The only entrance, leading down a winding, shaded lane, is about 200 yards from the villa itself. And—there's an air-raid shelter, with signs in German since it was Nazi-built, in the yard.

Lt. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther and his wife will occupy a suite at the other end from the Eisenhowers'. Six other officers and their families will be in smaller suites in between.

COMMUNISM AND IMPERIALISM

Communism has always presented a difficult problem to a lot of people who style themselves liberals. Try as they may, they are never quite able to convince themselves that communism is as bad as other forms of totalitarianism.

In plain truth, they have bought the goods that Stalin and Company are selling. In their hearts they really believe the Communists mean what they say when they talk beautifully of cooperative society, the "people's" democracy, and what not.

Russia's postwar career of imperialist expansion, of ceaseless undermining of other governments, of brutal oppression whevever it has gained control, threw these "liberals" into a state of complete bewilderment.

They could not in good conscience accept these things, even in the name of the great Communistic experiment. Yet they were already publicly committed to a fixed position of opposition to democratic capitalism; they could not recant and suddenly declare that, after all, our system isn't so bad.

Where to go?

A good many of these befuddled citizens have not figured out how to resolve their dilemma. But some have come up with a unique solution which illustrates what tortuous twistings the human mind may sometimes go through to escape reality.

These folk now declare that not communism but Russian imperialism is the real enemy. In other words, communism would be fine if it had no military ambitions.

According to one reliable newsman, Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, has been lured into this kind of thinking. The reporter quotes Reuther as saying:

"I am not interested in fighting world communism. I'm only interested in fighting Communist imperialism. I draw a distinction between (them). I'm willing to leave the fight against world communism to (Senator) McCarthy and the Republicans."

Only a badly confused man would attempt to draw such a distinction, for in fact it does not exist. Communism and imperialism, as practiced from their headquarters in Moscow, are bound together inseparably. By its nature, communism cannot endure competition, since its methods and results show up badly when set beside a system rooted in freedom. Therefore communism must always move to stamp out its competition.

What men are really saying when they seek to cleave a fine line between communism and Communist imperialism is that they are bankrupt as political thinkers.

They do not like what they see about them. They can conceive of no solution to our and the world's problems which does not add up to socialism. When they think of communism as a theory, they think only of its socialistic content, not of its many extreme elements of totalitarianism.

No one pretends our system is perfect. It has many flaws. But isn't it conceivable that the imaginations of earnest men would be put to better use improving a system founded in liberty, rather than in searching for ways to scrap that system?

Until the self-styled liberals stop making apologies for systems of enslavement and devote their energies to making a free government and a free economy work better, they're unlikely to command much attention as serious and responsible men.

SIGN OF SPRING

Whatever the calendar may say or the thermometer record, the early days of February are the first harbingers of spring. The days are already noticeably longer than in December, and sometimes there is a little warmth in the sun. Even more convincing is the fact that in February the big league baseball teams go South for their spring training.

When fresh baseball news appears regularly in the sports columns, spring is just around the corner. Or so we have been led to believe.

REWARD FOR ARTISTRY

...ters whose books fail to sell should not be too discouraged. "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers," by Henry D. Thoreau, philosopher, nature-lover and friend of Ralph Waldo Emerson, appeared in 1849. In four years only 219 copies were sold. Yet it has taken an assured place as one of the great masterpieces of American literature. Thoreau, unhappily, did not live to receive this recognition; such is often the fate of artists.

The best way to quarrel with an angry person is to give him but a meek answer. It will make him madder and you happier—and it's obvious who will win.

The person undergoing an attack of humility may simply be shrinking back to normal size.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

READING AND WRITING

Like most in this business and many in Congress, I receive a huge mail which I like to read. But there is the rub. Some of it simply cannot be read. It is not legible to the naked eye.

Children used to be taught laboriously to write. In my day, it started with the Spencerian style and then went to the Palmer Method, and no matter what you say about those old-fashioned ways, the reader could read what the writer wrote.

I receive loads of letters which I cannot read and which all in my office try to decipher, as though it were a foreign tongue.

Often the trouble is what might be called "personality." The writer wants to be distinctive. Often it is obviously a "she" who cultivated a penmanship which stands out like nothing else on earth. But it cannot be read.

One correspondent writes with a very thinly pointed pen in great strokes. Really, to read every word would require one of those funny magnifying glasses that eye doctors stick on their noses when they look into your eyes. It is all very beautiful on the page—like an etching—but it does not read.

Often the worst writing comes on the fanciest stationery. I am told that private schools go in strong for this "personality" penmanship, which cannot be read and is a sort of secret code among the initiates.

The cult of penmanship is in some way related to the exposure of the subconscious. Not being a seer, I cannot make out the subconscious. I only know that someone has taken pen in hand and wishes to communicate with me, either to say that I have the best mind since Aristotle or that I am so low a character that a louse is my peer.

But neither praise nor smear comes forth. Rather it is a puzzle—not a Chinese puzzle because I might make something of that, nor semitic nor slavic. No! It is none of these but something in the realm of non-objective art, like my own signature, which I devised at an early age to guard against its being copied should I ever have enough money to put it on a check. It has now become an unbreakable habit like opium and even looks as though it might have been written under its influence.

The letter "M" seems to lend itself to a druid influence. Three vertical lines are capped by a broad horizontal line. Failure to do it correctly makes it look like a Russian "N," which can look like an English "H," if you know what I mean. When I see that curious "M." I am often prevented from reading the letter because when it can be written so easily and clearly the way it used to be taught.

My wife says that she once listened to a prolonged conversation among parents on the virtues of the backstroke. Now, that style of writing saves lots of time because I never read it. I refuse. Come friend or foe, I will not read the backstroke. This is a tricky style, the writer so smudging the paper that there could not have been an intent to have the item read. No one should put such labor upon any innocent person.

My wife says that the defenders of the backstroke say that it makes the writer distinctive, different, altogether unusual. All of which is true, but then so is a chimpanzee. If being different is a guide to penmanship, then why not write with the nail of the pinky or the left hand? That might produce something even more unusual.

Well, here's to those writers who make it plain, whose words stand out clear and sure and more convincing than a typewriter. There are many who write as though they meant what they say and whose character stands out like Herbert Hoover's Gibraltar, for all to see who care to. Maybe, we should all go back to the good, old Spencerian style or the Palmer Method or any copy book exercises which taught that clarity is expected in penmanship. And the teacher raped the knuckles with a ruler if you smudged the page.

HOME TREATMENT OF SKIN AILMENTS

There is one thing about a skin disease, the patient sees it when it starts and immediately decides to do something about it. This early treatment may be helpful or, what is more important, may be harmful, as the patient doesn't know the nature of the ailment. Because some ointment or paste is already in the house and has helped another member of the family, it is applied to the skin eruption, although it was prescribed for an entirely different ailment.

In the Boston issue, Medical Clinics of North America, Drs. Chester M. Frazier and Roy W. Leeper, Massachusetts General Hospital, state that it is these factors that cause skin ailments to be treated with unwarranted and inappropriate vigor. "How desirable a campaign would be to educate the lay public and physicians alike against using any home or general treatment, as has been successfully conducted by the surgeons against the use of cathartics in the presence of the vague symptoms of early appendicitis."

Using a remedy for a skin ailment that is meant to soothe the ailment when what is needed, particularly in chronic cases, is something to irritate it into more activity, an increase in the symptoms, means that the soothing ointment only prolongs the course of the skin ailment present.

Another point now fully recognized is that the course of an ailment may differ with the personality, or physical, mental and emotional make-up, of the patient. Thus the treatment may vary for the same disease.

After discussing the common diseases of the skin—acne, psoriasis, eczema due to contact with various substances, fungus eruptions, head and body lice, athlete's foot, poison ivy and other plants and pollen—Drs. Frazier and Leeper conclude: "In the treatment of the common diseases of the skin, the physician is confronted with the necessity of recognizing the particular disease present, as it may be due to contact with various substances or due to some infection. Treatment must be directed against the cause, once the cause is recognized. The first thought then is to follow the wide general principle—first, do no harm.

So It Will Bear More and Better Fruit

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The bitter row over labor participation in the mobilization picture boils down partly to a clash with Gen. Lucius Clay, former military governor of Germany, now right-hand man to Defense Mobilization Czar Charles E. Wilson. There is also a lot of peeve against Harry S. Truman personally.

Clay, a hard-hitting, hard-working army officer, accustomed to giving and taking orders, was continually clashing with civilians when he served as right-hand man to War Mobilizer Jimmy Byrnes in World War 2. Later, while in Germany, he established what is probably a record for any American official. He cabled his resignation to the State Department as military governor of Germany three times in one day.

Illustrative of Clay's difficulties with labor leaders is one backstage incident involving the appointment of a manpower commissioner.

President Truman had telephoned Mobilization Czar Wilson asking him to appoint ex-Sen. Frank Graham of North Carolina as manpower commissioner. Former president of the University of North Carolina, Dr. Graham served as a member of the War Labor Board in World War 2 and played a potent part in keeping labor relations on an even keel.

Wilson seemed to welcome Truman's suggestion, but later, when Graham called on Wilson and General Clay, the latter made it clear that Graham would be only one of six assistants, and would report not to Mobilizer Boss Wilson but to Clay through Wall Street investment banker Sidney Weinberg.

Under these hamstringing conditions, Graham politely declined.

Note — Graham subsequently went to Alaska, showed how skillful he was in handling labor relations by smoothing out a difficult situation threatening to stop vital construction of air force housing and army fortifications.

Clay Stages a Vishinsky

On another occasion General Clay had called a closed-door conference attended by Secretary of Labor Tobin, Selective Service Director Hershey and Presidential Aide Daniel H. Stowe, to discuss manpower problems.

Clay, at that time, was all set to announce his own man as manpower commissioner, but he had scarcely begun to talk when White House Assistant Stowe interrupted. He advised that he had instructions from the President that the manpower commissionership was not to be discussed.

Stowe did not say so, but the President knew, even then, how vigorously labor felt on the subject, and he did not want General Clay dictating the appointment.

Faced with this message from the White House, Clay got red under the collar and stamped out.

Later he got his way. His own Candidate, Arthur Flemming, of the Civil Service Commission, became manpower commissioner after being pushed through by Wilson himself.

This is one of the reasons labor is so sore.

Big Business Tycoons

Another reason is the number of big business tycoons around Wilson and the manner in which they dominate the mobilization picture. Here are some of them:

General Clay, on leave from Continental Can; Fred Searls, on leave from Newmont Mining, a J. P. Morgan firm; Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman, Sachs, investment bankers; Howard Chase, of General Mills; Alfred Howse, of the Forest Land Development Co., general economic adviser to Wilson. The operations of Weinberg's Goldman, Sachs investment house during the depression, incidentally, was one of the reasons why Congress passed the Securities and Exchange Act.

While these are skilled businessmen, they serve as "no-dollar" men. In other words, they are paid not by the government but by their own companies, thus are in the difficult position of serving one master but being paid by another.

These businessmen can do an important job for their government, but they need to be counterbalanced by labor representatives. Roosevelt appointed labor men among the top executives of war mobilization, so labor was always a part of the war effort. Now labor has scarcely been consulted.

Long Tom Connally

Sen. "Long Tawn" Connally of Texas is famous for his gruff side remarks, but it wasn't until the hearing on Atlantic Pact strategy that one of his remarks made television.

The colorful Texan was presiding at the Joint Foreign Relations-Armed Services quiz of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. As he called the roll, and came to the name of crime-busting Sen. Estes Kefauver, there was silence. "He's off chasing crap-shooters," Connally grumbled into an open microphone.

There were roars of laughter from the audience. "That's off the record," boomed "Long Tawm," and went on.

Needless Slaughter of Red Chinese Could Be Halted by Their Withdrawal Across Yalu

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 21—The time has come to put an end to the war in Korea. It can be done by exerting the moral force of the whole world. Specifically, it calls for a direct appeal to the Communists by the President of the United States, in the name of humanity, to help stop the useless slaughter of human beings.

The United Nations forces are destroying tens of thousands of persons in one of the bloodiest episodes in history. The napalm bomb — in many respects more devastating to an army than the atomic bomb—is burning alive enemy soldiers and innumerable civilians in Korea. This is perhaps a reprisal for the torture or shooting of American boys when captured as prisoners.

The United Nations forces can go on indefinitely killing Communist soldiers and sympathizers. There would be no reason for this if the Communist leaders would agree now to withdraw all their troops across the Yalu river.

Once the Communists have withdrawn from Korea itself, the way is open to discuss the maintenance of peace in Korea and the establishment of stable conditions there under the auspices of the U.N. After stable conditions have ben attained, the U.N. forces could be gradually reduced.

An appeal to the Red Chinese to leave Korea at once and to the North Korean Communist troops to lay down their arms now need not be made by the U.N. in the form of any resolution, for that could mean dilatory debate and political maneuvering. After all, the President of the United States—as military agent of the U.N.—can make any military pronouncement deemed necessary in the circumstances. It is not unprecedented for such an appeal to be made to the opposing forces in the midst of a war that is taking a terrible toll of the enemy.

With the rapid mobilization of American might, together with U.N. contributions of manpower, the U.N. forces now are capable of a prolonged war which could conceivably last for two or three years. It is the duty of the U.N. to afford the enemy an opportunity to stop now before the lives of many more human beings are needlessly sacrificed.

It so happens that U.N. losses are relatively small, while the enemy is losing at a ratio of at least 10 to 1, and some estimates run as high as 20 to 1. Now is the time to give the enemy a chance to pull out.

As for punishment of the aggressor, this can be the subject of U.N. conferences once the Communists have withdrawn from all Korea. There are various guarantees which must be obtained against a recurrence of aggression. The Communist government of China, moreover, must undergo a period of probation for at least a year, and the U.N. must be the final judge of whether the Communist regime has gained legitimately the right to represent the Chinese people. Certainly it would be in order to insist on free elections in China supervised by the U.N., as has been the case in other countries where new governments have been established.

The U.N. must not have any inferiority complex about handling this business. The fact is that the Communists are being given a terrible beating, and it isn't humane for the U.N. forces to continue the slaughter for one moment longer than is absolutely essential, to gain the desired objectives. Whether or not these can be achieved by an appeal to the Red Chinese to withdraw immediately from Korea, the record should show that at least such an appeal was made. For, if the appeal is rejected, the responsibility for the continuance of the destruction of human life will rest on the Communists and they can hardly pose before the world any longer as the partisans of peace.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I had more than half expected the heavens to fall in consequence of my daring to name in print one Arthur J. Goldsmith, a New York broker of mysterious mein, who runs a propaganda layout from a three-room political lair in the Waldorf Tower. This plant is disguised on the letterheads of his several committees by the demure address, "100 East 50th street." I was told to be afraid of this guy because he had mysterious influence and would hex whoever should oppose his sly political designs, but though I wait in fear beside the phone, the wire hasn't come which says that I am canned.

I think it is a good thing to poke out characters who have been built into dragons in the last few years. I think it is good even for the dragons.

Goldsmith refused to speak to me by phone and was pretty nasty, too. But I have learned that he was mixed up in an attempt to organize an outfit which would have been the Republican equivalent of the thing called "Americans for the Democratic action," which almost dissolved the Democratic party into Fascist-Socialism.

The New York Times covered the "organization" meeting of this device. It said, under a Philadelphia dateline: "A group of Republican leaders from more than a dozen states today formed an organization called Republican advance and issued a 'declaration of principles' designed to help 'revitalize' the party." It didn't name these "leaders" though.

Those at the meeting included Russel Davenport, still described, by courtesy, I presume, as writer, editor and advisor to Wendell Willkie in the 1940 presidential campaign, "and Arthur J. Goldsmith, retired New York businessman."

If Davenport is a writer and editor I am out of step, because his last connection of importance that I heard of was something with Henry Luce, who let loose the time style jabberwocky on our journalism, and the affair with Willkie was so futile and silly that I wouldn't want it mentioned if I were Davenport.

If Goldsmith is a leader he has introduced a new switch in leadership, because he refused to talk and, though he promised me a letter, I haven't got it yet.

Herbert Swope, who belongs to some of the paper groups, of which about a half dozen operate from Goldsmith's apartment in the Waldorf Tower, told me Goldsmith was afraid of me.

Well, maybe he had better be.

One Henry Varnum Poor, identified by the Times as a former president of the Young Republican Club of New York, said Republican advance would have an office at 300 Lexington avenue, New York.

He said they wanted to assure the Asian people that the U.S.A. didn't want to intrude in their affairs in a dominating or possessive manner. And wanted, moreover, to assure the Asians that we were prepared to help them defend their freedom.

This all sounds so harmless that I am suspicious and I find aid and comfort in these thoughts in a piece by Williard Edwards, of the Washington Bureau of the Chicago Tribune. Williard took a look at this thing and wrote:

"A self-styled 'Republican advance' movement was disclosed today on Capitol Hill. It secretly originated at a Fair Deal left-wing group meeting last April. It has a financial 'angel' who helped oust Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Democrat, in 1946. Mystery has clouded the origin of a 'declaration of principles' issued July 1, (1950) at Philadelphia, which was given much prominence in the eastern Internationalist press. The sessions preceding the issuance of the statement were clouded in secrecy. The names of the 'Republican leaders from more than a dozen states,' who were said to have participated, were not made public. Republican leaders conferred three months ago on a warning against the new left-wing strategy which, having weakened the Democratic party to the point of acceptance of a Socialist philosophy, was now to be turned upon similar infiltration of the Republican party."

Edwards said Goldsmith was the financial backer of the move-

COMMUNISM AND IMPERIALISM

Communism has always presented a difficult problem to a lot of people who style themselves liberals. Try as they may, they are never quite able to convince themselves that communism is as bad as other forms of totalitarianism.

In plain truth, they have bought the goods that Stalin and Company are selling. In their hearts they really believe the Communists mean what they say when they talk beautifully of cooperative society, the "people's" democracy, and what not.

Russia's postwar career of imperialist expansion, of ceaseless undermining of other governments, of brutal oppression whevever it has gained control, threw these "liberals" into a state of complete bewilderment.

They could not in good conscience accept these things, even in the name of the great Communistic experiment. Yet they were already publicly committed to a fixed position of opposition to democratic capitalism; they could not recant and suddenly declare that, after all, our system isn't so bad.

Where to go?

A good many of these befuddled citizens have not figured out how to resolve their dilemma. But some have come up with a unique solution which illustrates what tortuous twistings the human mind may sometimes go through to escape reality.

These folk now declare that not communism but Russian imperialism is the real enemy. In other words, communism would be fine if it had no military ambitions.

According to one reliable newsman, Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, has been lured into this kind of thinking. The reporter quotes Reuther as saying:

"I am not interested in fighting world communism. I'm only interested in fighting Communist imperialism. I draw a distinction between (them). I'm willing to leave the fight against world communism to (Senator) McCarthy and the Republicans."

Only a badly confused man would attempt to draw such a distinction, for in fact it does not exist. Communism and imperialism, as practiced from their headquarters in Moscow, are bound together inseparably. By its nature, communism cannot endure competition, since its methods and results show up badly when set beside a system rooted in freedom. Therefore communism must always move to stamp out its competition.

What men are really saying when they seek to cleave a fine line between communism and Communist imperialism is that they are bankrupt as political thinkers.

They do not like what they see about them. They can conceive of no solution to our and the world's problems which does not add up to socialism. When they think of communism as a theory, they think only of its socialistic content, not of its many extreme elements of totalitarianism.

No one pretends our system is perfect. It has many flaws. But isn't it conceivable that the imaginations of earnest men would be put to better use improving a system founded in liberty, rather than in searching for ways to scrap that system?

Until the self-styled liberals stop making apologies for systems of enslavement and devote their energies to making a free government and a free economy work better, they're unlikely to command much attention as serious and responsible men.

SIGN OF SPRING

Whatever the calendar may say or the thermometer record, the early days of February are the first harbingers of spring. The days are already noticeably longer than in December, and sometimes there is a little warmth in the sun. Even more convincing is the fact that in February the big league baseball teams go South for their spring training.

When fresh baseball news appears regularly in the sports columns, spring is just around the corner. Or so we have been led to believe.

REWARD FOR ARTISTRY

Writers whose books fail to sell should not be too discouraged. "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers," by Henry D. Thoreau, philosopher, nature-lover and friend of Ralph Waldo Emerson, appeared in 1849. In four years only 219 copies were sold. Yet it has taken an assured place as one of the great masterpieces of American literature. Thoreau, unhappily, did not live to receive this recognition; such is often the fate of artists.

The best way to quarrel with an angry person is to give him but a meek answer. It will make him madder and you happier—and it's obvious who will win.

The person undergoing an attack of humility may simply be shrinking back to normal size.

'These Days'

READING AND WRITING

Like most in this business and many in Congress, I receive a huge mail which I like to read. But there is the rub. Some of it simply cannot be read. It is not legible to the naked eye.

Children used to be taught laboriously to write. In my day, it started with the Spencerian style and then went to the Palmer Method, and no matter what you say about those old-fashioned ways, the reader could read what the writer wrote.

I receive loads of letters which I cannot read and which all in my office try to decipher, as though it were a foreign tongue.

Often the trouble is what might be called "personality." The writer wants to be distinctive. Often it is obviously a "she" who cultivated a penmanship which stands out like nothing else on earth. But it cannot be read.

One correspondent writes with a very thinly pointed pen in great strokes. Really, to read every word would require one of those funny magnifying glasses that eye doctors stick on their noses when they look into your eyes. It is all very beautiful on the page—like an etching—but it does not read.

Often the worst writing comes on the fanciest stationery. I am told that private schools go in strong for this "personality" penmanship, which cannot be read and is a sort of secret code among the initiates.

The cult of penmanship is in some way related to the exposure of the subconscious. Not being a seer, I cannot make out the subconscious. I only know that someone has taken pen in hand and wishes to communicate with me, either to say that I have the best mind since Aristotle or that I am so low a character that a louse is my peer.

But neither praise nor smear comes forth. Rather it is a puzzle—not a Chinese puzzle because I might make something of that, nor semitic nor slavic. No! It is none of these but something in the realm of non-objective art, like my own signature, which I devised at an early age to guard against its being copied should I ever have enough money to put it on a check. It has now become an unbreakable habit like opium and even looks as though it might have been written under its influence.

The letter "M" seems to lend itself to a druid influence. Three vertical lines are capped by a broad horizontal line. Failure to do it correctly makes it look like a Russian "N," which can look like an English "H," if you know what I mean. When I see that curious "M," I am often prevented from reading the letter because when it can be written so easily and clearly the way it used to be taught.

My wife says that she once listened to a prolonged conversation among parents on the virtues of the backstroke. Now, that style of writing saves lots of time because I never read it. I refuse. Come friend or foe, I will not read the backstroke. This is a tricky style, the writer so smudging the paper that there could not have been an intent to have the item read. No one should put such labor upon any innocent person.

My wife says that the defenders of the backstroke say that it makes the writer distinctive, different, altogether unusual. All of which is true, but then so is a chimpanzee. If being different is a guide to penmanship, then why not write with the nail of the pinky or the left hand? That might produce something even more unusual.

Well, here's to those writers who make it plain, whose words stand out clear and sure and more convincing than a typewriter. There are many who write as though they meant what they say and whose character stands out like Herbert Hoover's Gibraltar, for all to see who care to. Maybe, we should all go back to the good, old Spencerian style or the Palmer Method or any copy book exercises which taught that clarity is expected in penmanship. And the teacher raped the knuckles with a ruler if you smudged the page.

HOME TREATMENT OF SKIN AILMENTS

There is one thing about a skin disease, the patient sees it when it starts and immediately decides to do something about it. This early treatment may be helpful or, what is more important, may be harmful, as the patient doesn't know the nature of the ailment. Because some ointment or paste is already in the house and has helped another member of the family, it is applied to the skin eruption, although it was prescribed for an entirely different ailment.

In the Boston issue, Medical Clinics of North America, Drs. Chester M. Frazier and Roy W. Leeper, Massachusetts General Hospital, state that it is these factors that cause skin ailments to be treated with unwarranted and inappropriate vigor. "How desirable a campaign would be to educate the lay public and physicians alike against using any home or general treatment, as has been successfully conducted by the surgeons against the use of cathartics in the presence of the vague symptoms of early appendicitis."

Using a remedy for a skin ailment that is meant to soothe the ailment when what is needed, particularly in chronic cases, is something to irritate it into more activity, an increase in the symptoms, means that the soothing ointment only prolongs the course of the skin ailment present.

Another point now fully recognized is that the course of an ailment may differ with the personality, or physical, mental and emotional make-up, of the patient. Thus the treatment may vary for the same disease.

After discussing the common diseases of the skin—acne, psoriasis, eczema due to contact with various substances, fungus eruptions, head and body lice, athlete's foot, poison ivy and other plants and pollen—Drs. Frazier and Leeper conclude: "In the treatment of the common diseases of the skin, the physician is confronted with the necessity of recognizing the particular disease present, as it may be due to contact with various substances or due to some infection. Treatment must be directed against the cause, once the cause is recognized. The first thought then is to follow the wide general principle—first, do no harm.

Long Tom Connally

Sen. "Long Tawn" Connally of Texas is famous for his gruff side remarks, but it wasn't until the hearing on Atlantic Pact strategy that one of his remarks made television.

The colorful Texan was presiding at the Joint Foreign Relations-Armed Services quiz of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. As he called the roll, and came to the name of crime-busting Sen. Estes Kefauver, there was silence. "He's off chasing crap-shooters," Connally grumbled into an open microphone.

There were roars of laughter from the audience. "That's off the record," boomed "Long Tawm," and went on.

Needless Slaughter of Red Chinese Could Be Halted by Their Withdrawal Across Yalu

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 21—The time has come to put an end to the war in Korea. It can be done by exerting the moral force of the whole world. Specifically, it calls for a direct appeal to the Communists by the President of the United States, in the name of humanity, to help stop the useless slaughter of human beings.

The United Nations forces are destroying tens of thousands of persons in one of the bloodiest episodes in history. The napalm bomb — in many respects more devastating to an army than the atomic bomb—is burning alive enemy soldiers and innumerable civilians in Korea. This is perhaps a reprisal for the torture or shooting of American boys when captured as prisoners.

The United Nations forces can go on indefinitely killing Communist soldiers and sympathizers. There would be no reason for this if the Communist leaders would agree now to withdraw all their troops across the Yalu river.

Once the Communists have withdrawn from Korea itself, the way is open to discuss the maintenance of peace in Korea and the establishment of stable conditions there under the auspices of the U.N. After stable conditions have ben attained, the U.N. forces could be gradually reduced.

An appeal to the Red Chinese to leave Korea at once and to the North Korean Communist troops to lay down their arms now need not be made by the U.N. in the form of any resolution, for that could mean dilatory debate and political maneuvering. After all, the President of the United States—as military agent of the U.N.—can make any military pronouncement deemed necessary in the circumstances. It is not unprecedented for such an appeal to be made to the opposing forces in the midst of a war that is taking a terrible toll of the enemy.

With the rapid mobilization of American might, together with U.N. contributions of manpower, the U.N. forces now are capable of a prolonged war which could conceivably last for two or three years. It is the duty of the U.N. to afford the enemy an opportunity to stop now before the lives of many more human beings are needlessly sacrificed.

It so happens that U.N. losses are relatively small, while the enemy is losing at a ratio of at least 10 to 1, and some estimates run as high as 20 to 1. Now is the time to give the enemy a chance to pull out.

As for punishment of the aggressor, this can be the subject of U.N. conferences once the Communists have withdrawn from all Korea. There are various guarantees which must be obtained against a recurrence of aggression. The Communist government of China, moreover, must undergo a period of probation for at least a year, and the U.N. must be the final judge of whether the Communist regime has gained legitimately the right to represent the Chinese people. Certainly it would be in order to insist on free elections in China supervised by the U.N., as has been the case in other countries where new governments have been established.

The U.N. must not have any inferiority complex about handling this business. The fact is that the Communists are being given a terrible beating, and it isn't humane for the U.N. forces to continue the slaughter for one moment longer than is absolutely essential to gain the desired objectives. Whether or not these can be achieved by an appeal to the Red Chinese to withdraw immediately from Korea, the record should show that at least such an appeal was made. For, if the appeal is rejected, the responsibility for the continuance of the destruction of human life will rest on the Communists and they can hardly pose before the world any longer as the partisans of peace.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I had more than half expected the heavens to fall in consequence of my daring to name in print one Arthur J. Goldsmith, a New York broker of mysterious mein, who runs a propaganda layout from a three-room political lair in the Waldorf Tower. This plant is disguised on the letterheads of his several committees by the demure address, "100 East 50th street." I was told to be afraid of this guy because he had mysterious influence and would hex whoever should oppose his sly political designs, but though I wait in fear beside the phone, the wire hasn't come which says that I am canned.

I think it is a good thing to poke out characters who have been built into dragons in the last few years. I think it is good even for the dragons.

Goldsmith refused to speak to me by phone and was pretty nasty, too. But I have learned that he was mixed up in an attempt to organize an outfit which would have been the Republican equivalent of the thing called "Americans for the Democratic action," which almost dissolved the Democratic party into Fascist-Socialism.

The New York Times covered the "organization" meeting of this device. It said, under a Philadelphia dateline: "A group of Republican leaders from more than a dozen states today formed an organization called Republican advance and issued a 'declaration of principles' designed to help 'revitalize' the party." It didn't name these "leaders" though.

Those at the meeting included Russel Davenport, still described, by courtesy, I presume, as writer, editor and advisor to Wendell Willkie in the 1940 presidential campaign, "and Arthur J. Goldsmith, retired New York businessman."

If Davenport is a writer and editor I am out of step, because his last connection of importance that I heard of was something with Henry Luce, who let loose the time style jabberwocky on our journalism, and the affair with Willkie was so futile and silly that I wouldn't want it mentioned if I were Davenport.

If Goldsmith is a leader he has introduced a new switch in leadership, because he refused to talk and, though he promised me a letter, I haven't got it yet.

Herbert Swope, who belongs to some of the paper groups, of which about a half dozen operate from Goldsmith's apartment in the Waldorf Tower, told me Goldsmith was afraid of me.

Well, maybe he had better be.

One Henry Varnum Poor, identified by the Times as a former president of the Young Republican Club of New York, said Republican advance would have an office at 300 Lexington avenue, New York.

He said they wanted to assure the Asian people that the U.S.A. didn't want to intrude in their affairs in a dominating or possessive manner. And wanted, moreover, to assure the Asians that we were prepared to help them defend their freedom.

This all sounds so harmless that I am suspicious and I find aid and comfort in these thoughts in a piece by Williard Edwards, of the Washington Bureau of the Chicago Tribune. Williard took a look at this thing and wrote:

"A self-styled 'Republican advance' movement was disclosed today on Capitol Hill. It secretly originated at a Fair Deal left-wing group meeting last April. It has a financial 'angel' who helped oust Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Democrat, in 1946. Mystery has clouded the origin of a 'declaration of principles' issued July 1, (1950) at Philadelphia, which was given much prominence in the eastern Internationalist press. The sessions preceding the issuance of the statement were clouded in secrecy. The names of the 'Republican leaders from more than a dozen states,' who were said to have participated, were not made public. Republican leaders conferred three months ago on a warning against the new left-wing strategy which, having weakened the Democratic party to the point of acceptance of a Socialist philosophy, was now to be turned upon similar infiltration of the Republican party."

Edwards said Goldsmith was the financial backer of the move-

COMMUNISM AND IMPERIALISM

Communism has always presented a difficult problem to a lot of people who style themselves liberals. Try as they may, they are never quite able to convince themselves that communism is as bad as other forms of totalitarianism.

In plain truth, they have bought the goods that Stalin and Company are selling. In their hearts they really believe the Communists mean what they say when they talk beautifully of cooperative society, the "people's" democracy, and what not.

Russia's postwar career of imperialist expansion, of ceaseless undermining of other governments, of brutal oppression whevever it has gained control, threw these "liberals" into a state of complete bewilderment.

They could not in good conscience accept these things, even in the name of the great Communistic experiment. Yet they were already publicly committed to a fixed position of opposition to democratic capitalism; they could not recant and suddenly declare that, after all, our system isn't so bad.

Where to go?

A good many of these befuddled citizens have not figured out how to resolve their dilemma. But some have come up with a unique solution which illustrates what tortuous twistings the human mind may sometimes go through to escape reality.

These folk now declare that not communism but Russian imperialism is the real enemy. In other words, communism would be fine if it had no military ambitions.

According to one reliable newsman, Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, has been lured into this kind of thinking. The reporter quotes Reuther as saying:

"I am not interested in fighting world communism. I'm only interested in fighting Communist imperialism. I draw a distinction between (them). I'm willing to leave the fight against world communism to (Senator) McCarthy and the Republicans."

Only a badly confused man would attempt to draw such a distinction, for in fact it does not exist. Communism and imperialism, as practiced from their headquarters in Moscow, are bound together inseparably. By its nature, communism cannot endure competition, since its methods and results show up badly when set beside a system rooted in freedom. Therefore communism must always move to stamp out its competition.

What men are really saying when they seek to cleave a fine line between communism and Communist imperialism is that they are bankrupt as political thinkers.

They do not like what they see about them. They can conceive of no solution to our and the world's problems which does not add up to socialism. When they think of communism as a theory, they think only of its socialistic content, not of its many extreme elements of totalitarianism.

No one pretends our system is perfect. It has many flaws. But isn't it conceivable that the imaginations of earnest men would be put to better use improving a system founded in liberty, rather than in searching for ways to scrap that system?

Until the self-styled liberals stop making apologies for systems of enslavement and devote their energies to making a free government and a free economy work better, they're unlikely to command much attention as serious and responsible men.

SIGN OF SPRING

Whatever the calendar may say or the thermometer record, the early days of February are the first harbingers of spring. The days are already noticeably longer than in December, and sometimes there is a little warmth in the sun. Even more convincing is the fact that in February the big league baseball teams go South for their spring training.

When fresh baseball news appears regularly in the sports columns, spring is just around the corner. Or so we have been led to believe.

REWARD FOR ARTISTRY

Writers whose books fail to sell should not be too discouraged. "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers," by Henry D. Thoreau, philosopher, nature-lover and friend of Ralph Waldo Emerson, appeared in 1849. In four years only 219 copies were sold. Yet it has taken an assured place as one of the great masterpieces of American literature. Thoreau, unhappily, did not live to receive this recognition; such is often the fate of artists.

The best way to quarrel with an angry person is to give him but a meek answer. It will make him madder and you happier—and it's obvious who will win.

The person undergoing an attack of humility may simply be shrinking back to normal size.

READING AND WRITING

Like most in this business and many in Congress, I receive a huge mail which I like to read. But there is the rub. Some of it simply cannot be read. It is not legible to the naked eye.

Children used to be taught laboriously to write. In my day, it started with the Spencerian style and then went to the Palmer Method, and no matter what you say about those old-fashioned ways, the reader could read what the writer wrote.

I receive loads of letters which I cannot read and which all in my office try to decipher, as though it were a foreign tongue.

Often the trouble is what might be called "personality." The writer wants to be distinctive. Often it is obviously a "she" who cultivated a penmanship which stands out like nothing else on earth. But it cannot be read.

One correspondent writes with a very thinly pointed pen in great strokes. Really, to read every word would require one of those funny magnifying glasses that eye doctors stick on their noses when they look into your eyes. It is all very beautiful on the page—like an etching—but it does not read.

Often the worst writing comes on the fanciest stationery. I am told that private schools go in strong for this "personality" penmanship, which cannot be read and is a sort of secret code among the initiates.

The cult of penmanship is in some way related to the exposure of the subconscious. Not being a seer, I cannot make out the subconscious. I only know that someone has taken pen in hand and wishes to communicate with me, either to say that I have the best mind since Aristotle or that I am so low a character that a louse is my peer.

But neither praise nor smear comes forth. Rather it is a puzzle—not a Chinese puzzle because I might make something of that, nor semitic nor slavic. No! It is none of these but something in the realm of non-objective art, like my own signature, which I devised at an early age to guard against its being copied should I ever have enough money to put it on a check. It has now become an unbreakable habit like opium and even looks as though it might have been written under its influence.

The letter "M" seems to lend itself to a druid influence. Three vertical lines are capped by a broad horizontal line. Failure to do it correctly makes it look like a Russian "N," which can look like an English "H," if you know what I mean. When I see that curious "M," I am often prevented from reading the letter because when it can be written so easily and clearly the way it used to be taught.

My wife says that she once listened to a prolonged conversation among parents on the virtues of the backstroke. Now, that style of writing saves lots of time because I never read it. I refuse. Come friend or foe, I will not read the backstroke. This is a tricky style, the writer so smudging the paper that there could not have been an intent to have the item read. No one should put such labor upon any innocent person.

My wife says that the defenders of the backstroke say that it makes the writer distinctive, different, altogether unusual. All of which is true, but then so is a chimpanzee. If being different is a guide to penmanship, then why not write with the nail of the pinky or the left hand? That might produce something even more unusual.

Well, here's to those writers who make it plain, whose words stand out clear and sure and more convincing than a typewriter. There are many who write as though they meant what they say and whose character stands out like Herbert Hoover's Gibraltar, for all to see who care to. Maybe, we should all go back to the good, old Spencerian style or the Palmer Method or any copy book exercises which taught that clarity is expected in penmanship. And the teacher raped the knuckles with a ruler if you smudged the page.

HOME TREATMENT OF SKIN AILMENTS

There is one thing about a skin disease, the patient sees it when it starts and immediately decides to do something about it. This early treatment may be helpful or, what is more important, may be harmful, as the patient doesn't know the nature of the ailment. Because some ointment or paste is already in the house and has helped another member of the family, it is applied to the skin eruption, although it was prescribed for an entirely different ailment.

In the Boston issue, Medical Clinics of North America, Drs. Chester M. Frazier and Roy W. Leeper, Massachusetts General Hospital, state that it is these factors that cause skin ailments to be treated with unwarranted and inappropriate vigor. "How desirable a campaign would be to educate the lay public and physicians alike against using any home or general treatment, as has been successfully conducted by the surgeons against the use of cathartics in the presence of the vague symptoms of early appendicitis."

Using a remedy for a skin ailment that is meant to soothe the ailment when what is needed, particularly in chronic cases, is something to irritate it into more activity, an increase in the symptoms, means that the soothing ointment only prolongs the course of the skin ailment present.

Another point now fully recognized is that the course of an ailment may differ with the personality, or physical, mental and emotional make-up, of the patient. Thus the treatment may vary for the same disease.

After discussing the common diseases of the skin—acne, psoriasis, eczema due to contact with various substances, fungus eruptions, head and body lice, athlete's foot, poison ivy and other plants and pollen—Drs. Frazier and Leeper conclude: "In the treatment of the common diseases of the skin, the physician is confronted with the necessity of recognizing the particular disease present, as it may be due to contact with various substances or due to some infection. Treatment must be directed against the cause, once the cause is recognized. The first thought then is to follow the wide general principle—first, do no harm.

Treatment is not a matter of doing something; it is one of protecting of disinfecting the skin by the most simple and reasonable method."

So It Will Bear More and Better Fruit

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The bitter row over labor participation in the mobilization picture boils down partly to a clash with Gen. Lucius Clay, former military governor of Germany, now right-hand man to Defense Mobilization Czar Charles E. Wilson. There is also a lot of peeve against Harry S. Truman personally.

Clay, a hard-hitting, hard-working army officer, accustomed to giving and taking orders, was continually clashing with civilians when he served as right-hand man to War Mobilizer Jimmy Byrnes in World War 2. Later, while in Germany, he established what is probably a record for any American official. He cabled his resignation to the State Department as military governor of Germany three times in one day.

Illustrative of Clay's difficulties with labor leaders is one backstage incident involving the appointment of a manpower commissioner.

President Truman had telephoned Mobilization Czar Wilson asking him to appoint ex-Sen. Frank Graham of North Carolina as manpower commissioner. Former president of the University of North Carolina, Dr. Graham served as a member of the War Labor Board in World War 2 and played a potent part in keeping labor relations on an even keel.

Wilson seemed to welcome Truman's suggestion, but later, when Graham called on Wilson and General Clay, the latter made it clear that Graham would be only one of six assistants, and would report not to Mobilizer Boss Wilson but to Clay through Wall Street investment banker Sidney Weinberg.

Under these hamstringing conditions, Graham politely declined.

Note — Graham subsequently went to Alaska, showed how skillful he was in handling labor relations by smoothing out a difficult situation threatening to stop vital construction of air force housing and army fortifications.

Clay Stages a Vishinsky

On another occasion General Clay had called a closed-door conference attended by Secretary of Labor Tobin, Selective Service Director Hershey and Presidential Aide Daniel H. Stowe, to discuss manpower problems.

Clay, at that time, was all set to announce his own man as manpower commissioner, but he had scarcely begun to talk when White House Assistant Stowe interrupted. He advised that he had instructions from the President that the manpower commissionership was not to be discussed.

Stowe did not say so, but the President knew, even then, how vigorously labor felt on the subject, and he did not want General Clay dictating the appointment.

Faced with this message from the White House, Clay got red under the collar and stamped out.

Later he got his way. His own Candidate, Arthur Flemming, of the Civil Service Commission, became manpower commissioner after being pushed through by Wilson himself.

This is one of the reasons labor is so sore.

Big Business Tycoons

Another reason is the number of big business tycoons around Wilson and the manner in which they dominate the mobilization picture. Here are some of them:

General Clay, on leave from Continental Can; Fred Searls, on leave from Newmont Mining, a J. P. Morgan firm; Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman, Sachs, investment bankers; Howard Chase, of General Mills; Alfred Howse, of the Forest Land Development Co., general economic adviser to Wilson. The operations of Weinberg's Goldman, Sachs investment house during the depression, incidentally, was one of the reasons why Congress passed the Securities and Exchange Act.

While these are skilled businessmen, they serve as "no-dollar" men. In other words, they are paid not by the government but by their own companies, thus are in the difficult position of serving one master but being paid by another.

These businessmen can do an important job for their government, but they need to be counterbalanced by labor representatives. Roosevelt appointed labor men among the top executives of war mobilization, so labor was always a part of the war effort. Now labor has scarcely been consulted.

The fact is that the Communists are being given a terrible beating, and it isn't humane for the U.N. forces to continue the slaughter for one moment longer than is absolutely essential to gain the desired objectives. Whether or not these can be achieved by an appeal to the Red Chinese to withdraw immediately from Korea, the record should show that at least such an appeal was made. For, if the appeal is rejected, the responsibility for the continuance of the destruction of human life will rest on the Communists and they can hardly pose before the world any longer as the partisans of peace.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I had more than half expected the heavens to fall in consequence of my daring to name in print one Arthur J. Goldsmith, a New York broker of mysterious mein, who runs a propaganda layout from a three-room political lair in the Waldorf Tower. This plant is disguised on the letterheads of his several committees by the demure address, "100 East 50th street." I was told to be afraid of this guy because he had mysterious influence and would hex whoever should oppose his sly political designs, but though I wait in fear beside the phone, the wire hasn't come which says that I am canned.

I think it is a good thing to poke out characters who have been built into dragons in the last few years. I think it is good even for the dragons.

Goldsmith refused to speak to me by phone and was pretty nasty, too. But I have learned that he was mixed up in an attempt to organize an outfit which would have been the Republican equivalent of the thing called "Americans for the Democratic action," which almost dissolved the Democratic party into Fascist-Socialism.

The New York Times covered the "organization" meeting of this device. It said, under a Philadelphia dateline: "A group of Republican leaders from more than a dozen states today formed an organization called Republican advance and issued a 'declaration of principles' designed to help 'revitalize' the party." It didn't name these "leaders" though.

Those at the meeting included Russel Davenport, still described, by courtesy, I presume, as writer, editor and advisor to Wendell Willkie in the 1940 presidential campaign, "and Arthur J. Goldsmith, retired New York businessman."

If Davenport is a writer and editor I am out of step, because his last connection of importance that I heard of was something with Henry Luce, who let loose the time style jabberwocky on our journalism, and the affair with Willkie was so futile and silly that I wouldn't want it mentioned if I were Davenport.

If Goldsmith is a leader he has introduced a new switch in leadership, because he refused to talk and, though he promised me a letter, I haven't got it yet.

Herbert Swope, who belongs to some of the paper groups, of which about a half dozen operate from Goldsmith's apartment in the Waldorf Tower, told me Goldsmith was afraid of me.

Well, maybe he had better be.

One Henry Varnum Poor, identified by the Times as a former president of the Young Republican Club of New York, said Republican advance would have an office at 300 Lexington avenue, New York.

He said they wanted to assure the Asian people that the U.S.A. didn't want to intrude in their affairs in a dominating or possessive manner. And wanted, moreover, to assure the Asians that we were prepared to help them defend their freedom.

This all sounds so harmless that I am suspicious and I find aid and comfort in these thoughts in a piece by Williard Edwards, of the Washington Bureau of the Chicago Tribune. Williard took a look at this thing and wrote:

"A self-styled 'Republican advance' movement was disclosed today on Capitol Hill. It secretly originated at a Fair Deal left-wing group meeting last April. It has a financial 'angel' who helped oust Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Democrat, in 1946. Mystery has clouded the origin of a 'declaration of principles' issued July 1, (1950) at Philadelphia, which was given much prominence in the eastern Internationalist press. The sessions preceding the issuance of the statement were clouded in secrecy. The names of the 'Republican leaders from more than a dozen states,' who were said to have participated, were not made public. Republican leaders conferred three months ago on a warning against the new left-wing strategy which, having weakened the Democratic party to the point of acceptance of a Socialist philosophy, was now to be turned upon similar infiltration of the Republican party."

Edwards said Goldsmith was the financial backer of the move-

Pretty Alien Is Vaughan Secretary

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—The White House has confirmed that an alien—a pretty, 41-year-old Australian—is secretary to Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, army aide to President Truman.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told newsmen yesterday Mrs. Frances Veronica Jolly joined the White House secretarial staff last Dec. 1. Short called reporters to the White House to discuss brunette Mrs. Jolly's status after references to her in the "Cholly Knickerbocker" column of the New York Journal-American. The column said Monday that "a former Australian who got her United States citizenship in no time at all" had set the capital buzzing."

Short said Mrs. Jolly had been secretary to a long series of United States generals in the Pacific during World War 2 and that she became a permanent resident of the United States under special legislation passed by Congress last year despite Justice Department disapproval. She is now a $4,600-a-year civilian employe of the army.

The New York column said there was whispering at the White House about "Harry Vaughan's beautiful private secretary who was rushed into American citizenship and is now firmly established in the White House."

Short said Mrs. Jolly has taken out her first naturalization papers and will be eligible for her second papers in October, 1953. She entered the United States Oct. 1, 1948 with a temporary visa good until Jan. 1, 1949.

Mrs. Jolly was assigned to General Vaughan because she was familiar with military paper work, Short said. He said Vaughan, then a colonel, was executive officer to Brig. Gen. Arthur Wilson when Mrs. Jolly became Wilson's secretary in Melbourne, Australia in 1942. Short said Vaughan told him he had nothing to do with passage of the special bill for Mrs. Jolly.

In her wartime work Mrs. Jolly handled "much more confidential matters" than she does as Vaughan's secretary, Short said.

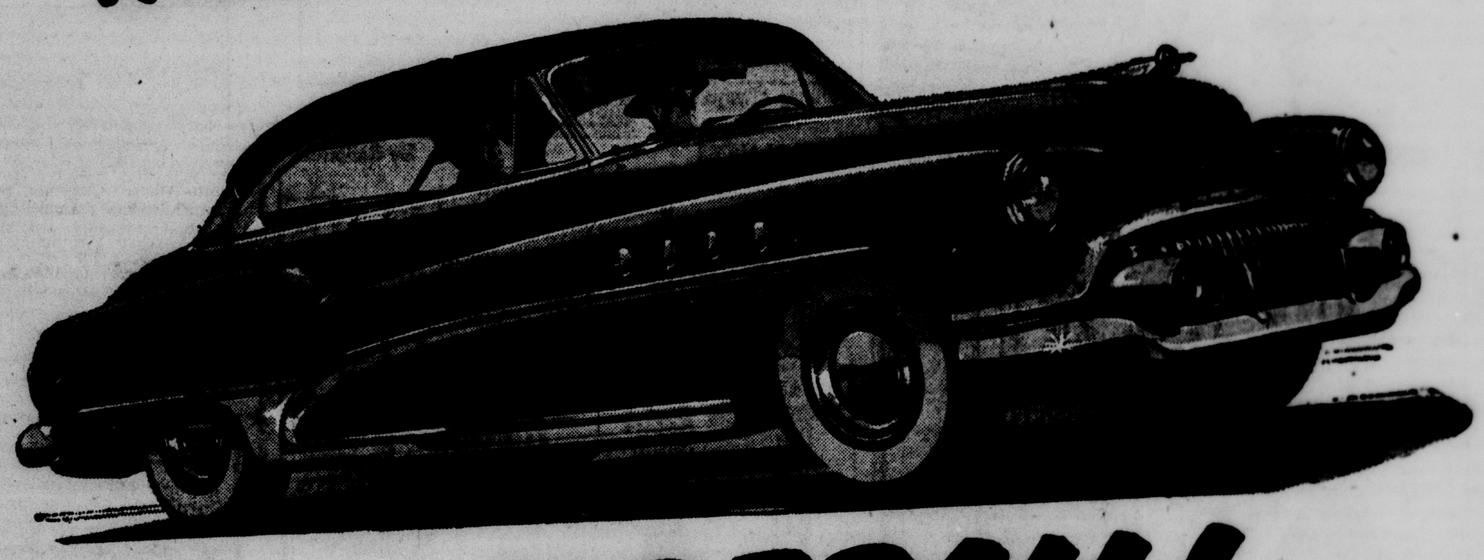
What's its Power?



FIREBALL!

(Only Buick can make this statement)

BEND an ear to the deep baritone song of this marvel motor, and you'll know we aren't fooling when we call it Fireball.

Mister, that's Power, with a capital P.

What happens beneath that brawny Buick bonnet happens in no other car in the world.

Years ahead of the rush to high-compression valve-in-head engines, Buick was in there pitching for more power from every drop of fuel.

The result was—and is—a spectacular engineering phenomenon that makes itself felt the instant you touch toe to gas treadle.

You command a rapid-fire sequence of tiny tornados, letting loose their pent-up power every five inches that a Buick travels.

If you could look inside that Fireball engine, you'd see the reason. Instead of the flat-topped pistons used in other cars, Buick uses a turbo-top piston, contoured like this:

So the inrushing fuel whirlwinds into a compressed ball that adds a super-urge to the downstroke of the piston.

And you get the thrill—and thrift—of this Buick "first" in every mile you drive.

More than that, you get an engine tried-and-true—an engine that's been polished and perfected in every detail up through the years.

Again and again, compression ratios have been stepped up to keep pace with advances in fuels. Self-setting valve lifters contribute to silence.

Micropoise balance and Hi-Poised engine mountings add two more Buick exclusives.

And the silken might of this Fireball's power has been made more beautifully obedient by still another "first"—Dynaflow Drive.*

So we list as a prime reason why "smart buy's Buick" this Fireball power plant—and a host of happy owners will say "Amen."

Better see your dealer soon, to find out what you've been missing.

Mister, that's Power, with a capital P.

What happens beneath that brawny Buick bonnet happens in no other car in the world.

Years ahead of the rush to high-compression valve-in-head engines, Buick was in there pitching for more power from every drop of fuel.

The result was—and is—a spectacular engineering phenomenon that makes itself felt the instant you touch toe to gas treadle.

You command a rapid-fire sequence of tiny tornados, letting loose their pent-up power every five inches that a Buick travels.

If you could look inside that Fireball engine, you'd see the reason. Instead of the flat-topped pistons used in other cars, Buick uses a turbo-top piston, contoured like this:

So the inrushing fuel whirlwinds into a compressed ball that adds a super-urge to the downstroke of the piston.

And you get the thrill—and thrift—of this Buick "first" in every mile you drive.

More than that, you get an engine tried-and-true—an engine that's been polished and perfected in every detail up through the years.

Again and again, compression ratios have been stepped up to keep pace with advances in fuels. Self-setting valve lifters contribute to silence.

Micropoise balance and Hi-Poised engine mountings add two more Buick exclusives.

And the silken might of this Fireball's power has been made more beautifully obedient by still another "first"—Dynaflow Drive.*

So we list as a prime reason why "smart buy's Buick" this Fireball power plant—and a host of happy owners will say "Amen."

Better see your dealer soon, to find out what you've been missing.

Pretty Alien Is Vaughan Secretary

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—The White House has confirmed that an alien—a pretty, 41-year-old Australian—is secretary to Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, army aide to President Truman.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told newsmen yesterday Mrs. Frances Veronica Jolly joined the White House secretarial staff last Dec. 1. Short called reporters to the White House to discuss brunette Mrs. Jolly's status after references to her in the "Cholly Knickerbocker" column of the New York Journal-American. The column said Monday that "a former Australian who got her United States citizenship in no time at all" had set the capital buzzing."

Short said Mrs. Jolly had been secretary to a long series of United States generals in the Pacific during World War 2 and that she became a permanent resident of the United States under special legislation passed by Congress last year despite Justice Department disapproval. She is now a $4,600-a-year civilian employe of the army.

The New York column said there was whispering at the White House about "Harry Vaughan's beautiful private secretary who was rushed into American citizenship and is now firmly established in the White House."

Short said Mrs. Jolly has taken out her first naturalization papers and will be eligible for her second papers in October, 1953. She entered the United States Oct. 1, 1948 with a temporary visa good until Jan. 1, 1949.

Mrs. Jolly was assigned to General Vaughan because she was familiar with military paper work, Short said. He said Vaughan, then a colonel, was executive officer to Brig. Gen. Arthur Wilson when Mrs. Jolly became Wilson's secretary in Melbourne, Australia in 1942. Short said Vaughan told him he had nothing to do with passage of the special bill for Mrs. Jolly.

In her wartime work Mrs. Jolly handled "much more confidential matters" than she does as Vaughan's secretary, Short said.

Question

I ask a simple question,
The truth I only wish;
Are all fishermen liars,
Or do only liars fish?

Willie—Don't you have any intelligence at all?

Charlie—Would you like to try for the $64 question?

It was one of those interminable Blood and Thunder meller-dramas. Through 12 acts and 85 scenes, the villain paid the heroine little attentions such as tying her to a buzz-saw, to some railroad tracks, sitting her on powder kegs, giving her hotfoots with blowtorches and cooling her off with poisoned drinks. Finally in the 13th act, the villain halts his devotions, and walking in on the heroine, he asks, as she shrinks back, "Tell me, gel—why do yuh hate me?"

Man—Does your wife help you pick your clothes?

Friend—No, only the pockets.

Walking is excellent exercise for everyone—it cures cold feet, ho heads, pale faces and bad tempers.

A little girl was watching her mother spread cold cream on her face. "What's that for, mummy," asked the tot. "That's to make me beautiful, darling," replied the mother. She watched her mother remove all the cream, then in a tone of sadness, whispered: "It didn't work, did it?"

Junior—Mom, tell me a bedtime story.

Mother—Wait till your Dad comes in—he'll tell us both one.

Jack—The doctor almost killed my wife.

Fred—You mean he told her she couldn't talk.

By promptly answering the telephone we often get ourselves into embarrassing and costly situations.

Another nice thing about being quiet and dumb is that you will seldom be picked to head a committee.

Couldn't Make Up Minds

A long meeting of the finance committee Monday night was apparently not enough to bring minority consent on the materials proposal and when the committee recessed immediately after roll call last night the stalemate prevailed.

After the committee came out of its meeting room, the Democrats went in for caucus and called in Steuding. The committee made a later try for agreement, Steuding was called back for conference with minority members and finally a short majority caucus was held before the aldermen took their council seats to vote favoring the bond issue for street work.

A member of the minority party indicated that the Democrats were willing to go along on the bond issue for street work under an agreement which would permit a member of the minority to be present when street work schedules are made.

A resolution directly authorizing the bond issue for the street work is still to be adopted. Action on this and the money asked for materials is expected at the regular meeting.

Another recessed meeting was expected because of the long argument on the "materials" proposal, but the councilmen voted to adjourn until the next regular session.

Two members of the College Women's Club, Mrs. Albert Kurdt and Mrs. Robert Groves, who attended the session as observers, remained until the end, even though they saw little action other than that of the councilmen filing in and out of the committee room.

Couldn't Make Up Minds

A long meeting of the finance committee Monday night was apparently not enough to bring minority consent on the materials proposal and when the committee recessed immediately after roll call last night the stalemate prevailed.

After the committee came out of its meeting room, the Democrats went in for caucus and called in Steuding. The committee made a later try for agreement, Steuding was called back for conference with minority members and finally a short majority caucus was held before the aldermen took their council seats to vote favoring the bond issue for street work.

A member of the minority party indicated that the Democrats were willing to go along on the bond issue for street work under an agreement which would permit a member of the minority to be present when street work schedules are made.

A resolution directly authorizing the bond issue for the street work is still to be adopted. Action on this and the money asked for materials is expected at the regular meeting.

Another recessed meeting was expected because of the long argument on the "materials" proposal, but the councilmen voted to adjourn until the next regular session.

Two members of the College Women's Club, Mrs. Albert Kurdt and Mrs. Robert Groves, who attended the session as observers, remained until the end, even though they saw little action other than that of the councilmen filing in and out of the committee room.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Ailene Cramer Appears On 'Sardi's' Radio Show

Woodstock, Feb. 21— Ailene Cramer, Woodstock, was among a group of celebrities interviewed Tuesday on Bill Slater's "Luncheon at Sardi's" program on station WOR. Slater introduced Ailene Cramer as "actress and founder of the Loft Players, a new and interesting group which is presenting plays at the Circle in the Square."

In the course of the interview, Ailene explained that the Loft Players had presented a season of drama in Woodstock and had recently opened the Circle in the Square, a theatre in the round in what was formerly the Greenwich Village Inn on Sherdian Square in New York.

She said that their first production "Dark of the Moon" is now running, and that it is possible because of the arena arrangement to see perfectly from any seat in the house. An appealing feature of the theatre, she explained, is its informal atmosphere, with coffee served in the lounge. A member of the audience recently was overheard to remark, "It's just like walking into your own living room." The theatre seats 200 people, and has an art gallery in the lobby.

A completely cooperative project, a policy which the Loft Players began when they presented plays at the Maverick Theatre last summer, no member of the organization is paid more than $15 a week, even members of the board of directors. It was only possible, Aileen added, because of the ingenuity of one of their group, a young actress from Texas who is an expert dietitian. In charge of the "Eat Right Club" she provides meals for the 10 people in the company and prepares most of them herself.

Slater remarked that on such a slender budget some of the company must do other jobs. Aileen assured him that this wasn't so, as each member of the group is completely devoted to the present work and future of the Loft Players.

Notes on Music

Note Reading for Beginner

The fundamentals of note reading, which come during the first few lessons of panio study can be made infinitely more easy by the system of learning to identify them away from the piano.

These first few lessons offer the student a number of musicial notes and symbols which must be memborized as to their time values and technical names. Next, the beginner is told how to identify these notes on the ledger lines of his musical pieces and where to find them on the piano.

His first few musical pieces generally contain only notes written within the lines and spaces of the treble clef. Gradually new notes are learned as they appear in his musical pieces, which grow progressively more complex as study continues.

I find that when the student learns his counting at first away from the piano, by use of technical exercises known as Time Drills, he progresses faster. This "Away from the Piano" method of learning how to identify the notes, seperate from the added confusion of having to play them at the same time; also helps the student.

Actually, as the beginner sits at the piano and endeavors to play his pieces he is confronted by three problems.

1. What are the notes and rests he sees, as to identification.

2. Where to find them on the piano.

3. What are the time values of the notes and rests.

Of course, there are added problems such as which fingering to use: how loud or how softly to play the notes, and how slow or fast to play the piece.

These latter problems are not dealt with in this column. Time values as to notes and rests can be easily memorized and this leaves us with the first and second problems here to consider.

1-Note identification should be studied by memorizing the ledger lines and spaces in groups; beginning at the start by including the study of the Bass Clef with the Treble.

First, learn all the F-A-C-E groups that appear either above or below the Treble or Bass Clefs for an interval of about one Octave. Then do the same for all the G-B-D groups of notes within that range. Other notes can be learned afterward, but it is important to learn both clefs at the same time. Then, memorize the locations of all the Fs; then the As, then Cs in said manner until fairly clear in the mind before actually attempting to read and play at sight.

Experts get part-score hands just as often as anybody else does. The reason I seldom discuss them is that a low contract isn't much of a story. It's hard to work up much excitement over a bid of two diamonds or so.

Nevertheless, there are part-score hands that stick in your memory for years. For example, there's the time that Ivan Half, well-known Pittsburgh expert, sweated out a contract of one club doubled. (Just to indicate how long such a story sticks, this hand was played in the American Contract Bridge League's winter national championship at Miami Beach in December, 1948.)

West opened the king of spades and switched to the queen of diamonds after seeing dummy's spades. Mr. Half, playing the South hand, won with the ace of diamonds and casually returned the eight of hearts.

West may have suspected that he was being given "the business," but played low in the hope that his partner could win the trick. Dummy won with the jack of hearts, of course, and returned a spade.

Now it was East's turn to slip. He discarded a heart instead of a diamond. South ruffed with the deuce, cashed the ace of hearts and the king of diamonds, and ruffed a diamond in dummy.

At this point six tricks were safely home, and Mr. Half returned a spade from dummy. East ruffed with the ten of clubs and then laid down the ace of clubs to capture dummy's king. But after East had next taken the queen and jack of clubs, declarer still had the eight of clubs for his seventh trick.

It had taken a mistake on the part of each opponent, but Mr. Half had been the star of a small drama that he (and many others) will remember for a long time.

Common Defense Policy

Wellington, New Zealand, Feb. 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland said today that New Zealand's future defense would be linked with that of other friendly Pacific nations in a common policy. Following talks with President Truman's envoy, State Department Adviser John Foster Dulles, Holland told newsmen he hoped some joint arrangement would be reached after Dulles reported to the President on his talks in the Far East. The prime minister declined to comment on the possibility of a triangular defense alliance of the United States, New Zealand and Australia.

The U. S. Reclamation Service says crops valued at more than $500,000,000 were produced on irrigated western land in 1949.

ment and called him a shadowy figure, whose name "figured in the testimony before a Senate Committee which inquired into charges that corrupt methods were used to defeat Senator Wheeler in the 1946 Democratic primary. Goldsmith was identified as secretary of the committee on public affairs, which contributed $4,250 to the campaign funds of Wheeler's opponent."

In connection with that campaign, Senator Johnson, a Democrat from Colorado, said one eastern group circulated a "vile, indecent and cowardly attack on Wheeler."

I believe Wheeler, himself, now practicing law in Washington, wrote me that he had come by correspondence in which one of Goldsmith's organizations "boasted of the fact that they beat me in Montana and also beat Revercomb in West Virginia, who opposed the wide open door for displaced persons. I checked and found that they did contribute money to Erickson (Wheeler's primary opponent). I also informed my good friend, Pat McCarran, senator from Nevada, that the same crowd that went after me was going after him."

Wheeler was dead right. Goldsmith's letterhead bunds in the Waldorf Tower, under the guise of 100 East 50th street, sent more than $5,000 to Nevada for McCarran's opponent. Pat won nevertheless and now there is going to be fun. A coalition of Democrats and Republicans in the Senate are fixing to tear the mask off societies which have been messing around in state elections far from the homes of their members for the purpose of knocking off men who opposed their secret purposes. The purpose is to control congressional committees and control laws on immigration.

The bashful Mr. Goldsmith is going to read quite a lot about himself after his long career as a fearsome dragon of the Waldorf Tower.

Notes on Music

Note Reading for Beginner

The fundamentals of note reading, which come during the first few lessons of panio study can be made infinitely more easy by the system of learning to identify them away from the piano.

These first few lessons offer the student a number of musicial notes and symbols which must be memorized as to their time values and technical names. Next, the beginner is told how to identify these notes on the ledger lines of his musical pieces and where to find them on the piano.

His first few musical pieces generally contain only notes written within the lines and spaces of the treble clef. Gradually new notes are learned as they appear in his musical pieces, which grow progressively more complex as study continues.

I find that when the student learns his counting at first away from the piano, by use of technical exercises known as Time Drills, he progresses faster. This "Away from the Piano" method of learning how to identify the notes, seperate from the added confusion of having to play them at the same time; also helps the student.

Actually, as the beginner sits at the piano and endeavors to play his pieces he is confronted by three problems.

1. What are the notes and rests he sees, as to identification.

2. Where to find them on the piano.

3. What are the time values of the notes and rests.

Of course, there are added problems such as which fingering to use: how loud or how softly to play the notes, and how slow or fast to play the piece.

These latter problems are not dealt with in this column. Time values as to notes and rests can be easily memorized and this leaves us with the first and second problems here to consider.

1-Note identification should be studied by memorizing the ledger lines and spaces in groups; beginning at the start by including the study of the Bass Clef with the Treble.

First, learn all the F-A-C-E groups that appear either above or below the Treble or Bass Clefs for an interval of about one Octave. Then do the same for all the G-B-D groups of notes within that range. Other notes can be learned afterward, but it is important to learn both clefs at the same time. Then, memorize the locations of all the Fs; then the As, then Cs in said manner until fairly clear in the mind before actually attempting to read and play at sight.

Experts get part-score hands just as often as anybody else does. The reason I seldom discuss them is that a low contract isn't much of a story. It's hard to work up much excitement over a bid of two diamonds or so.

Nevertheless, there are part-score hands that stick in your memory for years. For example, there's the time that Ivan Half, well-known Pittsburgh expert, sweated out a contract of one club doubled. (Just to indicate how long such a story sticks, this hand was played in the American Contract Bridge League's winter national championship at Miami Beach in December, 1948.)

West opened the king of spades and switched to the queen of diamonds after seeing dummy's spades. Mr. Half, playing the South hand, won with the ace of diamonds and casually returned the eight of hearts.

West may have suspected that he was being given "the business," but played low in the hope that his partner could win the trick. Dummy won with the jack of hearts, of course, and returned a spade.

Now it was East's turn to slip. He discarded a heart instead of a diamond. South ruffed with the deuce, cashed the ace of hearts and the king of diamonds, and ruffed a diamond in dummy.

At this point six tricks were safely home, and Mr. Half returned a spade from dummy. East ruffed with the ten of clubs and then laid down the ace of clubs to capture dummy's king. But after East had next taken the queen and jack of clubs, declarer still had the eight of clubs for his seventh trick.

It had taken a mistake on the part of each opponent, but Mr. Half had been the star of a small drama that he (and many others) will remember for a long time.

Ailene Cramer Appears On 'Sardi's' Radio Show

Woodstock, Feb. 21— Ailene Cramer, Woodstock, was among a group of celebrities interviewed Tuesday on Bill Slater's "Luncheon at Sardi's" program on station WOR. Slater introduced Ailene Cramer as "actress and founder of the Loft Players, a new and interesting group which is presenting plays at the Circle in the Square."

In the course of the interview, Ailene explained that the Loft Players had presented a season of drama in Woodstock and had recently opened the Circle in the Square, a theatre in the round in what was formerly the Greenwich Village Inn on Sherdian Square in New York.

She said that their first production "Dark of the Moon" is now running, and that it is possible because of the arena arrangement to see perfectly from any seat in the house. An appealing feature of the theatre, she explained, is its informal atmosphere, with coffee served in the lounge. A member of the audience recently was overheard to remark, "It's just like walking into your own living room." The theatre seats 200 people, and has an art gallery in the lobby.

A completely cooperative project, a policy which the Loft Players began when they presented plays at the Maverick Theatre last summer, no member of the organization is paid more than $15 a week, even members of the board of directors. It was only possible, Aileen added, because of the ingenuity of one of their group, a young actress from Texas who is an expert dietitian. In charge of the "Eat Right Club" she provides meals for the 10 people in the company and prepares most of them herself.

Slater remarked that on such a slender budget some of the company must do other jobs. Aileen assured him that this wasn't so, as each member of the group is completely devoted to the present work and future of the Loft Players.

These first few lessons offer the student a number of musicial notes and symbols which must be memorized as to their time values and technical names. Next, the beginner is told how to identify these notes on the ledger lines of his musical pieces and where to find them on the piano.

His first few musical pieces generally contain only notes written within the lines and spaces of the treble clef. Gradually new notes are learned as they appear in his musical pieces, which grow progressively more complex as study continues.

I find that when the student learns his counting at first away from the piano, by use of technical exercises known as Time Drills, he progresses faster. This "Away from the Piano" method of learning how to identify the notes, seperate from the added confusion of having to play them at the same time; also helps the student.

Actually, as the beginner sits at the piano and endeavors to play his pieces he is confronted by three problems.

1. What are the notes and rests he sees, as to identification.

2. Where to find them on the piano.

3. What are the time values of the notes and rests.

Of course, there are added problems such as which fingering to use: how loud or how softly to play the notes, and how slow or fast to play the piece.

These latter problems are not dealt with in this column. Time values as to notes and rests can be easily memorized and this leaves us with the first and second problems here to consider.

1-Note identification should be studied by memorizing the ledger lines and spaces in groups; beginning at the start by including the study of the Bass Clef with the Treble.

First, learn all the F-A-C-E groups that appear either above or below the Treble or Bass Clefs for an interval of about one Octave. Then do the same for all the G-B-D groups of notes within that range. Other notes can be learned afterward, but it is important to learn both clefs at the same time. Then, memorize the locations of all the Fs; then the As, then Cs in said manner until fairly clear in the mind before actually attempting to read and play at sight.

Experts get part-score hands just as often as anybody else does. The reason I seldom discuss them is that a low contract isn't much of a story. It's hard to work up much excitement over a bid of two diamonds or so.

Nevertheless, there are part-score hands that stick in your memory for years. For example, there's the time that Ivan Half, well-known Pittsburgh expert, sweated out a contract of one club doubled. (Just to indicate how long such a story sticks, this hand was played in the American Contract Bridge League's winter national championship at Miami Beach in December, 1948.)

West opened the king of spades and switched to the queen of diamonds after seeing dummy's spades. Mr. Half, playing the South hand, won with the ace of diamonds and casually returned the eight of hearts.

West may have suspected that he was being given "the business," but played low in the hope that his partner could win the trick. Dummy won with the jack of hearts, of course, and returned a spade.

Now it was East's turn to slip. He discarded a heart instead of a diamond. South ruffed with the deuce, cashed the ace of hearts and the king of diamonds, and ruffed a diamond in dummy.

At this point six tricks were safely home, and Mr. Half returned a spade from dummy. East ruffed with the ten of clubs and then laid down the ace of clubs to capture dummy's king. But after East had next taken the queen and jack of clubs, declarer still had the eight of clubs for his seventh trick.

It had taken a mistake on the part of each opponent, but Mr. Half had been the star of a small drama that he (and many others) will remember for a long time.

Common Defense Policy

Wellington, New Zealand, Feb. 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland said today that New Zealand's future defense would be linked with that of other friendly Pacific nations in a common policy. Following talks with President Truman's envoy, State Department Adviser John Foster Dulles, Holland told newsmen he hoped some joint arrangement would be reached after Dulles reported to the President on his talks in the Far East. The prime minister declined to comment on the possibility of a triangular defense alliance of the United States, New Zealand and Australia.

ment and called him a shadowy figure, whose name "figured in the testimony before a Senate Committee which inquired into charges that corrupt methods were used to defeat Senator Wheeler in the 1946 Democratic primary. Goldsmith was identified as secretary of the committee on public affairs, which contributed $4,250 to the campaign funds of Wheeler's opponent."

In connection with that campaign, Senator Johnson, a Democrat from Colorado, said one eastern group circulated a "vile, indecent and cowardly attack on Wheeler."

I believe Wheeler, himself, now practicing law in Washington, wrote me that he had come by correspondence in which one of Goldsmith's organizations "boasted of the fact that they beat me in Montana and also beat Revercomb in West Virginia, who opposed the wide open door for displaced persons. I checked and found that they did contribute money to Erickson (Wheeler's primary opponent). I also informed my good friend, Pat McCarran, senator from Nevada, that the same crowd that went after me was going after him."

Wheeler was dead right. Goldsmith's letterhead bunds in the Waldorf Tower, under the guise of 100 East 50th street, sent more than $5,000 to Nevada for McCarran's opponent. Pat won nevertheless and now there is going to be fun. A coalition of Democrats and Republicans in the Senate are fixing to tear the mask off societies which have been messing around in state elections far from the homes of their members for the purpose of knocking off men who opposed their secret purposes. The purpose is to control congressional committees and control laws on immigration.

The bashful Mr. Goldsmith is going to read quite a lot about himself after his long career as a fearsome dragon of the Waldorf Tower.

Industrial Club Assists Employed Boys at Y.M.C.A.

The Industrial Management Club of Kingston is fathering a sponsorship program for employed boys who wish to take part in Y.M.C.A. activities. It is felt that much is being done for the younger boys in grammar school and high school where the various activities and programs are open to them and that the Y.M.C.A. is especially adapted to serve the older boys who have left school and want evening programs. In fact, it was a group of young employed boys in business and industry that started the Y.M.C.A. organization over 100 years ago.

Service Clubs and Veterans' organizations for many years have sponsored groups. Rotary, other service clubs, American Legion have sponsored boys' club groups in the "Y" or provided for scholarships to assist individual boys joining the "Y."

With the help of the Industrial Club it now makes it possible for some of the teen-agers and younger seniors to be assisted in getting into the activities if they qualify by doing their part in connection with the program.

A great many young men have joined for the first time recently. Thirty-five new members have come in since January 1, most of whom are in the young men's group. The program set up for them includes gymnasium and swimming activities, weight-lifting, speed bag boxing, and lobby activities such as ping pong, billiards, television and fellowship group meetings. The new handball courts to be completed during February in the upstairs auditorium, which up to now has been used for volley ball and badminton, will attract handball and paddleball players.

The "Y" is open to all races and creeds and any young men who wish to get into the program at the "Y" should contact any member of the Industrial Men's Club or get in touch directly with Burton S. Tandy, general secretary of the "Y."

Of the six columns on the front page the left-hand column is all advs. The larger advs. are at the top. For instance there is "Macauley & Waters, Attornies at Law, Main St., Kingston, N. Y. Agency of the National Insurance Co. at this office." J. L. Bookstaver's adv. reads: "Attorney and Counsellor at law, solicitor, master and examiner in chancery, Saugerties, N. Y." W. W. Thompson's adv. "Dental Surgeon, Rooms at Mrs. Dubois', in North Front St. nearly opposit J. Paulding & Co.'s Store, Kingston, May 1st, 1844."

Collyer & Baldwin advertised: "Blacksmiths take notice. Just received at the hardware store, and for sale at manufacturer prices. Blacksmith's bellows, vices, anvils, iron axles, steel springs, files and rasps. Burden's patent horse shoes, horse nails, and mallable castings. May 15th, 1844." "Smith & Perkins advertised it received from Otsego county 50 bushels of the large variety clover seed, very clean, and free from foul seeds, which they offer for sale or reasonable terms." C. S. Clay, druggist called attention to "Lamp glasses and wicks. An assortment suitable for almost every description of lamps now in use for sale at his drug store." C. W & R. A. Chipp adv. read: "Family Bibles. The largest, best and cheapest assortment ever offered in this village. Dec. 21, 1842."

I see the "Ulster Republican," was published every Wednesday by Rodney A. Chipp, editor and proprietor, office in the rooms over the bookstore of C. W. & R. A. Chipp, opposite the Court House, Kingston. To village subscribers, it was $2.50 per year. To mail subscribers, and those who took their papers from the office, only $2 per year. Advertising for a term less than six months, 75 cents per square for the first publication, and 25 cents for every subsequent insertion. Advertising per year, with paper, $12, or $10 without the paper.

Kingston Academy had a detailed adv. dated April 21, 1845, of which Jonathan H. Hasbrouck, was secretary, and M. Schoonmaker, president. Francis H. Wells was principal. Adv. reads in part: "The Academy building is now undergoing thorough repairs, and it is the intention of the Trustees by a liberal expenditure, to render the rooms pleasant, agreeable and convenient. The Academy is furnished with an extensive and well selected library, and good chemical and philosophical apparatus. A course of lectures will be given during the year, before the classes in Natural science. The terms of tuition are at the following rates per year, of 46 weeks. Reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, geography or English grammar, per year, $16. The above studies, with Latin, Greek, mathematics, natural and mental philosophy, chemistry, astronomy or bookkeeping, etc., $20. French and Spanish extra, $20. Drawing and flower paining extra, $20. Music with use of piano, $43 extra. Fuel for fall and winter terms each 50 cents. Pens and ink, 12 and a half cents. Board may be obtained near the Academy with respectable families at prices ranging from $1.75 to $2.50 per week." No doubt some of the flower paints of those students of 100 years ago are today sold and resold as precious antiques.

Ex-Commissioner Will Face Racket Questions

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Frank C. Bals, former seventh deputy police commissioner, was summoned to appear today before the Brooklyn grand jury probing gambling, other rackets and police graft.

Bals was a witness here last week at a closed hearing of the U. S. Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

Assistant District Attorney Julius A. Helfand said yesterday he had not decided whether Bals would be asked to sign a waiver of immunity — making him liable to possible prosecution for anything he might tell the grand jury.

Helfand declared, however, that Bals "will go before the grand jury whether he signs or he doesn't."

Bals moved with his family to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., after retiring from the police force on a pension.

Industrial Club Assists Employed Boys at Y.M.C.A.

The Industrial Management Club of Kingston is fathering a sponsorship program for employed boys who wish to take part in Y.M.C.A. activities. It is felt that much is being done for the younger boys in grammar school and high school where the various activities and programs are open to them and that the Y.M.C.A. is especially adapted to serve the older boys who have left school and want evening programs. In fact, it was a group of young employed boys in business and industry that started the Y.M.C.A. organization over 100 years ago.

Service Clubs and Veterans' organizations for many years have sponsored groups. Rotary, other service clubs, American Legion have sponsored boys' club groups in the "Y" or provided for scholarships to assist individual boys joining the "Y."

With the help of the Industrial Club it now makes it possible for some of the teen-agers and younger seniors to be assisted in getting into the activities if they qualify by doing their part in connection with the program.

A great many young men have joined for the first time recently. Thirty-five new members have come in since January 1, most of whom are in the young men's group. The program set up for them includes gymnasium and swimming activities, weight-lifting, speed bag boxing, and lobby activities such as ping pong, billiards, television and fellowship group meetings. The new handball courts to be completed during February in the upstairs auditorium, which up to now has been used for volley ball and badminton, will attract handball and paddleball players.

The "Y" is open to all races and creeds and any young men who wish to get into the program at the "Y" should contact any member of the Industrial Men's Club or get in touch directly with Burton S. Tandy, general secretary of the "Y."

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Have you ever seen the "Ulster Republican"? Have one before me dated Wednesday, April 30, 1845, printed in Kingston, N. Y., loaned by Myron Teller. Of the six columns on the front page the left-hand column is all advs. The larger advs. are at the top. For instance there is "Macauley & Waters, Attornies at Law, Main St., Kingston, N. Y. Agency of the National Insurance Co. at this office." J. L. Bookstaver's adv. reads: "Attorney and Counsellor at law, solicitor, master and examiner in chancery, Saugerties, N. Y." W. W. Thompson's adv. "Dental Surgeon, Rooms at Mrs. Dubois', in North Front St. nearly opposit J. Paulding & Co.'s Store, Kingston, May 1st, 1844."

Collyer & Baldwin advertised: "Blacksmiths take notice. Just received at the hardware store, and for sale at manufacturer prices. Blacksmith's bellows, vices, anvils, iron axles, steel springs, files and rasps. Burden's patent horse shoes, horse nails, and mallable castings. May 15th, 1844." "Smith & Perkins advertised it received from Otsego county 50 bushels of the large variety clover seed, very clean, and free from foul seeds, which they offer for sale or reasonable terms." C. S. Clay, druggist called attention to "Lamp glasses and wicks. An assortment suitable for almost every description of lamps now in use for sale at his drug store." C. W & R. A. Chipp adv. read: "Family Bibles. The largest, best and cheapest assortment ever offered in this village. Dec. 21, 1842."

I see the "Ulster Republican," was published every Wednesday by Rodney A. Chipp, editor and proprietor, office in the rooms over the bookstore of C. W. & R. A. Chipp, opposite the Court House, Kingston. To village subscribers, it was $2.50 per year. To mail subscribers, and those who took their papers from the office, only $2 per year. Advertising for a term less than six months, 75 cents per square for the first publication, and 25 cents for every subsequent insertion. Advertising per year, with paper, $12, or $10 without the paper.

Kingston Academy had a detailed adv. dated April 21, 1845, of which Jonathan H. Hasbrouck, was secretary, and M. Schoonmaker, president. Francis H. Wells was principal. Adv. reads in part: "The Academy building is now undergoing thorough repairs, and it is the intention of the Trustees by a liberal expenditure, to render the rooms pleasant, agreeable and convenient. The Academy is furnished with an extensive and well selected library, and good chemical and philosophical apparatus. A course of lectures will be given during the year, before the classes in Natural science. The terms of tuition are at the following rates per year, of 46 weeks. Reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, geography or English grammar, per year, $16. The above studies, with Latin, Greek, mathematics, natural and mental philosophy, chemistry, astronomy or bookkeeping, etc., $20. French and Spanish extra, $20. Drawing and flower paining extra, $20. Music with use of piano, $43 extra. Fuel for fall and winter terms each 50 cents. Pens and ink, 12 and a half cents. Board may be obtained near the Academy with respectable families at prices ranging from $1.75 to $2.50 per week." No doubt some of the flower paints of those students of 100 years ago are today sold and resold as precious antiques.

PLYMOUTH BUILDS GREAT CARS

Budget Has Final Okay

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Governor Dewey's no-tax-boost budget of $938,940,759, highest in history of the state, was given final approval by the legislature today over strident Democratic opposition.

Final action came in the Senate, where the Republican majority rejected a last-ditch Democratic amendment to provide an extra $25,000,000 in state aid for New York city.

The Senate passed the 11 budget bills without dissent, after the Democratic amendment was rejected.

Approval of the record-smashing spending program—it's $68,700,000 higher than the 1950-51 budget—came after the Democrats again denounced the budget as phony, charging that it was "inadequate" and short-changed localities on aid for civil defense. They took up the cry of their Assembly colleagues that the spending program would require new taxes.

To Double Appropriations

Oslo, Norway, Feb. 21 (AP)—Norway plans to double appropriations for her military, naval and air forces, Defense Minister Jens Christian Hauge told the Parliament (Storting) today. He said defense costs have amounted to about three per cent of the national income, and will probably rise to about six per cent. There is a possibility the draft age for obligatory service will be reduced from 20 to 19, years, Hauge said.

Divorce Case Filed

Los Angeles, Feb. 21 (AP)—Judy Garland filed her long-expected divorce suit today from Vincente Minnelli, Hollywood director. The actress charged cruelty and asked custody of their four-year-old daughter, Liza. Miss Garland, 28, and Minnelli, 37, were married in 1945 and separated last Dec. 22.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Legislation to create a public transit authority to operate the wreck-riddled Long Island Rail Road was given a 50-50 chance of passage today, despite no encouragement from Governor Dewey. India Seeks No Bomb

New Delhi (AP)—India is seeking out the raw materials of atomic energy and building plants to process them, but it plans to make no atomic bombs. Veins of uranium—some quite large—have been found in various parts of India. Beryl is common, and there are large deposits of monazite sands.

FOR TYING UP TRAFFIC — Patrolman George Dabney of Asbury Park, N. J., has a little gift for motorist Hiram Sachs—not a traffic ticket, but a blue necktie with safety precautions printed on it. Police chief Fred Lembke launched the gifts-for-minor-traffic-violators program in the belief that a tie would make more of an impression than a ticket.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Stocks marched ahead today in a moderately active market.

The gains ranged from 50 cents to $1.50 with some extending beyond $3 at times. There were only scattered losses among leaders.

Trading started quietly with the market edging higher, and then activity picked up as prices increased.

There was an improvement in bullish sentiment as a result of the strength shown in the list in the final hour of trading yesterday. A forward surge at that time just about eliminated the rather sharp losses shown in the first hour.

Progress—from the Wall Street point of view—in Washington negotiations over wage controls, the slowness of Congress in getting around to tax legislation, and not too severe materials control regulations all helped to buoy the buying side—or at least it discouraged the bears for the moment.

Stocks advancing included Atlantic Coast Line (up more than $3 at times), New York Central, Canadian Pacific, Standard Oil (NJ), United Air Lines, American Telephone, International Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Homestake Mining, Allied Chemical, American Woolen, Textron, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, J.I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, and Philco.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Feb. 21—The Rev. Milton H. Ryan, pastor of the three churchs of the Ashokan M. E. Charge, and Mrs. Ryan received an agreeable and much appreciated surprise last Thursday. A fine maple living-room suite was delivered at the parsonage through the good offices of the Ashokan Women's Society for Christian Service.

A subject of conversation locally is the unusually large number of birds which are spending this winter in our salubrious clime. Folks wonder how the birds sensed we were going to have an open winter. It is interesting to note, in this connection, that Dr. Lewis Eldridge of Rensselaerville in the course of an annual Christmas bird count reports 692 individuals of 22 species were observed, as compared with the 1949 figures of 245 and 14 respectively. Thus, the feathered friends being on the job the year round, may still check the terrible ravages of borers in shade and forest trees.

Among the column birthdays falling on Friday, Feb. 23, are those of Mrs. Benjamin Van Steenburgh and Mrs. Robert Haver. Mrs. Van Steenburgh, the former Minnie DuBois, still resides on the family homestead near the village center where she was brought up, though last year she and her husband moved into a smaller house—the third one to be occupied by her family during the past century or more. . . . The former Lorrainia Tweedy was born at Esopus and came to Olive in 1928. She attended Kingston High School and removed to Ashokan following her marriage five years ago. The Havers are parents of a daughter, born earlier in the winter.

New Record Is Set

Gander, Newfoundland, Feb. 21 (AP)—A twin-jet British Canberra bomber racing the sun across the Atlantic streaked to a landing here today at 12:25 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, completing a 2,100-mile flight in four hours and 42 minutes. It was the fastest crossing of the Atlantic in history. The jet bomber lost its Britain-to-Canada race with the sun. It missed the sun's time by an hour and 12 minutes. But it was a history-making flight in several respects.

Budget Has Final Okay

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Governor Dewey's no-tax-boost budget of $938,940,759, highest in history of the state, was given final approval by the legislature today over strident Democratic opposition.

Final action came in the Senate, where the Republican majority rejected a last-ditch Democratic amendment to provide an extra $25,000,000 in state aid for New York city.

The Senate passed the 11 budget bills without dissent, after the Democratic amendment was rejected.

Approval of the record-smashing spending program—it's $68,700,000 higher than the 1950-51 budget—came after the Democrats again denounced the budget as phony, charging that it was "inadequate" and short-changed localities on aid for civil defense. They took up the cry of their Assembly colleagues that the spending program would require new taxes.

FOR TYING UP TRAFFIC — Patrolman George Dabney of Asbury Park, N. J., has a little gift for motorist Hiram Sachs—not a traffic ticket, but a blue necktie with safety precautions printed on it. Police chief Fred Lembke launched the gifts-for-minor-traffic-violators program in the belief that a tie would make more of an impression than a ticket.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Feb. 21—The Rev. Milton H. Ryan, pastor of the three churchs of the Ashokan M. E. Charge, and Mrs. Ryan received an agreeable and much appreciated surprise last Thursday. A fine maple living-room suite was delivered at the parsonage through the good offices of the Ashokan Women's Society for Christian Service.

A subject of conversation locally is the unusually large number of birds which are spending this winter in our salubrious clime. Folks wonder how the birds sensed we were going to have an open winter. It is interesting to note, in this connection, that Dr. Lewis Eldridge of Rensselaerville in the course of an annual Christmas bird count reports 692 individuals of 22 species were observed, as compared with the 1949 figures of 245 and 14 respectively. Thus, the feathered friends being on the job the year round, may still check the terrible ravages of borers in shade and forest trees.

Among the column birthdays falling on Friday, Feb. 23, are those of Mrs. Benjamin Van Steenburgh and Mrs. Robert Haver. Mrs. Van Steenburgh, the former Minnie DuBois, still resides on the family homestead near the village center where she was brought up, though last year she and her husband moved into a smaller house—the third one to be occupied by her family during the past century or more. . . . The former Lorrainia Tweedy was born at Esopus and came to Olive in 1928. She attended Kingston High School and removed to Ashokan following her marriage five years ago. The Havers are parents of a daughter, born earlier in the winter.

New Record Is Set

Gander, Newfoundland, Feb. 21 (AP)—A twin-jet British Canberra bomber racing the sun across the Atlantic streaked to a landing here today at 12:25 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, completing a 2,100-mile flight in four hours and 42 minutes. It was the fastest crossing of the Atlantic in history. The jet bomber lost its Britain-to-Canada race with the sun. It missed the sun's time by an hour and 12 minutes. But it was a history-making flight in several respects.

Budget Has Final Okay

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Governor Dewey's no-tax-boost budget of $938,940,759, highest in history of the state, was given final approval by the legislature today over strident Democratic opposition.

Final action came in the Senate, where the Republican majority rejected a last-ditch Democratic amendment to provide an extra $25,000,000 in state aid for New York city.

The Senate passed the 11 budget bills without dissent, after the Democratic amendment was rejected.

Approval of the record-smashing spending program—it's $68,700,000 higher than the 1950-51 budget—came after the Democrats again denounced the budget as phony, charging that it was "inadequate" and short-changed localities on aid for civil defense. They took up the cry of their Assembly colleagues that the spending program would require new taxes.

To Double Appropriations

Oslo, Norway, Feb. 21 (AP)—Norway plans to double appropriations for her military, naval and air forces, Defense Minister Jens Christian Hauge told the Parliament (Storting) today. There is a possibility the draft age for obligatory service will be reduced from 20 to 19, years, Hauge said.

FOR TYING UP TRAFFIC — Patrolman George Dabney of Asbury Park, N. J., has a little gift for motorist Hiram Sachs—not a traffic ticket, but a blue necktie with safety precautions printed on it. Sachs has just crossed a white line, so his tie reads: "Do Not Cross White Lines." Police chief Fred Lembke launched the gifts-for-minor-traffic-violators program in the belief that a tie would make more of an impression than a ticket.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Stocks marched ahead today in a moderately active market.

The gains ranged from 50 cents to $1.50 with some extending beyond $3 at times. There were only scattered losses among leaders.

Trading started quietly with the market edging higher, and then activity picked up as prices increased.

There was an improvement in bullish sentiment as a result of the strength shown in the list in the final hour of trading yesterday. A forward surge at that time just about eliminated the rather sharp losses shown in the first hour.

Progress—from the Wall Street point of view—in Washington negotiations over wage controls, the slowness of Congress in getting around to tax legislation, and not too severe materials control regulations all helped to buoy the buying side—or at least it discouraged the bears for the moment.

Stocks advancing included Atlantic Coast Line (up more than $3 at times), New York Central, Canadian Pacific, Standard Oil (NJ), United Air Lines, American Telephone, International Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Homestake Mining, Allied Chemical, American Woolen, Textron, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, J.I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, and Philco.

Moscow, Feb. 21 (AP)—Western diplomats stationed here expressed belief today that the Soviet Union will send a prompt answer to the latest western notes and that the U.S.S.R. will agree to a meeting of deputies in Paris to discuss a Big Four agenda.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Feb. 21—The Rev. Milton H. Ryan, pastor of the three churchs of the Ashokan M. E. Charge, and Mrs. Ryan received an agreeable and much appreciated surprise last Thursday. A fine maple living-room suite was delivered at the parsonage through the good offices of the Ashokan Women's Society for Christian Service.

A subject of conversation locally is the unusually large number of birds which are spending this winter in our salubrious clime. Folks wonder how the birds sensed we were going to have an open winter. It is interesting to note, in this connection, that Dr. Lewis Eldridge of Rensselaerville in the course of an annual Christmas bird count reports 692 individuals of 22 species were observed, as compared with the 1949 figures of 245 and 14 respectively. Thus, the feathered friends being on the job the year round, may still check the terrible ravages of borers in shade and forest trees.

Among the column birthdays falling on Friday, Feb. 23, are those of Mrs. Benjamin Van Steenburgh and Mrs. Robert Haver. Mrs. Van Steenburgh, the former Minnie DuBois, still resides on the family homestead near the village center where she was brought up, though last year she and her husband moved into a smaller house—the third one to be occupied by her family during the past century or more. . . . The former Lorrainia Tweedy was born at Esopus and came to Olive in 1928. She attended Kingston High School and removed to Ashokan following her marriage five years ago. The Havers are parents of a daughter, born earlier in the winter.

New Record Is Set

Gander, Newfoundland, Feb. 21 (AP)—A twin-jet British Canberra bomber racing the sun across the Atlantic streaked to a landing here today at 12:25 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, completing a 2,100-mile flight in four hours and 42 minutes. It was the fastest crossing of the Atlantic in history. The jet bomber lost its Britain-to-Canada race with the sun. It missed the sun's time by an hour and 12 minutes. But it was a history-making flight in several respects.

Accessories Get Scarce Before Autos Are Short

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

Detroit, Feb. 21 (AP)—Long before new cars became scarce the hopeful buyer is going to find accessories hard to get.

Some sections already report dealers short on radios and heaters. This is the way the National Automobile Dealers' Association appraises the situation:

"Shortages in some accessory lines, including heaters and radios, which have been reported recently from various sections of the country, are expected to continue because they (heaters, radios, etc.) contain considerable scarce copper. In fact, one manufacturer is reported to be limiting his shipments of heaters to sections of the country where their use is most essential.

"Demand is reported brisk for heaters, radios and many hard-to-get accessories, including automatic drives, turn indicators, windshield washers and other equipment."

Of course, no car maker wants to admit for the record that any of his vehicles have to be delivered without the usual "extras." More than a little uncertainty arises, though, from the fact in many instances would-be car buyers are being told their cars cannot be delivered until "some time in April or later."

What the accessories situation may be at that time isn't at all clear at present.

The accessory groups normally are a source of sizabe profit for the retail car dealer. The mark up usually is greater than the average of 24 per cent the dealer makes on the car itself. Of course, there have been instances where the manufacturer has made certain accessories standard equipment and taken the profit himself.

There is a reason why a car buyer today would want a full line of "extras" on his car. When the "blacked out" models begin to appear on dealer floors, a used car with plenty of special equipment not only will be easy to sell but it will bring a good price.

Now They're Heavier

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—The sanitation department, in its drive for cleaner streets, has made things a little harder for sidewalk trash basket thieves. During the last 18 months, 769 wire trash baskets were stolen. Only three were recovered. The thefts never were solved. Now the department has unveiled a new type of basket weighing 51 pounds—nine pounds heavier than the old ones.

Plan Catholic Charities Drive

The Right Rev. Monsignor James J. Lynch, (left) executive director of New York Catholic Charities, discusses plans for Ulster county participation in the forthcoming 32nd annual fund appeal of New York Catholic Charities with the Rev. John A. Flaherty of St. Mary's parish, Kingston. Father Flaherty, who last week was named a district manager for the appeal, will supervise solicitations in 20 Ulster county parishes. The appeal, which aims at an overall goal of $2,376,196, will be held from April 15 to 25.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

The Ruminator visited an institution last week that is doing a splendid job for the American free-enterprise philosophy. You will be interested in what this group is doing.

The name of the institution is the Foundation for Economic Education. It is a non-profit organization and is located at Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y., some 22 miles north of New York city. Perhaps you have received some of their pamphlets and books.

The purpose of this Foundation is to spread around the good gospel of Americanism as opposed to the various harmful "isms" that we have to contend with. It is supported by voluntary contributions from business and individuals.

What has impressed me in the past when I have seen their literature, and impressed me all the more when I visited them, is their dignity of approach and complete lack of smart-aleckness.

Fortunately, my call coincided with their hour for luncheon and I was thus able to meet the members of the staff and to hear some interesting comments on recent trends of thought.

The Foundation was established about five years ago. Until fairly recently they have not had any great response to their efforts—that is, while they knew they were slowly accomplishing something through their efforts in preaching the philosophy of the free-enterprise system there was no flood of response to their appeals.

However, within the past six or eight months there has been a noticeable shift in response. Leonard Read, the president, related how different it is today than formerly when he is addressing groups around the country. There was always polite interest in what he had to say, but that seemed about all. Now, however, he finds that after he has made an address that the Foundation will receive numerous requests for literature. He estimates that responses of this kind have increased eight to ten-fold in the past eight months.

How much of this changed sentiment can be credited to "Korea" or to the inflation that is finally piercing everyone's consciousness, it would be difficult to say. This much is certain; there has been a changed sentiment.

Dr. F. A. Harper, one of the founders of the Foundation and an acquaintance of the Ruminator's, told of another interesting situation.

It seems that sometime ago a vice president of one of our mammoth corporations (perhaps I should leave the name out, as permission was not asked to repeat this story) wondered whether one of the pamphlets published by the Foundation might not be of interest to their workers. First, however, it was sent to the corporation's firm of employe relations' advisers. Back came a memo saying that the pamphlet in question was quite over the heads of the workers—they wouldn't read it—etc., etc. Completely negative.

However, the vice president of the corporation wasn't satisfied and decided he would make a test. In the various plants of this industrial giant there are racks containing booklets and leaflets on all manner of subjects, from how to build a house to how to row a boat. It is strictly a free-choice reading rack—no snoopers around to see what is being read!

Well, the little pamphlet of the Foundation was inserted in a number of racks in several plants. They waited to see what happened. To make a long story short and surprising, in a matter of weeks 150,000 of these booklets that the workers wouldn't read had been taken home!

To top it off the Foundation began to get notes and letters from some of these workers. Dr. Harper showed me a few. They were mighty interesting because they revealed what you and I would expect they would reveal: a healthy concern for our nation, our liberty, and our free-enterprise system. Some of the writers said they wanted more information to read, didn't know such material was published, and so on.

I thought I would tell you about this experience because to me it has seemed for sometime that a shift away from the "left" back toward the "right"—or at least center—was discernible. This is contrary to much we hear and read. If the present drift becomes a trend it will indeed prove a great new day for America. Perhaps—who knows—even the sulky administration will soon recognize it.

Four Industries In County Cited For Safety Records

Four Ulster county firms, including two from Kingston, have been cited for safety records as contestants in the 26th annual state-wide accident prevention campaign conducted by the Associated Industries of New York State, Inc.

The two Kingston firms cited were the Fuller Shirt Co. Inc., and the Skyline Manufacturing Co. Inc. The other county winners were the Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen and the Callanan Road Improvement Co., South Rondout.

The Fuller and Callanan concerns were named to receive awards for perfect scores in having completed the campaign without accidents while the Skyline and Hercules firms will receive certificates of achievement for outstanding safety records.

The awards were announced during a meeting of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association in Poughkeepsie Monday night.

The only other firm having a perfect score during the final quarter of 1950 was the Consolidated Cigar Corp. Plant 23, of Poughkeepsie.

Winning firms were among the total of 1,060 industries enrolled in the state-wide campaign which closed December 24, 1950, with the best record of accident prevention since 1938, according to B. J. Van Wickler.

Winning firms in this area will receive their awards at a celebration dinner to be held at the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie, March 5 under the auspices of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association.

Brigham Young chose the site for the Mormon temple at Salt Lake City in 1847 and it was more than 40 years in building.

Will Appoint Murphy

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Mayor Vincent Impellitteri is to appoint Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy to a full five-year term today. Impellitteri said yesterday that Murphy could remain "as long as he desires." The mayor named Murphy last Sept. 26 to fill out the unexpired term of former Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander. The term ends today. Wallander retired to take an executive post with the Consolidated Edison Company. Later he became city civil defense director. William O'Brien originally succeeded Wallander, but was replaced with Murphy after a Brooklyn grand jury turned up evidence of police links to gamblers. O'Brien was not implicated.

Four Industries In County Cited For Safety Records

Four Ulster county firms, including two from Kingston, have been cited for safety records as contestants in the 26th annual state-wide accident prevention campaign conducted by the Associated Industries of New York State, Inc.

The two Kingston firms cited were the Fuller Shirt Co. Inc., and the Skyline Manufacturing Co. Inc. The other county winners were the Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen and the Callanan Road Improvement Co., South Rondout.

The Fuller and Callanan concerns were named to receive awards for perfect scores in having completed the campaign without accidents while the Skyline and Hercules firms will receive certificates of achievement for outstanding safety records.

The awards were announced during a meeting of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association in Poughkeepsie Monday night.

The only other firm having a perfect score during the final quarter of 1950 was the Consolidated Cigar Corp. Plant 23, of Poughkeepsie.

Winning firms were among the total of 1,060 industries enrolled in the state-wide campaign which closed December 24, 1950, with the best record of accident prevention since 1938, according to B. J. Van Wickler.

Winning firms in this area will receive their awards at a celebration dinner to be held at the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie, March 5 under the auspices of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association.

Will Appoint Murphy

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Mayor Vincent Impellitteri is to appoint Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy to a full five-year term today. Impellitteri said yesterday that Murphy could remain "as long as he desires." The mayor named Murphy last Sept. 26 to fill out the unexpired term of former Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander. The term ends today. Wallander retired to take an executive post with the Consolidated Edison Company. Later he became city civil defense director. William O'Brien originally succeeded Wallander, but was replaced with Murphy after a Brooklyn grand jury turned up evidence of police links to gamblers. O'Brien was not implicated.

Sorosis Is Given Report on the Bible In Today's World

Mrs. William J. McVey, presiding officer, told Sorosis members of her visit to Philadelphia where the General Federation of Women's Club held an "art pilgrimage," when the group met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham, 21 Janet street. During the pilgrimage the motion picture "The Titan" dealing with the life story and times of Michelangelo, was given a special showing. Enthusiastic over the reel, Mrs. McVey expressed the hope that it could sometime be presented in Kingston.

Mrs. Boyd Williams then reported on legislation, reading interesting bills from the clip sheets from Albany, and discussing the many bills which are now before Congress.

The paper for the meeting, entitled "The Bible in Today's World," was prepared by Mrs. Graham, and presented by Mrs. William Ochs.

Bible and Literature

Pointing out that Biblical quotations have become the titles of a surprising number of modern books and plays, the paper also revealed "our history, literature, and laws can be traced to the Bible."

The paper told how Shakespeare alone used 1,200 Biblical quotes, while artists have chosen the Nativity and Crucifixion for their paintings more often than any other subjects.

"An interesting item," Mrs. Ochs read, "is that thousands of copies are sent abroad each year." Among orders for the Bible in the past year were $16,000 worth to Japan, and 200,000 copies to Brazil. A great many of these copies were in braille, requiring 20 volumes to complete one Bible at a cost of $20 per volume.

Expression of Emotions

"The Bible describes all the great emotions in the language of the day in which it was written," the paper continued, "and the same great emotions are part of life today. All could gain help and solace by re-reading."

Deploring the appalling ignorance of today's college students in reference to the world's greatest book, the paper asked: "Are we today so centered in ourselves we are becoming paganistic? We are perplexed, and our strivings are the same. We are weak, and cry for help as in the olden times. The parables of old can be applied today. The 'Good Samaritan' lives today. We are God's trustees to see that the parables are passed on to our children, and understood by them. We must give better interpretations."

Slides to be Shown

The next Sorosis meeting will be held Monday, March 5, at 8 p. m. at the First Presbyterian Church hall. Mrs. McVey will be the hostess, and there will be guest privileges.

During this meeting slides will be shown by Miss Marianne Davis, made from pictures she took during her recent travels in Europe and Egypt as a civilian actress technician.

Miss Margie Stine Weds Mr. Warwick

The Rev. and Mrs. Fred W. Stine of Sharon, Conn., announce the marriage of their daughter, Margie U., to William A. Warwick of Poughkeepsie.

The groom, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Warwick, attended Arlington High School. He has been employed for several years by D. C. Cochran, Inc., of Poughkeepsie.

The couple are now spending a month at Daytona Beach, Fla. On their return, they will make their home in Poughkeepsie.

Eye Witness of Korean Scene

Gibney Says Korean Intervention May Prove Basis for Stable American Asiatic Policy

Speaking from the authoritative standpoint of an eye witness, Korean war correspondent Frank Gibney of "Life" and "Time" outlined last night for the Kingston National Dinner Club the position that unfortunate Asiatic peninsula has held from the hopeful days of late fall and summer 1945, to the once again hopeful weeks of February, 1951. Pinch hitting until the youthful, red haired correspondent arrived, Frederic Snyder, noted Kingston lecturer, underlined current headline news stories, with their underlying "quality of desperacy."

Essentially, Gibney's "Report on Korea" found basis in three fundamental questions: How did the Korean war happen? What has happened during the war? Was our effort in Korea worth it, and if so, why?

"For the first time in Korean fighting," Gibney told his audience, "we seem to have developed an army of men who have confidence in themselves." As a result, five Chinese armies are now "licking their wounds" behind the 38th parallel. It is, Gibney's speech showed, a story like most stories, with a beginning, a middle, and an end.

War a Surprise

When the fighting broke out in Korea Gibney had just returned from a three week tour of South Korea. Rumors of a northern invasion had cropped up in Gibney's Tokyo office time and again. After inspecting Southern Korea, both he and his friends were doubly sure there would be no attack. There were, however, many reasons why the attack should have been as successful as it was.

Since 1945 Russia had been organizing North Korea. During World War 2 literally hundreds of thousands of North Koreans had fled to Siberia to escape the Japanese. After the war many returned to their native country Soviet citizens. These, Gibney emphasized, were the nucleus of the campaign, turning North Korea into the Asiatic counterpart of the European satellites.

Three Lost Years

On the other hand, Gibney pointed out, it took the United States a full three years to realize Russia wasn't going to cooperate in a north-south coalition. More time was wasted while Congress procrastinated on financing South Korean rehabilitation. After American aid finally came South Korea turned from a virtual dictatorship to a fairly democratic nation, with a "fairly competent cabinet." During last year's May elections, which he witnessed, Gibney said people flocked to the polls. "I was caught by their spirit of enthusiasm." The election results not only proved they were trying, Gibney pointed out, but on the whole the best men were elected. The North Korean attack came when it did, Gibney said, because there was no reason to believe there would be serious American intervention.

The Korean Scene

When he first arrived in Korea, and asked officials what the situation was, Gibney recalled, he heard for the first time "that interesting word, fluid," harbinger of defeat. No sooner had he reached Seoul than he had to flee, and was wounded crossing the Han river when South Korean troops prematurely blew up the bridge, trapping two of their own rear guard divisions in Seoul.

United Nations' defeat at the outset, Gibney stressed, could be attributed to the old story of too little, and too late; to throwing into battle four badly undermanned occupational divisions with nothing more than reclaimed moth ball equipment; to refusing to incorporate Asiatic methods of warfare with more modern ones; and to our government trying to fulfill wartime commitments in Washington's peacetime atmosphere. The truth is, he said, "we've been fighting an Asiatic war in the fullest sense of the word." But it wasn't until the Chinese added their weight in Korea that the United States admitted it couldn't fight the accepted modern, western war in Korea's hills.

Was It Worth It

Korean intervention, Gibney reminded his audience, is the first tangible proof the United States has given Asia that it will stand by its pledges. "In never really forming an Asiatic policy, we have left ourselves open to suspicion," he said.

The Pacific phases of World War 2, he felt, indoctrinated the Asiatics with two Japanese slogans: "Asia for the Asiatics," and "drive out the white man." Asia was also hungry.

There are two things Asia wants, Gibney revealed. One is tangible not idealogical freedom. The other is a little more to eat. Russia, who has never worried about keeping friendly relations with the nations to the west of her, has promised Asia freedom from the west, and food. "To my mind," Gibney said, "this is the greatest danger of our times. Now we have at least laid a platform . . . . It's up to the politicians to build a stable American policy."

Sorosis Is Given Report on the Bible In Today's World

Mrs. William J. McVey, presiding officer, told Sorosis members of her visit to Philadelphia where the General Federation of Women's Club held an "art pilgrimage," when the group met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Noble Graham, 21 Janet street. During the pilgrimage the motion picture "The Titan" dealing with the life story and times of Michelangelo, was given a special showing. Enthusiastic over the reel, Mrs. McVey expressed the hope that it could sometime be presented in Kingston.

Mrs. Boyd Williams then reported on legislation, reading interesting bills from the clip sheets from Albany, and discussing the many bills which are now before Congress.

The paper for the meeting, entitled "The Bible in Today's World," was prepared by Mrs. Graham, and presented by Mrs. William Ochs.

Bible and Literature

Pointing out that Biblical quotations have become the titles of a surprising number of modern books and plays, the paper also revealed "our history, literature, and laws can be traced to the Bible."

The paper told how Shakespeare alone used 1,200 Biblical quotes, while artists have chosen the Nativity and Crucifixion for their paintings more often than any other subjects.

"An interesting item," Mrs. Ochs read, "is that thousands of copies are sent abroad each year." Among orders for the Bible in the past year were $16,000 worth to Japan, and 200,000 copies to Brazil. A great many of these copies were in braille, requiring 20 volumes to complete one Bible at a cost of $20 per volume.

Expression of Emotions

"The Bible describes all the great emotions in the language of the day in which it was written," the paper continued, "and the same great emotions are part of life today. All could gain help and solace by re-reading."

Deploring the appalling ignorance of today's college students in reference to the world's greatest book, the paper asked: "Are we today so centered in ourselves we are becoming paganistic? We are perplexed, and our strivings are the same. We are weak, and cry for help as in the olden times. The parables of old can be applied today. The 'Good Samaritan' lives today. We are God's trustees to see that the parables are passed on to our children, and understood by them. We must give better interpretations."

Slides to be Shown

The next Sorosis meeting will be held Monday, March 5, at 8 p. m. at the First Presbyterian Church hall. Mrs. McVey will be the hostess, and there will be guest privileges.

During this meeting slides will be shown by Miss Marianne Davis, made from pictures she took during her recent travels in Europe and Egypt as a civilian actress technician.

Eye Witness of Korean Scene

Gibney Says Korean Intervention May Prove Basis for Stable American Asiatic Policy

Speaking from the authoritative standpoint of an eye witness, Korean war correspondent Frank Gibney of "Life" and "Time" outlined last night for the Kingston National Dinner Club the position that unfortunate Asiatic peninsula has held from the hopeful days of late fall and summer 1945, to the once again hopeful weeks of February, 1951. Pinch hitting until the youthful, red haired correspondent arrived, Frederic Snyder, noted Kingston lecturer, underlined current headline news stories, with their underlying "quality of desperacy."

Essentially, Gibney's "Report on Korea" found basis in three fundamental questions: How did the Korean war happen? What has happened during the war? Was our effort in Korea worth it, and if so, why?

"For the first time in Korean fighting," Gibney told his audience, "we seem to have developed an army of men who have confidence in themselves." As a result, five Chinese armies are now "licking their wounds" behind the 38th parallel. It is, Gibney's speech showed, a story like most stories, with a beginning, a middle, and an end.

War a Surprise

When the fighting broke out in Korea Gibney had just returned from a three week tour of South Korea. Rumors of a northern invasion had cropped up in Gibney's Tokyo office time and again. After inspecting Southern Korea, both he and his friends were doubly sure there would be no attack. There were, however, many reasons why the attack should have been as successful as it was.

Since 1945 Russia had been organizing North Korea. During World War 2 literally hundreds of thousands of North Koreans had fled to Siberia to escape the Japanese. After the war many returned to their native country Soviet citizens. These, Gibney emphasized, were the nucleus of the campaign, turning North Korea into the Asiatic counterpart of the European satellites.

Three Lost Years

On the other hand, Gibney pointed out, it took the United States a full three years to realize Russia wasn't going to cooperate in a north-south coalition. More time was wasted while Congress procrastinated on financing South Korean rehabilitation. After American aid finally came South Korea turned from a virtual dictatorship to a fairly democratic nation, with a "fairly competent cabinet." During last year's May elections, which he witnessed, Gibney said people flocked to the polls, "I was caught by their spirit of enthusiasm." The election results not only proved they were trying, Gibney pointed out, but on the whole the best men were elected. The North Korean attack came when it did, Gibney said, because there was no reason to believe there would be serious American intervention.

The Korean Scene

When he first arrived in Korea, and asked officials what the situation was, Gibney recalled, he heard for the first time "that interesting word, fluid," harbinger of defeat. No sooner had he reached Seoul than he had to flee, and was wounded crossing the Han river when South Korean troops prematurely blew up the bridge, trapping two of their own rear guard divisions in Seoul.

United Nations' defeat at the outset, Gibney stressed, could be attributed to the old story of too little, and too late; to throwing into battle four badly undermanned occupational divisions with nothing more than reclaimed moth ball equipment; to refusing to incorporate Asiatic methods of warfare with more modern ones; and to our government trying to fulfill wartime commitments in Washington's peacetime atmosphere. The truth is, he said, "we've been fighting an Asiatic war in the fullest sense of the word." But it wasn't until the Chinese added their weight in Korea that the United States admitted it couldn't fight the accepted modern, western war in Korea's hills.

Was It Worth It

Korean intervention, Gibney reminded his audience, is the first tangible proof the United States has given Asia that it will stand by its pledges. "In never really forming an Asiatic policy, we have left ourselves open to suspicion," he said.

The Pacific phases of World War 2, he felt, indoctrinated the Asiatics with two Japanese slogans: "Asia for the Asiatics," and "drive out the white man." Asia was also hungry.

There are two things Asia wants, Gibney revealed. One is tangible not idealogical freedom. The other is a little more to eat. Russia, who has never worried about keeping friendly relations with the nations to the west of her, has promised Asia freedom from the west, and food. "To my mind," Gibney said, "this is the greatest danger of our times. Now we have at least laid a platform . . . . It's up to the politicians to build a stable American policy."

Hurley Juvenile Meeting

At the regular meeting Tuesday of Hurley Juvenile Grange, presided over by Worthy Master Jay Stauble, Mrs. Walter Stauble, matron, explained some of the projects for the year.

One of the projects is soap carving and a very fine exhibit was shown by Walter Tryon who carved a scotty dog.

Two posters were exhibited, one by Enid Goetchius on safety and the other by Jay Stauble on feeding the birds. The children are making posters as a part of the community work. They hope to be able to display them at various places throughout the village.

The service and hospitality committee gave $2.50 for the polio drive. A puppet show was cancelled until the next meeting.

The lecturer, Jo Anne Maxwell, had a nice program on the month of February, commemorating the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln. A Valentine poem was read and there was a quiz period.

There were 31 members at the meeting. Refreshments were enjoyed.

Anyone desiring to join Juvenile Grange may contact Mrs. Walter Stauble before February 27, the date set for conferring degrees. All officers are requested to be present.

Ulster Garden Club Meets to Prepare For New York Show

Although the first day of spring on the calendar falls a month from today, the growing season opened officially for members of the Ulster Garden Club yesterday, when they held their first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Myron Teller, 155 Pearl street. It's the time of year when all garden lovers, as Mrs. Roger Loughran of Hurley explained, turn hopefully to dormant, sleeping flower beds, and begin to look for the first sign of spring buds.

Impetus for the meeting came from the approaching Garden Club of America flower show to open in Grand Central Palace, New York, March 6. Last year Mrs. William Boyd of Woodstock took one prize at the show, and has designed the club's motif, as an exhibiting member of the Garden Club of America, for this year.

Central theme of the flower show will be a model village street, complete with a church, shops, and the proper planting. Mrs. Boyd's contribution is a wire waste paper container which she designed herself. The container is now being made by the Ashley Welding Machine and Iron Co., Inc., this city.

It was announced at the meeting that the annual flower show luncheon will be held March 6 in New York at the Waldorf-Astoria. Ulster Garden Club members attending will be announced.

Following the meeting tea was served, and Miss Katharine Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge poured.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

LETTER FROM DISTRESSED MOTHER

This is always an unhappy situation: "I'm a mother of three married sons. I live sometimes with one and then with another and all of the time I feel that I'm in their way. I love my sons and don't want to make trouble in their families so try to do exactly what I'm told. But no one seems to understand that a mother who has been active in her own house may feel completely useless, and a burden, if she is not permitted to help around the house. Please write some words of encouragement to the likes of me."

If your three sons could club together and supply you with no matter how small a home of your own, that, of course, would be the happy answer. In your situation the only answer I can make is that you do what each daughter-in-law wishes.

Receiving at Church

Dear Mrs. Post: Does the receiving line which sometimes forms at the back of the church after the wedding eliminate the necessity for receiving at the house?

Answer: The only time the bride and groom receive at the church (in the vestibule) is when the reception at the house is so very small that only relatives and fewest intimate friends are invited. In this case, those invited to the house should go directly there and wait to be received.

Funeral Flowers Lost

Dear Mrs. Post: I ordered a floral piece to be sent to a funeral and in some unexplainable way the order was lost and the flowers never sent. I inquired when I noticed that the charge did not appear on my bill. What can I do to let the bereaved family know that we had not forgotten them? It's really quite distressing to me.

Answer: You can send some cut flowers for the house now to the nearest bereaved, or to the person in the family whom you know best. Many people prefer doing this—and therefore no explanation of this choice will be necessary.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her answers to such questions as clothes for the bridal party, including those of the flower girl and the men of the party, will be found in her leaflet, E-3. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

The first service will be held Friday at 8 p. m. when members of the two downtown religious institutions will worship together at the Sabbath Eve service at the synagogue with Dr. Philip H. Weinberg, rabbi, leading the traditional service of devotion and also preaching the sermon.

On Sunday at 11 a. m. the two congregations will worship together for the service of the third Sunday in Lent in the sanctuary of the church with Dr. William Carner Cain, pastor, conducting the service and preaching.

This will be the third year of such fellowship in the divine worship between these two downtown congregations.

Hurley Juvenile Meeting

At the regular meeting Tuesday of Hurley Juvenile Grange, presided over by Worthy Master Jay Stauble, Mrs. Walter Stauble, matron, explained some of the projects for the year.

One of the projects is soap carving and a very fine exhibit was shown by Walter Tryon who carved a scotty dog.

The service and hospitality committee gave $2.50 for the polio drive. A puppet show was cancelled until the next meeting.

The lecturer, Jo Anne Maxwell, had a nice program on the month of February, commemorating the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln. A Valentine poem was read and there was a quiz period.

There were 31 members at the meeting. Refreshments were enjoyed.

Anyone desiring to join Juvenile Grange may contact Mrs. Walter Stauble before February 27, the date set for conferring degrees. All officers are requested to be present.

Ulster Garden Club Meets to Prepare For New York Show

Although the first day of spring on the calendar falls a month from today, the growing season opened officially for members of the Ulster Garden Club yesterday, when they held their first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Myron Teller, 155 Pearl street. It's the time of year when all garden lovers, as Mrs. Roger Loughran of Hurley explained, turn hopefully to dormant, sleeping flower beds, and begin to look for the first sign of spring buds.

Impetus for the meeting came from the approaching Garden Club of America flower show to open in Grand Central Palace, New York, March 6. Last year Mrs. William Boyd of Woodstock took one prize at the show, and has designed the club's motif, as an exhibiting member of the Garden Club of America, for this year.

Central theme of the flower show will be a model village street, complete with a church, shops, and the proper planting. Mrs. Boyd's contribution is a wire waste paper container which she designed herself. The container is now being made by the Ashley Welding Machine and Iron Co., Inc., this city.

It was announced at the meeting that the annual flower show luncheon will be held March 6 in New York at the Waldorf-Astoria. Ulster Garden Club members attending will be announced.

Following the meeting tea was served, and Miss Katharine Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge poured.

LETTER FROM DISTRESSED MOTHER

This is always an unhappy situation: "I'm a mother of three married sons. I live sometimes with one and then with another and all of the time I feel that I'm in their way. I love my sons and don't want to make trouble in their families so try to do exactly what I'm told. But no one seems to understand that a mother who has been active in her own house may feel completely useless, and a burden, if she is not permitted to help around the house. Please write some words of encouragement to the likes of me."

If your three sons could club together and supply you with no matter how small a home of your own, that, of course, would be the happy answer. In your situation the only answer I can make is that you do what each daughter-in-law wishes.

Receiving at Church

Dear Mrs. Post: Does the receiving line which sometimes forms at the back of the church after the wedding eliminate the necessity for receiving at the house?

Answer: The only time the bride and groom receive at the church (in the vestibule) is when the reception at the house is so very small that only relatives and fewest intimate friends are invited. In this case, those invited to the house should go directly there and wait to be received.

Funeral Flowers Lost

Dear Mrs. Post: I ordered a floral piece to be sent to a funeral and in some unexplainable way the order was lost and the flowers never sent. I inquired when I noticed that the charge did not appear on my bill. What can I do to let the bereaved family know that we had not forgotten them? It's really quite distressing to me.

Answer: You can send some cut flowers for the house now to the nearest bereaved, or to the person in the family whom you know best. Many people prefer doing this—and therefore no explanation of this choice will be necessary.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her answers to such questions as clothes for the bridal party, including those of the flower girl and the men of the party, will be found in her leaflet, E-3. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Ann Sneed Deane, 35, today was a member of the Orange County Board of Supervisors, the first woman to hold such a post since the county legislative body was set up in 1763. Mrs. Deane, a Republican and the daughter of State Supreme Court Justice Charles W. U. Sneed, was declared elected by an 87-vote plurality over Alfred Denniston, Democrat, and Joseph Parisi, Independent. The special election in New Windsor township was ordered by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to replace Joseph R. Solowinski, who resigned in December.

Resorts Charge Unfair Faulting In Fix Charges

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Sullivan County Resort Council today said it "is grossly unfair" to accuse mountain resorts as a "breeding place for the current basketball scandal" and declared that the summer employment helps "15,000 to 20,000" students pursue their college careers.

Milton M. Kutsher, president of the Council which speaks for several hundred hotels in the Catskill Mountain region of upper New York, said that Junius Kellogg of Manhattan College "was approached in the city—not in the mountains, where he was employed last summer."

Kellogg, lanky Negro star, reported an attempt to bribe him to fix a game. The expose resulted in the arrest of several persons and frustrated the plot.

Kutsher said that the players are cleared through their colleges, that coaches "encouraged and actually sent their boys to these resorts," and that the players are given "no special financial consideration. They, together with the rest of the employes, receive a nominal salary per month."

Asa Bushnell, chairman of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, said Monday that the summer basketball circuit was partly responsible for the wave of fixes which has involved players of four metropolitan colleges.

"The boys playing there are exposed to easy money and a demoralizing atmosphere," said Bushnell.

The commissioner, who also is chairman of the selection committee for the National Invitation Tournament, said the E.C.A.C., having 91 members, probably will put a ban on summer resort basketball.

Meetings

Kingston Athletic Association meets at the Stuyvesant Hotel tonight at 8 o'clock to discuss the Little League and show pictures of the 1950 World Series.

The third city wide baseball meeting will be held at the Stuyvesant Hotel at 8 p. m., with the finance committee scheduled to make its first report on a drive to raise $15,000 for the Class B ball club.

Curtail Work On New Ski Run

Completion of the Onteora International Ski Hill will be delayed until such time as critical materials are again available, Harold B. Ring of New York announced today.

Ring, who is building the new ski project, said the curtailment is in keeping with government restrictions.

Work will continue as far as possible this summer on the grading and clearing of land for ski trails, parking fields as well as for the ski jump.

Planned by Expert

The hill is the result of 27 years of planning by Ring, who is an international authority on skiing. Improving upon earlier plans the scaffold will rise 200 feet from the roof of a three-story building.

From the top of the 240-foot scaffold to the takeoff will be a 400-foot run. From the knoll to the start of the runout will be over 500 feet, with a minimum width at the knoll of 125 feet, widening to 200 feet at the runout. This arrangement will do much to eliminate spills from missing the downhill run.

The runout will be more than 500 feet long giving plenty of time to slow down even after tremendous jumps, making leaps of up to 500 feet possible.

Particular emphasis is being placed upon safety making record leaps possible with a minimum of falls. The design is such as to make the hill on par with the leading ski jumping hills of Europe and will aid materially in developing the ever increasing interest in ski jumping in the United States.

The equatorial circumference of the earth is 24,902.39 miles.

City Leaguers Meet Friday

A preliminary meeting to reorganize the City Baseball League has been called for Friday, Feb. 23, at 7 p. m. at the Y.M.C.A.

Despite the emergency and manpower situation, the twilight league plans to operate with eight clubs for the 1951 season, according to word from President Charles J. Turck's office.

All eight teams of the 1950 setup are expected to be represented at the meeting. The 1950 league membership included Boulevard Gulf Gas, Morgan's Rest, Chez Emile, Wiltwyck Motors, Colonial Merchants, Jones Dairy, Ferraro's Bowlodrome and Old Capital Motors.

Gardini to Meet Abe Coleman

Gardini, a squat 250-pounder who tossed aside a possible grand opera career, recently was voted by millions of TV fans as the most colorful and spectacular wrestler on television. On his current personal appearance tour he is appearing before sell out crowds.

A rough, tough, vicious and excitable type, Gardini will encounter a rugged opponent in Abe Coleman, the Polish-Jewish veteran of 30 years. Coleman defeated practically every topnotcher in the sport over the years and scored notable victories over Gorgeous George, Don Eagle, Man Mountain Dean and Jim Londos.

Known as the "Human Fire Plug," Coleman is credited with inventing the "drop-kick" and his cat-like movements and scientific knowledge of leverage and holds are sure to give the unorthodox Gardini all the action he craves.

Gorky on Card

Gardini has delighted coast-to-coast television audiences for the past year on the usual Saturday night shows from Chicago. As a badman in the ring, he ranks with such worthies as Tarzan Hewitt, the Dusek brothers and Herb Finkelstein.

The Russian bearded star who has created a sensation in two local appearances, Ivan Gorky, is scheduled to meet Fritz Ziegfried, the German Bombshell, in a two out of three falls match with a one-hour time limit.

Gorky's first bout here ended in a near riot and forced police intervention. His bout last week with John Heidermann was equally sensational.

The opening bout which gets under way at 8:30 p. m. will introduce Mikial Kilonis of Greece and the Italian roughhouse, Chick Garibaldi.

Promoter Bill Johnston announced that Gardini's appearance in Kingston will mark his first showing in the East. He starts a metropolitan area tour after the bout here.

Fears Cage Fixes May Spread To South

Atlanta, Feb. 21 (AP)—Gamblers such as instigated the basketball fix scandals in New York are only awaiting an op;portunity to fix their tentacles on collegiate sport here and elsewhere in the south, says Bobby Dodd, Georgia Tech athletic director and football coach.

Dodd told Ed Danforth, Atlanta Journal sports editor, yesterday that "the fine background of our players" is the only reason "we never had a gambling fix in our section."

"It could happen here," he warned, "if we let the wrong sort of boys get into our basketball and football squads."

Olive Branches On Golf Links

Houston, Tex., Feb. 21 (AP)—All was serene today among the hitherto warring professional golfers and the Houston Open will go on with Jimmie Demaret and other players penalized for a defiant trip to Mexico swinging their clubs as usual.

An agreement was reached last night with Lawson Little, PGA tournament committee co-chairman. Under it nine linksmen, fined for participating in the Mexican National Open, will pay up and be eligible to play here but they'll get a hearing before the full committee when all seven members can be gotten together.

Some 50 tournament players held a four-hour session from which the press was excluded. Afterward a statement was issued that the penalized players would pay under protest and be given a hearing at a future date.

It ended a controversy of almost two weeks. It started at San Antonio during the Texas Open when four members of the committee—Leland Gibson, Horton Smith, Dave Douglas and Clayton Heafner—issued a statement that approved players were prohibited from participating at Mexico City.

Reasons given were that the Mexican Open was not a PGA-co-sponsored tournament, conflicted with the co-sponsored Rio Grande Valley Open at Harlingen last week and was not a "major championship."

Nancy Chaffee Keeps Winning Form

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Nancy Chaffee, the defending champion from Ventura, Calif., is gradually advancing in the women's singles of the National Indoor tennis championships.

Miss Chaffee gained the quarterfinals last night by whipping Mrs. Virginia R. Johnson, 6-1, 6-1.

Althea Gibson, the Negro star, also moved up in the women's division although she had a much harder time. Miss Gibson, runnerup in last year's finals, eked out a 7-5, 3-6, 8-6 victory over Mrs. Marjorie Buck of Boston, Mass.

In the men's singles the big surprise came when unseeded Lorne Main of Pasadena, Calif., eliminated sixth-seeded Charles Masterson of New York, 6-3, 7-5. Fifth-seeded Ricardo Balbiers of Chile and Billy Talbert, No. 2, moved up, although both encountered some difficulty.

KHS, NFA Sold Out

If you haven't got a ticket for tonight's DUSO League basketball clash between Kingston High and Newburgh Academy in the N.F.A. gym, don't make the trip to the Hill City.

That was the warning issued this morning by Coach G. Warren Kias at the high school.

"Our ticket allotment has been sold out and there will be no tickets sold at the door," Kias said. "I would strongly advise against anyone making the trip without a ticket."

Interest in the game is at fever pitch and an over-capacity crowd of 600 or more is expected to pack the N.F.A. gym for the climactic battle.

Conception '5' Nears Loop Title

The Immaculate Conception basketball squad virtually wrapped up the Church League crown last night with an impressive 38-32 victory over St. Mary's Junior A quintet at the M.J.M. gym.

The victory was the eighth straight for the Immaculates, while St. Mary's was dropping only its second decision in nine outings. The lone defeat suffered by the Immaculates came at the hands of St. Mary's Junior Bs.

Superb foul shooting carried the Conception to cagers, as they were outscored from the field 14 goals to 12. They cashed in on 14 of 20 chances.

Gardner and Colclough tossed in 10 points apiece for the winners, while L. Scheffer's nine paced the losers.

new ANTI-STALLING ESSO EXTRA GASOLINE

If you have experienced engine stalling on cool, damp days, especially in the first 10 minutes of driving, try this entirely new kind of gasoline. The only gasoline on the market which combats cold-engine stalling. Before you blame your car, try a tankful. It's especially good in cars with automatic transmissions, where restarting after stalling is more troublesome. And it doesn't cost a penny more than other premium gasolines!

ROAD-TESTED FOR FIVE MONTHS on eleven makes of cars... Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline practically eliminates cold-engine stalling.

Again, here's news of "something more" at the Esso Sign—the kind of extra value that keeps millions of motorists coming back for more!

say that cold-engine stalling has been a persistent problem for years. Under certain conditions, powerful gasolines required for today's high-compression engines evaporate and freeze moisture out of the air, "ice up" the carburetor and causing temporary stalling. Kellogg, lanky Negro star, reported an attempt to bribe him to fix a game. The expose resulted in the arrest of several persons and frustrated the plot.

Kutsher said that the players are cleared through their colleges, that coaches "encouraged and actually sent their boys to these resorts," and that the players are given "no special financial consideration. They, together with the rest of the employes, receive a nominal salary per month."

Asa Bushnell, chairman of the Eastern College Athletic Conference, said Monday that the summer basketball circuit was partly responsible for the wave of fixes which has involved players of four metropolitan colleges.

"The boys playing there are exposed to easy money and a demoralizing atmosphere," said Bushnell.

The commissioner, who also is chairman of the selection committee for the National Invitation Tournament, said the E.C.A.C., having 91 members, probably will put a ban on summer resort basketball.

Meetings

Kingston Athletic Association meets at the Stuyvesant Hotel tonight at 8 o'clock to discuss the Little League and show pictures of the 1950 World Series.

The third city wide baseball meeting will be held at the Stuyvesant Hotel at 8 p. m., with the finance committee scheduled to make its first report on a drive to raise $15,000 for the Class B ball club.

Curtail Work On New Ski Run

Completion of the Onteora International Ski Hill will be delayed until such time as critical materials are again available, Harold B. Ring of New York announced today.

Ring, who is building the new ski project, said the curtailment is in keeping with government restrictions.

Work will continue as far as possible this summer on the grading and clearing of land for ski trails, parking fields as well as for the ski jump.

Located at Phoenicia, the new ski hill will present the jumper with opportunities to make record leaps with a maximum of safety.

Planned by Expert

The hill is the result of 27 years of planning by Ring, who is an international authority on skiing. Improving upon earlier plans the scaffold will rise 200 feet from the roof of a three-story building.

From the top of the 240-foot scaffold to the takeoff will be a 400-foot run. From the knoll to the start of the runout will be over 500 feet, with a minimum width at the knoll of 125 feet, widening to 200 feet at the runout. This arrangement will do much to eliminate spills from missing the downhill run.

The runout will be more than 500 feet long giving plenty of time to slow down even after tremendous jumps, making leaps of up to 500 feet possible.

Particular emphasis is being placed upon safety making record leaps possible with a minimum of falls. The design is such as to make the hill on par with the leading ski jumping hills of Europe and will aid materially in developing the ever increasing interest in ski jumping in the United States.

The equatorial circumference of the earth is 24,902.39 miles.

City Leaguers Meet Friday

A preliminary meeting to reorganize the City Baseball League has been called for Friday, Feb. 23, at 7 p. m. at the Y.M.C.A.

Despite the emergency and manpower situation, the twilight league plans to operate with eight clubs for the 1951 season, according to word from President Charles J. Turck's office.

All eight teams of the 1950 setup are expected to be represented at the meeting. The 1950 league membership included Boulevard Gulf Gas, Morgan's Rest, Chez Emile, Wiltwyck Motors, Colonial Merchants, Jones Dairy, Ferraro's Bowlodrome and Old Capital Motors.

Gardini to Meet Abe Coleman

Chicago's TV wrestling sensation, colorful Benito Gardini, the so-called "Little Flower" will tangle with veteran Abe Coleman in the main event of the all-star wrestling show, Saturday night, Feb. 24, at the municipal auditorium.

Gardini, a squat 250-pounder who tossed aside a possible grand opera career, recently was voted by millions of TV fans as the most colorful and spectacular wrestler on television. On his current personal appearance tour he is appearing before sell out crowds.

A rough, tough, vicious and excitable type, Gardini will encounter a rugged opponent in Abe Coleman, the Polish-Jewish veteran of 30 years. Coleman defeated practically every topnotcher in the sport over the years and scored notable victories over Gorgeous George, Don Eagle, Man Mountain Dean and Jim Londos.

Known as the "Human Fire Plug," Coleman is credited with inventing the "drop-kick" and his cat-like movements and scientific knowledge of leverage and holds are sure to give the unorthodox Gardini all the action he craves.

Gorky on Card

Gardini has delighted coast-to-coast television audiences for the past year on the usual Saturday night shows from Chicago. As a badman in the ring, he ranks with such worthies as Tarzan Hewitt, the Dusek brothers and Herb Finkelstein.

The Russian bearded star who has created a sensation in two local appearances, Ivan Gorky, is scheduled to meet Fritz Ziegfried, the German Bombshell, in a two out of three falls match with a one-hour time limit.

Gorky's first bout here ended in a near riot and forced police intervention. His bout last week with John Heidermann was equally sensational.

The opening bout which gets under way at 8:30 p. m. will introduce Mikial Kilonis of Greece and the Italian roughhouse, Chick Garibaldi.

Promoter Bill Johnston announced that Gardini's appearance in Kingston will mark his first showing in the East. He starts a metropolitan area tour after the bout here.

Fears Cage Fixes May Spread To South

Atlanta, Feb. 21 (AP)—Gamblers such as instigated the basketball fix scandals in New York are only awaiting an op;portunity to fix their tentacles on collegiate sport here and elsewhere in the south, says Bobby Dodd, Georgia Tech athletic director and football coach.

Dodd told Ed Danforth, Atlanta Journal sports editor, yesterday that "the fine background of our players" is the only reason "we never had a gambling fix in our section."

"It could happen here," he warned, "if we let the wrong sort of boys get into our basketball and football squads."

Olive Branches On Golf Links

Houston, Tex., Feb. 21 (AP)—All was serene today among the hitherto warring professional golfers and the Houston Open will go on with Jimmie Demaret and other players penalized for a defiant trip to Mexico swinging their clubs as usual.

An agreement was reached last night with Lawson Little, PGA tournament committee co-chairman. Under it nine linksmen, fined for participating in the Mexican National Open, will pay up and be eligible to play here but they'll get a hearing before the full committee when all seven members can be gotten together.

Some 50 tournament players held a four-hour session from which the press was excluded. Afterward a statement was issued that the penalized players would pay under protest and be given a hearing at a future date.

It ended a controversy of almost two weeks. It started at San Antonio during the Texas Open when four members of the committee—Leland Gibson, Horton Smith, Dave Douglas and Clayton Heafner—issued a statement that approved players were prohibited from participating at Mexico City.

Reasons given were that the Mexican Open was not a PGA-cosponsored tournament, conflicted with the co-sponsored Rio Grande Valley Open at Harlingen last week and was not a "major championship."

Nancy Chaffee Keeps Winning Form

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Nancy Chaffee, the defending champion from Ventura, Calif., is gradually advancing in the women's singles of the National Indoor tennis championships.

Miss Chaffee gained the quarterfinals last night by whipping Mrs. Virginia R. Johnson, 6-1, 6-1.

Althea Gibson, the Negro star, also moved up in the women's division although she had a much harder time. Miss Gibson, runnerup in last year's finals, eked out a 7-5, 3-6, 8-6 victory over Mrs. Marjorie Buck of Boston, Mass.

In the men's singles the big surprise came when unseeded Lorne Main of Pasadena, Calif., eliminated sixth-seeded Charles Masterson of New York, 6-3, 7-5. Fifth-seeded Ricardo Balbiers of Chile and Billy Talbert, No. 2, moved up, although both encountered some difficulty.

KHS, NFA Sold Out

If you haven't got a ticket for tonight's DUSO League basketball clash between Kingston High and Newburgh Academy in the N.F.A. gym, don't make the trip to the Hill City.

That was the warning issued this morning by Coach G. Warren Kias at the high school.

"Our ticket allotment has been sold out and there will be no tickets sold at the door," Kias said. "I would strongly advise against anyone making the trip without a ticket."

Interest in the game is at fever pitch and an over-capacity crowd of 600 or more is expected to pack the N.F.A. gym for the climactic battle.

Conception '5' Nears Loop Title

The Immaculate Conception basketball squad virtually wrapped up the Church League crown last night with an impressive 38-32 victory over St. Mary's Junior A quintet at the M.J.M. gym.

The victory was the eighth straight for the Immaculates, while St. Mary's was dropping only its second decision in nine outings. The lone defeat suffered by the Immaculates came at the hands of St. Mary's Junior Bs.

Superb foul shooting carried the Conception to cagers, as they were outscored from the field 14 goals to 12. They cashed in on 14 of 20 chances.

Gardner and Colclough tossed in 10 points apiece for the winners, while L. Scheffer's nine paced the losers.

new ANTI-STALLING ESSO EXTRA GASOLINE

If you have experienced engine stalling on cool, damp days, especially in the first 10 minutes of driving, try this entirely new kind of gasoline. The only gasoline on the market which combats cold-engine stalling. Before you blame your car, try a tankful. It's especially good in cars with automatic transmissions, where restarting after stalling is more troublesome. And it doesn't cost a penny more than other premium gasolines!

ROAD-TESTED FOR FIVE MONTHS on eleven makes of cars... Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline practically eliminates cold-engine stalling.

Again, here's news of "something more" at the Esso Sign—the kind of extra value that keeps millions of motorists coming back for more!

Detroit's Automotive Engineers...

say that cold-engine stalling has been a persistent problem for years. Under certain conditions, powerful gasolines required for today's high-compression engines evaporate and freeze moisture out of the air, "ice up" the carburetor and causing temporary stalling. This stalling is practically eliminated by the new Esso Extra Gasoline. (No gasoline, of course, can correct stalling caused by mechanical faults or electrical failure.)

● Tournament Roundup:

For better than 15 years we've been watching Harold Broskie carelessly throwing pins away on his final ball. We've seen it happen time and again, knowing that some day Harold's caprices would involve him in a situation of considerable personal anguish and unhappiness.

The moment finally arrived Sunday night. After a strike in the tenth frame of his third game in the singles, Broskie left two pins standing on the second ball. Not realizing that he was flirting with first place in Class A singles and aware that a strike would have given high single game for the tournament, Broskie permitted his blood pressure to rise a few notches above normal. Then came the careless heave.

Richard Howard won the A singles with 649. Without the two pins, Broskie totalled 648. It should have taught Harold a painful lesson, but we doubt seriously if it did.

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

Tournament conditions were superb for the singles and doubles, a high tribute to Johnny Ferraro's skill as an alley conditioner. Biggest heroes must be Bruce Davis, the all-events winner, and Stanley Kaplan, Class B singles titleholder. Davis bowled beautifully to stack up 1922 in the all-events. He was in the pocket most of the way. Kaplan proved that past experience and averages mean nothing under tournament pressure. Here was a young man who had never rolled better than 550 in league play and carried a 161 average shooting 632 in singles. It was the finest display of pressure bowling in the tournament. Two splits between a double and six times held Kaplan to 280 in the opener. He came thundering down the stretch like Seabiscuit with five strikes in a row. Phil Corrado unloaded a six-timer in the doubles but two five-pin fills held him to 238. Johnny Schatzel strung a six bagger at the end of his singles for 224. Stout Steve Leone had plenty of trouble trying to find the 1-3 pocket . . . only six strikes in the doubles.

Two major absentees were Johnny Ferraro and Mannie Colao. Ferraro pulled up with a game leg, while Colao lost his father late Saturday night. Our heartiest condolences and those of the Kingston Bowling Association and bowling in general to Mannie, one of the quaintest characters in the sport. Ross Ellis bagged a 242 solo . . . Joe Singer missed his doubles because of an important engagement but arrived in time to crash the prize list with 606 singles in Class A yet. . . . Fred Rice opened with a flourish of strikes for 233 in the singles then faded to 143 and 159. Don Weeks, who bowled excellently in the team event and singles, suffered an inexplicable collapse in the doubles with a lowly 409. Well, maybe not so inexplicable when you consider 11 splits. Barney Fowler jarred the C division with a nice 204 and don't be surprised if Bud Fromer steps in as a substitute for his Amoco powerhouse. Fromer had a nice "500" series and was converting 5-7 splits all over the house.

Defending all-events champion, Joe Misasi, found the going rough this time. Roland Post, who made his debut in Class A doubles, slipped to a 125 and Bob Hanley tailed off to 126. Mitzie Arlensky's nice showing in the all-events 1845 was attributed by the sartorial one to "lack of responsibility to the K.B.A. executive committee." "I was so busy with paper work in past tournaments that I just couldn't bowl when my time came around. This time I was in shape." Dick Howard lost a big series because of a solid 4-pin tap in the 30th frame of his singles. He had only one open frame in the solo event, a split in the first frame of the third game. How about Eddie Heins' 118? Add six-timers, Tony LaRocca for 235 in the singles. Randy Kelder entered the singles with a chance for an all-time record in the scratch all-events, but alley No. 8 murdered him with about a half dozen "5-7" splits. Joe Kwasney threatened another tournament kill with a 238 singles opener, then slumped to 166 and 176, still enough to land on the prize list.

Broskie had nine strikes and one open frame in his 252 game in the singles. Angie Ferraro salvaged a drab performance with a 233 single. Larry Weishaupt qualified for a triplicate patch with 173-173-173 in singles. Rudy Kubicek had his ups and downs from 234 to 111, the latter featuring six splits. Lou Guadagnola and Harry Smith toppled 437 for the best game in the doubles.

A rousing success, the tournament had many other highlights that we'll cover in our next column.

'Champ' Holstein Scores 34 Points

Harry's Angels launched their bid for the third round title in the Y.M.C.A. Basketball League with a gaudy 79-75 decision over Chez Emile last night on the Y boards.

A four-point edge the Angels acquired in the first half was the eventual margin between the clubs. The Angels led 21-16 at the quarter, with the Chezzles paring down a point in the second period.

Lafayette Holstein regained his early season scoring touch with a 34-point barrage on 15 fields and four singletons. Clark Mains hit for 14, while Thomas and McGrane had 10 apiece for the winners.

Bud Scheffel, the Angel center, enjoyed one of the best scoring nights in his career with 27 points. He hit 13 times scrimmage. Andy Petruski and Eric Goercke racked up 15 points each. Both teams had identical quarter totals of 21 and 23 points in the last two periods.

Haggerty Scores 21

Red Murray drilled 20 points and Carpouzis aided the winners with 10. Paul Scott again was top man for Sixth Ward with 20, while Fitzgerald posted 13.

• Tournament Roundup:

For better than 15 years we've been watching Harold Broskie carelessly throwing pins away on his final ball. We've seen it happen time and again, knowing that some day Harold's caprices would involve him in a situation of considerable personal anguish and unhappiness.

The moment finally arrived Sunday night. After a strike in the tenth frame of his third game in the singles, Broskie left two pins standing on the second ball. Not realizing that he was flirting with first place in Class A singles and aware that a strike would have given high single game for the tournament, Broskie permitted his blood pressure to rise a few notches above normal. Then came the careless heave.

Richard Howard won the A singles with 649. Without the two pins, Broskie totalled 648. It should have taught Harold a painful lesson, but we doubt seriously if it did.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Tournament conditions were superb for the singles and doubles, a high tribute to Johnny Ferraro's skill as an alley conditioner. Biggest heroes must be Bruce Davis, the all-events winner, and Stanley Kaplan, Class B singles titleholder. Davis bowled beautifully to stack up 1922 in the all-events. He was in the pocket most of the way. Kaplan proved that past experience and averages mean nothing under tournament pressure. Here was a young man who had never rolled better than 550 in league play and carried a 161 average shooting 632 in singles. It was the finest display of pressure bowling in the tournament. Two splits between a double and six times held Kaplan to 230 in the opener. He came thundering down the stretch like Seabiscuit with five strikes in a row. Phil Corrado unloaded a six-timer in the doubles but two five-pin fills held him to 238. Johnny Schatzel strung a six bagger at the end of his singles for 224. Stout Steve Leone had plenty of trouble trying to find the 1-3 pocket . . . only six strikes in the doubles.

Two major absentees were Johnny Ferraro and Mannie Colao. Ferraro pulled up with a game leg, while Colao lost his father late Saturday night. Our heartiest condolences and those of the Kingston Bowling Association and bowling in general to Mannie, one of the quaintest characters in the sport. Ross Ellis bagged a 242 solo . . . Joe Singer missed his doubles because of an important engagement but arrived in time to crash the prize list with 606 singles in Class A yet. . . . Fred Rice opened with a flourish of strikes for 233 in the singles then faded to 143 and 159. Don Weeks, who bowled excellently in the team event and singles, suffered an inexplicable collapse in the doubles with a lowly 409. Well, maybe not so inexplicable when you consider 11 splits. Barney Fowler jarred the C division with a nice 204 and don't be surprised if Bud Fromer steps in as a substitute for his Amoco powerhouse. Fromer had a nice "500" series and was converting 5-7 splits all over the house.

Defending all-events champion, Joe Misasi, found the going rough this time. Roland Post, who made his debut in Class A doubles, slipped to a 125 and Bob Hanley tailed off to 126. Mitzie Arlensky's nice showing in the all-events 1845 was attributed by the sartorial one to "lack of responsibility to the K.B.A. executive committee." "I was so busy with paper work in past tournaments that I just couldn't bowl when my time came around. This time I was in shape." Dick Howard lost a big series because of a solid 4-pin tap in the 30th frame of his singles. He had only one open frame in the solo event, a split in the first frame of the third game. How about Eddie Heins' 118? Add six-timers, Tony LaRocca for 235 in the singles. Randy Kelder entered the singles with a chance for an all-time record in the scratch all-events, but alley No. 2 murdered him with about a half dozen "5-7" splits. Joe Kwasney threatened another tournament kill with a 238 singles opener, then slumped to 166 and 176, still enough to land on the prize list.

Broskie had nine strikes and one open frame in his 252 game in the singles. Angie Ferraro salvaged a drab performance with a 233 single. Larry Weishaupt qualified for a triplicate patch with 173-173-173 in singles. Rudy Kubicek had his ups and downs from 234 to 111, the latter featuring six splits. Lou Guadagnola and Harry Smith toppled 437 for the best game in the doubles.

A rousing success, the tournament had many other highlights6 that we'll cover in our next column.

'Champ' Holstein Scores 34 Points

Harry's Angels launched their bid for the third round title in the Y.M.C.A. Basketball League with a gaudy 79-75 decision over Chez Emile last night on the Y boards.

A four-point edge the Angels acquired in the first half was the eventual margin between the clubs. The Angels led 21-16 at the quarter, with the Chezzies paring down a point in the second period.

Lafayette Holstein regained his early season scoring touch with a 34-point barrage on 15 fields and four singletons. Clark Mains hit for 14, while Thomas and McGrane had 10 apiece for the winners.

Bud Scheffel, the Angel center, enjoyed one of the best scoring nights in his career with 27 points. He hit 13 times scrimmage. Andy Petruski and Eric Goercke racked up 15 points each. Both teams had identical quarter totals of 21 and 23 points in the last two periods.

Haggerty Scores 21

Don Haggerty's 21 points paced Wiltwyck Motors to a 63-49 verdict over Sixth Ward, the Motormen exploding for 23 points in the fourth quarter to break up a fairly close ball game.

Red Murray drilled 20 points and Carpouzis aided the winners with 10. Paul Scott again was top man for Sixth Ward with 20, while Fitzgerald posted 13.

• Tournament Roundup:

For better than 15 years we've been watching Harold Broskie carelessly throwing pins away on his final ball. We've seen it happen time and again, knowing that some day Harold's caprices would involve him in a situation of considerable personal anguish and unhappiness.

The moment finally arrived Sunday night. After a strike in the tenth frame of his third game in the singles, Broskie left two pins standing on the second ball. Not realizing that he was flirting with first place in Class A singles and aware that a strike would have given high single game for the tournament, Broskie permitted his blood pressure to rise a few notches above normal. Then came the careless heave.

Richard Howard won the A singles with 649. Without the two pins, Broskie totalled 648. It should have taught Harold a painful lesson, but we doubt seriously if it did.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Tournament conditions were superb for the singles and doubles, a high tribute to Johnny Ferraro's skill as an alley conditioner. Biggest heroes must be Bruce Davis, the all-events winner, and Stanley Kaplan, Class B singles titleholder. Davis bowled beautifully to stack up 1922 in the all-events. He was in the pocket most of the way. Kaplan proved that past experience and averages mean nothing under tournament pressure. Here was a young man who had never rolled better than 550 in league play and carried a 161 average shooting 632 in singles. It was the finest display of pressure bowling in the tournament. Two splits between a double and six times held Kaplan to 230 in the opener. He came thundering down the stretch like Seabiscuit with five strikes in a row. Phil Corrado unloaded a six-timer in the doubles but two five-pin fills held him to 238. Johnny Schatzel strung a six bagger at the end of his singles for 224. Stout Steve Leone had plenty of trouble trying to find the 1-3 pocket . . . only six strikes in the doubles.

Two major absentees were Johnny Ferraro and Mannie Colao. Ferraro pulled up with a game leg, while Colao lost his father late Saturday night. Our heartiest condolences and those of the Kingston Bowling Association and bowling in general to Mannie, one of the quaintest characters in the sport. Ross Ellis bagged a 242 solo . . . Joe Singer missed his doubles because of an important engagement but arrived in time to crash the prize list with 606 singles in Class A yet. . . . Fred Rice opened with a flourish of strikes for 233 in the singles then faded to 143 and 159. Don Weeks, who bowled excellently in the team event and singles, suffered an inexplicable collapse in the doubles with a lowly 409. Well, maybe not so inexplicable when you consider 11 splits. Barney Fowler jarred the C division with a nice 204 and don't be surprised if Bud Fromer steps in as a substitute for his Amoco powerhouse. Fromer had a nice "500" series and was converting 5-7 splits all over the house.

Defending all-events champion, Joe Misasi, found the going rough this time. Roland Post, who made his debut in Class A doubles, slipped to a 125 and Bob Hanley tailed off to 126. Mitzie Arlensky's nice showing in the all-events 1845 was attributed by the sartorial one to "lack of responsibility to the K.B.A. executive committee." "I was so busy with paper work in past tournaments that I just couldn't bowl when my time came around. This time I was in shape." Dick Howard lost a big series because of a solid 4-pin tap in the 30th frame of his singles. He had only one open frame in the solo event, a split in the first frame of the third game. How about Eddie Heins' 118? Add six-timers, Tony LaRocca for 235 in the singles. Randy Kelder entered the singles with a chance for an all-time record in the scratch all-events, but alley No. 2 murdered him with about a half dozen "5-7" splits. Joe Kwasney threatened another tournament kill with a 233 singles opener, then slumped to 166 and 176, still enough to land on the prize list.

Broskie had nine strikes and one open frame in his 252 game in the singles. Angie Ferraro salvaged a drab performance with a 233 single. Larry Weishaupt qualified for a triplicate patch with 173-173-173 in singles. Rudy Kubicek had his ups and downs from 234 to 111, the latter featuring six splits. Lou Guadagnola and Harry Smith toppled 437 for the best game in the doubles.

A rousing success, the tournament had many other highlights6 that we'll cover in our next column.

17 Persons Stranded

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 20 (AP)—Seventeen persons were stranded 600 feet above the ground in a dangling cable car en route to the top of a mountain yesterday when a power-rail cable broke. The break occurred near the top of Urca Hill, where passengers transfer to a second car to reach scenic Sugar Loaf Mountain overlooking Rio de Janeiro's harbor. The car hung on only one powerless cable after the other snapped.

17 Persons Stranded

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 20 (AP)—Seventeen persons were stranded 600 feet above the ground in a dangling cable car en route to the top of a mountain yesterday when a power-rail cable broke. The break occurred near the top of Urca Hill, where passengers transfer to a second car to reach scenic Sugar Loaf Mountain overlooking Rio de Janeiro's harbor. The car hung on only one powerless cable after the other snapped.

17 Persons Stranded

Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 20 (AP)—Seventeen persons were stranded 600 feet above the ground in a dangling cable car en route to the top of a mountain yesterday when a power-rail cable broke. The break occurred near the top of Urca Hill, where passengers transfer to a second car to reach scenic Sugar Loaf Mountain overlooking Rio de Janeiro's harbor. Long Island U.

after State Supreme Court Justice Samuel H. Hofstadter refused yesterday his latest plea for freedom on a habeas corpus writ. He has been refused bail.

"I can hardly see a more despicable crime—the corruption of youth at the very fountainhead."

Rumors still persisted that District Attorney Frank S. Hogan isn't finished with the sensational college basketball expose that has kept the sports world tense since he first started questioning players last Saturday night.

No Basis for Rumor

Asked if he has two more players in custody, Hogan said:

"There is no basis for that rumor at this time."

Another development yesterday was Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's demand that the maximum prison sentence in New York state for any one bribing or trying to bribe an athlete be increased from five to 10 years.

A bill to this effect was introduced immediately in the Republican-controlled Legislature at Albany, and Democrats pledged their support.

The mushrooming scandal continued to bring statements from some major schools that they will not play further games in Madison Square Garden. The latest was from Denver University, which lost an allegedly "fixed" game to L.I.U. two months ago. Other schools said they will continue to play in the Garden.

Gard Eighth and Last

Gard was the eighth and latest to be brought into the current scandal as a player. He previously was charged as the contact between the CCNY players and Sallazzo.

But late yesterday the district attorney's office said Gard also admitted accepting bribes to "fix" three games in which he played last season. One was I.I.U.'s 80-50 invitational tournament upset loss to Syracuse.

Gard's athletic eligibility ran out on him this season, although he was still enrolled at LIU.

However, three of his former mates—White, Smith and Bigos—are charged with carrying on the "dumping" this season. Authorities said Smith was not involved last year.

Bigos had replaced Gard as captain this year. White, one of the nation's highest scorers, appeared headed for All-American honors.

The Sallazzo scandal was touched off Sunday with the arrest of Roman, Warner, Roth and Schaff.

The players, according to the DA, agreed to keep winning margins within the limits set by bookmakers. In trying to shave points, Hogan said, they sometimes lost games.

The CCNY players were outstanding stars of the team of last season that swept from oblivion to basketball's first and only grand slam—championships in the National Invitation and NCAA tourneys.

All eight youths have been suspended by their respective schools.

This latest scandal followed by only five weeks the disclosure of "fixes" of several Manhattan College games of last year. The former Manhattan co-captains, Henry Poppe and John Byrnes, were indicted with three others on bribery charges.

DA officials said they have confiscated a total of $20,540 from various hiding places revealed to them by five of the CCNY and LIU players.

If convicted, the players and Sollazzo face a possible maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine under the present state penal law dealing with bribes.

It was the magnitude of the current gambling inquiry that prompted the LIU president and trustees to return all LIU sports "to the status of intra-mural competition."

The trustees added that "an undue emphasis has been placed upon basketball and perhaps on other intercollegiate sports."

Line-Up for the Game

Wife Leaves Court

Mrs. Jeanne Sollazzo, wife of Salvatore T. Sollazzo, accused "fixer" in the current basketball bribe investigation, leaves Supreme Court in New York after the court denied an application of bail for Sollazzo. He has been held without bail since his arrest Feb. 18. He has a former criminal record.

MT. TREMPER

Mt. Tremper, Feb. 21—A congregational meeting of the Shandaken Reformed Church of Mt. Tremper was held Tuesday night. A social hour followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Ostrander of Woodstock were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Phillips Sunday.

Ernest Gardiner is having his residence re-modeled.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd S. Wilber of Kingston were Sunday night visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Wilber.

Mrs. Lindsay Hoyt entertained at her home Saturday afternoon in honor of the second birthday of her son, Jonathan. Several younger guests and their mothers also attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schoen entertained friends from New York recently.

Power Use Increases

Poughkeepsie, Feb. 21 (AP)—A 120 per cent increase in the use of electric power by mid-Hudson valley farmers since 1940 was reported today by Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. The company said that more than 99 per cent of the area's farms are electrified. It noted that although its average farm customer used more than twice as much power in 1950 as he did in 1940, his electric bill had gone up less than half—42 per cent—during the period.

Long Island U.

after State Supreme Court Justice Samuel H. Hofstadter refused yesterday his latest plea for freedom on a habeas corpus writ. He has been refused bail.

During the hearing, Sollazzo's pretty wife, Jeanne, pulled a mink coat around her shoulders and wept as the justice told her husband:

"I can hardly see a more despicable crime—the corruption of youth at the very fountainhead."

Rumors still persisted that District Attorney Frank S. Hogan isn't finished with the sensational college basketball expose that has kept the sports world tense since he first started questioning players last Saturday night.

No Basis for Rumor

Asked if he has two more players in custody, Hogan said:

"There is no basis for that rumor at this time."

Another development yesterday was Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's demand that the maximum prison sentence in New York state for any one bribing or trying to bribe an athlete be increased from five to 10 years.

A bill to this effect was introduced immediately in the Republican-controlled Legislature at Albany, and Democrats pledged their support.

The mushrooming scandal continued to bring statements from some major schools that they will not play further games in Madison Square Garden. The latest was from Denver University, which lost an allegedly "fixed" game to L.I.U. two months ago. Other schools said they will continue to play in the Garden.

Gard Eighth and Last

Gard was the eighth and latest to be brought into the current scandal as a player. He previously was charged as the contact between the CCNY players and Sallazzo.

But late yesterday the district attorney's office said Gard also admitted accepting bribes to "fix" three games in which he played last season. One was I.I.U.'s 80-50 invitational tournament upset loss to Syracuse.

Gard's athletic eligibility ran out on him this season, although he was still enrolled at LIU.

However, three of his former mates—White, Smith and Bigos—are charged with carrying on the "dumping" this season. Authorities said Smith was not involved last year.

Bigos had replaced Gard as captain this year. White, one of the nation's highest scorers, appeared headed for All-American honors.

Bigos, White and Smith posted $15,000 bail each and were released late yesterday. Gard remained in protective custody at his own request.

The Sallazzo scandal was touched off Sunday with the arrest of Roman, Warner, Roth and Schaff.

The players, according to the DA, agreed to keep winning margins within the limits set by bookmakers. In trying to shave points, Hogan said, they sometimes lost games.

The CCNY players were outstanding stars of the team of last season that swept from oblivion to basketball's first and only grand slam—championships in the National Invitation and NCAA tourneys.

All eight youths have been suspended by their respective schools.

This latest scandal followed by only five weeks the disclosure of "fixes" of several Manhattan College games of last year. The former Manhattan co-captains, Henry Poppe and John Byrnes, were indicted with three others on bribery charges.

DA officials said they have confiscated a total of $20,540 from various hiding places revealed to them by five of the CCNY and LIU players.

If convicted, the players and Sollazzo face a possible maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine under the present state penal law dealing with bribes.

It was the magnitude of the current gambling inquiry that prompted the LIU president and trustees to return all LIU sports "to the status of intra-mural competition."

The trustees added that "an undue emphasis has been placed upon basketball and perhaps on other intercollegiate sports."

Line-Up for the Game

Wife Leaves Court

Mrs. Jeanne Sollazzo, wife of Salvatore T. Sollazzo, accused "fixer" in the current basketball bribe investigation, leaves Supreme Court in New York after the court denied an application of bail for Sollazzo. He has been held without bail since his arrest Feb. 18. He has a former criminal record.

MT. TREMPER

Mt. Tremper, Feb. 21—A congregational meeting of the Shandaken Reformed Church of Mt. Tremper was held Tuesday night. A social hour followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Ostrander of Woodstock were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Phillips Sunday.

Ernest Gardiner is having his residence re-modeled.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd S. Wilber of Kingston were Sunday night visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Wilber.

Mrs. Lindsay Hoyt entertained at her home Saturday afternoon in honor of the second birthday of her son, Jonathan. Several younger guests and their mothers also attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schoen entertained friends from New York recently.

Power Use Increases

Poughkeepsie, Feb. 21 (AP)—A 120 per cent increase in the use of electric power by mid-Hudson valley farmers since 1940 was reported today by Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. The company said that more than 99 per cent of the area's farms are electrified. It noted that although its average farm customer used more than twice as much power in 1950 as he did in 1940, his electric bill had gone up less than half—42 per cent—during the period.

Long Island U.

after State Supreme Court Justice Samuel H. Hofstadter refused yesterday his latest plea for freedom on a habeas corpus writ. He has been refused bail.

During the hearing, Sollazzo's pretty wife, Jeanne, pulled a mink coat around her shoulders and wept as the justice told her husband:

"I can hardly see a more despicable crime—the corruption of youth at the very fountainhead."

Rumors still persisted that District Attorney Frank S. Hogan isn't finished with the sensational college basketball expose that has kept the sports world tense since he first started questioning players last Saturday night.

No Basis for Rumor

Asked if he has two more players in custody, Hogan said:

"There is no basis for that rumor at this time."

Another development yesterday was Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's demand that the maximum prison sentence in New York state for any one bribing or trying to bribe an athlete be increased from five to 10 years.

A bill to this effect was introduced immediately in the Republican-controlled Legislature at Albany, and Democrats pledged their support.

The mushrooming scandal continued to bring statements from some major schools that they will not play further games in Madison Square Garden. The latest was from Denver University, which lost an allegedly "fixed" game to L.I.U. two months ago. Other schools said they will continue to play in the Garden.

Gard Eighth and Last

Gard was the eighth and latest to be brought into the current scandal as a player. He previously was charged as the contact between the CCNY players and Sallazzo.

But late yesterday the district attorney's office said Gard also admitted accepting bribes to "fix" three games in which he played last season. One was I.I.U.'s 80-50 invitational tournament upset loss to Syracuse.

Gard's athletic eligibility ran out on him this season, although he was still enrolled at LIU.

However, three of his former mates—White, Smith and Bigos—are charged with carrying on the "dumping" this season. Authorities said Smith was not involved last year.

Bigos had replaced Gard as captain this year. White, one of the nation's highest scorers, appeared headed for All-American honors.

Bigos, White and Smith posted $15,000 bail each and were released late yesterday. Gard remained in protective custody at his own request.

The Sallazzo scandal was touched off Sunday with the arrest of Roman, Warner, Roth and Schaff.

The players, according to the DA, agreed to keep winning margins within the limits set by bookmakers. In trying to shave points, Hogan said, they sometimes lost games.

The CCNY players were outstanding stars of the team of last season that swept from oblivion to basketball's first and only grand slam—championships in the National Invitation and NCAA tourneys.

All eight youths have been suspended by their respective schools.

This latest scandal followed by only five weeks the disclosure of "fixes" of several Manhattan College games of last year. The former Manhattan co-captains, Henry Poppe and John Byrnes, were indicted with three others on bribery charges.

DA officials said they have confiscated a total of $20,540 from various hiding places revealed to them by five of the CCNY and LIU players.

If convicted, the players and Sollazzo face a possible maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine under the present state penal law dealing with bribes.

It was the magnitude of the current gambling inquiry that prompted the LIU president and trustees to return all LIU sports "to the status of intra-mural competition."

The trustees added that "an undue emphasis has been placed upon basketball and perhaps on other intercollegiate sports."

Line-Up for the Game

Wife Leaves Court

Mrs. Jeanne Sollazzo, wife of Salvatore T. Sollazzo, accused "fixer" in the current basketball bribe investigation, leaves Supreme Court in New York after the court denied an application of bail for Sollazzo. He has been held without bail since his arrest Feb. 18. He has a former criminal record.

New Wage Order

The same group of employes is to be paid a minimum of 70 cents in cities of from 10,000 to 50,000 and 65 cents in communities of less tan 10,000 persons.

Ticket-takers and doormen were ordered paid 70 cents an hour minimum in cities over 50,000 and in all Nassau and Westchester areas; 65 cents in cities of from 10,000 to 50,000 and 60 cents in communities of less than 10,000.

Ushers, ramp and checkroom attendants and various other unclassified service staff workers in motion picture theatres are to be paid a minimum of 55 cents hourly in New York city, Nassau and Westchester, and 50 cents an hour elsewhere in the state. The same rates also will apply to bat boys, ball chasers, scoreboard boys, and messengers in professional sports promotions and exhibitions.

MT. TREMPER

Mt. Tremper, Feb. 21—A congregational meeting of the Shandaken Reformed Church of Mt. Tremper was held Tuesday night. A social hour followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Ostrander of Woodstock were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Phillips Sunday.

Ernest Gardiner is having his residence re-modeled.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd S. Wilber of Kingston were Sunday night visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Wilber.

Mrs. Lindsay Hoyt entertained at her home Saturday afternoon in honor of the second birthday of her son, Jonathan. Several younger guests and their mothers also attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schoen entertained friends from New York recently.

Power Use Increases

Poughkeepsie, Feb. 21 (AP)—A 120 per cent increase in the use of electric power by mid-Hudson valley farmers since 1940 was reported today by Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. The company said that more than 99 per cent of the area's farms are electrified. It noted that although its average farm customer used more than twice as much power in 1950 as he did in 1940, his electric bill had gone up less than half—42 per cent—during the period.

LeMay Lauds

Russia in event of war. When Wherry asked if they could knock out Russia by long-range bombardment, the general replied: "I don't know. That's my job to try and achieve that end."

Wherry opposes the administration plan to put six army divisions into a combined European defense force against possible Communist aggression.

Le May termed the strategic bombers the greatest deterent to Russian agression at the present time.

"I think we know more about long range bombing than any of our allies and it seems reasonable that should be our major contribution," (to defense of Europe) he said.

This was in line with the thinking of Wherry and some other Republicans, including Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) and former President Herbert Hoover, that the United States should focus its efforts on supplying air and sea power for the North Atlantic defense forces.

Overnight, the Senate group which has been seeking some limitation on the number of American troops which can be sent to Europe lost one supporter. Senator Douglas (D.-Ill.) quit the fight.

Doubts Practicality

Douglas, who had proposed that Congress fix such a ceiling, told a reporter he now doubts it would be practical.

"In the light of what Secretary of Defense Marshall and the chiefs of staff have said, I think any limitation would do more harm than good," Douglas said.

Marshall has told Congress four American divisions will be transferred to Eisenhower's force to join the two now in Germany that were placed under him.

Douglas' change of mind left Taft almost alone among Senate leaders in plugging for a limitation. Wherry has said he is against sending even one division.

The Senate committees called other witnesses for testimony on Wherry's resolution to prohibit President Truman from sending any troops to Europe until Congress passes on the issue.

In the House, meanwhile, the Foreign Affairs Committee continued hearings on a bill to authorize $190,000,000 of emergency food aid to India.

Secretary of State Acheson, as the first witness, urged yesterday that Congress act quickly on the Indian aid so as to get the first of a requested 2,000,000 tons of food grains on the way by April 1, as President Truman has requested.

Volunteers Hear Talks at Meeting

Calls for mutual aid among county fire departments should stress the type of equipment needed at a fire, Chief Joseph L. Murphy, of the Kingston fire department, told members of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association last night.

The chief spoke at a meeting of the volunteers who were guests of Ulster Hose Company No. 5, town of Ulster, last night. Nearly 200 attended.

Firemen will be able to act more efficiently if they have the proper equipment on hand, the chief said.

Questionnaires were distributed to delegates of the various fire companies to determine the names of men in each who are candidates for the association's fire police unit. Morris Jacobwitz of Plattekill is chairman.

Fred Harder, secretary of the association, was elected delegate to the New York State Firemen's Association convention at Hotel Astor, New York, from Aug. 20 to 24. The convention parade this year may be held on Fifth avenue, New York. Kenneth Dysen was elected alternate.

Charles Rinschler, insurance man, talked on the proposed three-mile instead of two-mile fire call limit for insurance rating.

The association voted a donation to the heart fund. Refreshments followed the business session.

The firemen will be guests of the Ellenville fire department at its March 20 meeting.

For Potato Scab

Des Moines (AP)—Application of sulphur to the soil will prevent potato scab infection, the most serious potato disease in Iowa, according to botanists at Iowa State College. The botanists found in a research program that an application of 500 to 1,000 pounds of sulphur per acre proved effective in combatting the disease. The sulphur treatment is usually sufficient for a three-year period, they report.

Youngsters Are Blamed for Theft

Local police said today that the reported theft of $64.63 from the cash register of the James Costello grocery store, 210 East Union street, yesterday was traced to two ten-year-old boys.

Officers George Bowers and George Dougherty were sent to the store when the theft was reported at 9:35 p. m., yesterday. They reported that entrance had been made through a side door, and that $32.90 had been left in the register as the other money was taken.

Detectives Clarence Brophy and William Krum were notified and the investigation was continued today. It was indicated that the boys may face children's court hearing, but it was also said that their parents would be called in conference with authorities. Police said about $50 had been recovered.

Officer Francis Fagan reported at 5:55 p. m. Tuesday that a front window in the radio department of Gallop's store on East Strand had been cut by a diamond or glass cutter. Police had not determined by early afternoon today whether this was an attempt to enter the building.

A report at 2:15 p. m. Tuesday said that tools were missing from the garage of Edward T. McGill Corp., Jansen avenue, and that gasoline was being taken from trucks at night.

Another report by Officer Ernest Bartroff at 6:18 p. m., Tuesday said that a plate glass window in a vacant barber shop at 65 East Strand, was apparently broken by a brick "which lay near by." This was not believed to be an attempt at theft.

Farmers represent nearly 30 per cent of the population and 20 per cent of the wealth of the United States.

It's a complex business!
Our clients buy about 50 different kinds of insurance from us. There are five or ten different ways in which each of these can be written. On most of them there are at least three or four different types of endorsements—additions or changes—that can be attached to the contracts.
The worst of it is that these several hundred variables keep changing all the time. Almost every morning our mail is loaded down with changes in forms, changes in rates, changes in the way policies can be prepared.
Keeping track of these complexities, and making sure that our clients get, from the vast variety of policies available, the best insurance at the least cost — that's what our clients pay us for.
We'll be glad to study your policies, without charge or obligation, and make sure for you that the latest changes are checked against your own insurance program to your advantage.

SMILING THROUGH—Despite the pain and discomfort of slings and pulleys that are stretching her spine into straighter position, Sharlene Murray, 7, of Salt Lake City, Utah, smiles bravely. Sharlene faces at least six months of difficult treatment, including plaster casts and a delicate operation before surgeons at Primary Children's Hospital will have straightened her crooked spine.

Two boys from the Wiltwyck School at West Park left the school Tuesday and entered summer cottages owned by Robert C. Richter of New York, at Esopus. The pair, 10 and 11 years old, took a quantity of ammunition, fishing equipment, cards and a couple of gun bayonets after gaining entrance by breaking windows. They were later picked up by Trooper Elliott Johnson of the Highland station in the area and returned to the school. An agreement was made by the school to replace the broken windows. The articles taken were recovered.

It's a complex business!
Our clients buy about 50 different kinds of insurance from us. There are five or ten different ways in which each of these can be written. On most of them there are at least three or four different types of endorsements—additions or changes—that can be attached to the contracts.
The worst of it is that these several hundred variables keep changing all the time. Almost every morning our mail is loaded down with changes in forms, changes in rates, changes in the way policies can be prepared.
Keeping track of these complexities, and making sure that our clients get, from the vast variety of policies available, the best insurance at the least cost — that's what our clients pay us for.
We'll be glad to study your policies, without charge or obligation, and make sure for you that the latest changes are checked against your own insurance program to your advantage.

Battle of Caged Beasts as Seen by Crowd

LeMay Lauds

Russia in event of war. When Wherry asked if they could knock out Russia by long-range bombardment, the general replied: "I don't know. That's my job to try and achieve that end."

Wherry opposes the administration plan to put six army divisions into a combined European defense force against possible Communist aggression.

Le May termed the strategic bombers the greatest deterent to Russian agression at the present time.

"I think we know more about long range bombing than any of our allies and it seems reasonable that should be our major contribution," (to defense of Europe) he said.

This was in line with the thinking of Wherry and some other Republicans, including Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) and former President Herbert Hoover, that the United States should focus its efforts on supplying air and sea power for the North Atlantic defense forces.

Overnight, the Senate group which has been seeking some limitation on the number of American troops which can be sent to Europe lost one supporter. Senator Douglas (D.-Ill.) quit the fight.

Doubts Practicality

Douglas, who had proposed that Congress fix such a ceiling, told a reporter he now doubts it would be practical.

"In the light of what Secretary of Defense Marshall and the chiefs of staff have said, I think any limitation would do more harm than good," Douglas said.

Marshall has told Congress four American divisions will be transferred to Eisenhower's force to join the two now in Germany that were placed under him.

Douglas' change of mind left Taft almost alone among Senate leaders in plugging for a limitation. Wherry has said he is against sending even one division.

The Senate committees called other witnesses for testimony on Wherry's resolution to prohibit President Truman from sending any troops to Europe until Congress passes on the issue.

In the House, meanwhile, the Foreign Affairs Committee continued hearings on a bill to authorize $190,000,000 of emergency food aid to India.

Secretary of State Acheson, as the first witness, urged yesterday that Congress act quickly on the Indian aid so as to get the first of a requested 2,000,000 tons of food grains on the way by April 1, as President Truman has requested.

Volunteers Hear Talks at Meeting

Calls for mutual aid among county fire departments should stress the type of equipment needed at a fire, Chief Joseph L. Murphy, of the Kingston fire department, told members of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association last night.

The chief spoke at a meeting of the volunteers who were guests of Ulster Hose Company No. 5, town of Ulster, last night. Nearly 200 attended.

Firemen will be able to act more efficiently if they have the proper equipment on hand, the chief said.

Questionnaires were distributed to delegates of the various fire companies to determine the names of men in each who are candidates for the association's fire police unit. Morris Jacobwitz of Plattekill is chairman.

Fred Harder, secretary of the association, was elected delegate to the New York State Firemen's Association convention at Hotel Astor, New York, from Aug. 20 to 24. The convention parade this year may be held on Fifth avenue, New York. Kenneth Dysen was elected alternate.

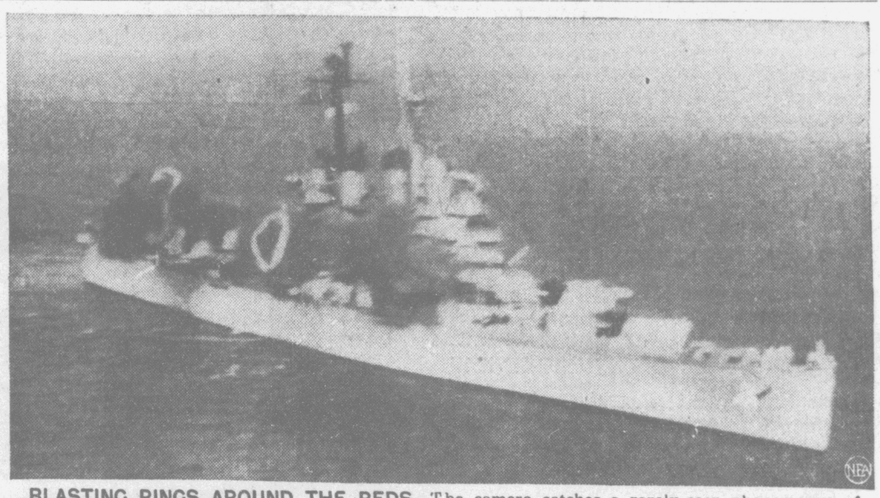
Charles Rinschler, insurance man, talked on the proposed three-mile instead of two-mile fire call limit for insurance rating.

The association voted a donation to the heart fund. Refreshments followed the business session.

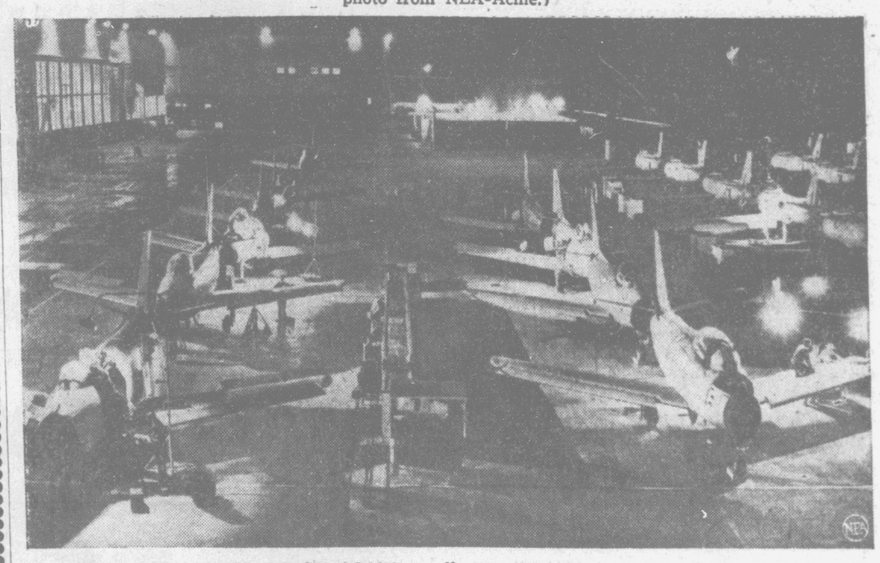
The firemen will be guests of the Ellenville fire department at its March 20 meeting.

For Potato Scab

Des Moines (AP)—Application of sulphur to the soil will prevent potato scab infection, the most serious potato disease in Iowa, according to botanists at Iowa State College. The botanists found in a research program that an application of 500 to 1,000 pounds of sulphur per acre proved effective in combatting the disease. The sulphur treatment is usually sufficient for a three-year period, they report.



BLASTING RINGS AROUND THE REDS—The camera catches a rarely-seen phenomenon of gun flashes as the U. S. cruiser Manchester bombards the Communist-held Korea coastline near Kosong. The Manchester's crew fired 3446 rounds in three days of heavy shelling. (U. S. Navy photo from NEA-Acme.)



"WHEN THE LIGHTS GO ON AGAIN . . ."—The lights have already gone on again at production lines of North American Aviation Co. in Los Angeles, where ramp crews work into the night to meet stepped-up demands for the F-86 Sabre jet fighter. The jet with the sweptback wings has been one of the Air Force's mainstays in Korea.

Youngsters Are Blamed for Theft

Local police said today that the reported theft of $64.63 from the cash register of the James Costello grocery store, 210 East Union street, yesterday was traced to two ten-year-old boys.

Officers George Bowers and George Dougherty were sent to the store when the theft was reported at 9:35 p. m., yesterday. They reported that entrance had been made through a side door, and that $32.90 had been left in the register as the other money was taken.

Detectives Clarence Brophy and William Krum were notified and the investigation was continued today. It was indicated that the boys may face children's court hearing, but it was also said that their parents would be called in conference with authorities. Police said about $50 had been recovered.

Officer Francis Fagan reported at 5:55 p. m. Tuesday that a front window in the radio department of Gallop's store on East Strand had been cut by a diamond or glass cutter. Police had not determined by early afternoon today whether this was an attempt to enter the building.

A report at 2:15 p. m. Tuesday said that tools were missing from the garage of Edward T. McGill Corp., Jansen avenue, and that gasoline was being taken from trucks at night.

Another report by Officer Ernest Bartroff at 6:18 p. m., Tuesday said that a plate glass window in a vacant barber shop at 65 East Strand, was apparently broken by a brick "which lay near by." This was not believed to be an attempt at theft.

Farmers represent nearly 30 per cent of the population and 20 per cent of the wealth of the United States.
